FOR A' THAT AND A' THAT.

A New Version, respectfully recommended to thoughtful men.

More luck to honest poverty,
It claims respect, and a' that;
But honest wealth's a better thing,
We dare be rich, for a' that.
For a' that, and a' that,
And spooney cant and a' that,
A man may have a ten-pun note,
And be a brick for a' that.

What though on soup and fish we dine,
Wear evening togs, and a' that,
A man may like good meat and wine,
Nor be a knave for a' that.
For a' that, and a' that,
Their fustian talk and 'a that,
A gentleman, however clean,
May have a heart for a' that.

You see yon prater called a Beales,
Who bawls and brays and a' that,
Tho' hundreds cheer his blatant bosh,
He's but a goose for a' that.
For a' that, and a' that,
His Bubblyjocks, and a' that,
A man with twenty grains of sense
He looks and laughs at a' that.

A prince can make a belted knight,
A marquis, duke, and a' that,
And if the title 's earned, all right,
Old England's fond of a' that.
For a' that, and a' that,
Beales balderdash, and a' that,
A name that tells of service done
Is worth the wear, for a' that.

KATE LIVINGSTON, OR THE ESTRANGED.

A LESSON FOR WIVES.

While the wintry blast swept in wild gusts along, penetrating the crevices of miserable hovels, and striking the chill of death to the heart of many a poor creature, there were homes of luxury and splendor, where the smallest bijou would have been wealth to many a starving one beneath its shade.

Neither taste nor elegance could have suggested an improvement in the decorations of the apartment where Pierce Livingston and his lovely young wife were cosily chatting away the long winter's evening on the night of which I speak There was happiness there, over which the dark cloud of domestic infelicity was first rising on the horizon, but it was not seen by the happy husband or loving wife.

* * * *

In the gay "saloons" Mrs. Livingston was the bright "particular star." Her bon mots were pronounced sparkling, her toilette exquisite, her manner pleasing in the extreme, and what Mrs. Pierce Livingston wore and what she said, were household words in every fashionable establishment. With the most child-like simplicity of manner Kate had been the presiding deity of her husband's house. Hitherto she had centered her affections in the narrow circle of that home, and lavished all the love of her young heart upon its treasure, as she was wont to call her husband. But now she had stepped across the wonted threshold to go forth into the wide world, leaving its quiet shadows, where her smile had dispensed sunbeams on all around, for the gay and gilded halls where mirth and revelry reigned triumphant. She could not look beyond that brilliant pagentry, and feel that all its glittering display was but the superficial barrier that divided her from the loftier aims and purposes of life; and though the stream of splendor was fair to look on, she knew not that on its deceitful tide she was gliding on to an abyss of wretchedness. In vain had Pierce expostulated and reasoned with her. In vain had he implored her to cease the dissipation which like a whirlpool was drawing her into its narrowing circle, where their peace must be engulfed forever. As night after night was spent in the same ceaseless round of revelry, he renewed his efforts to resume the subject or to lecture her again. From that hour a dark gulf rolled between her and her husband's heart, for Pierce had closed it against her, and estrangement was written above its portal.

Oh! thou wind of midnight; upon thy invisible wings thou bearest a fearful burthen. The widow's wail over the cold clay form of her protector—the deep sigh that bursts from the bosom of remorse—the orphan's cry—the maniac's wildering scream—the last breath that heaves the bosom of expiring humanity as the lamp of life is darkening beneath the shadowy pinions of death. On such a night we behold Kate dressed for a brilliant masquerade. The costume she had selected was one well designed to display her queenly form and heighten charms so radiant as hers. The wealth of her night-black hair folded in a massive coil around her small head, was fastened by a glittering serpent in whose ruby eyes the concentrated light flashed like a fitful flame. As she stood waiting, she contrasted the past with the hollow mockery of the present, when her carriage was announced. She hastily flung her cloak around her, pausing but a moment as she passed the library, as though intently listening, while an old tenderness passed across her face; she uttered a deep sigh that sent a shudder to her heart, but she went on thinking if he but said one word, how gladly would she go to him, with open heart, fling herself at his feet, and in the forgiveness of the past build the joyous hopes of a new and brighter future.

He turned to her with a look of scorn, and said, "I would like to be alone, nor should I desire to detain you from the festive scene where your smiles diffuse so much radiance."

Gathering up the folds of her mantle around her, and bending upon him a look of defiance and reproach, Kate Livingston swept from the room, murmuring, "'Tis well—'tis very well."

The parlors of Mrs. Stevens were illuminated and hung with festoons of rare flowers; in the enclosure of a window that overlooked the garden, stood Kate Livingston. The pale moonbeams, straying through the foliage of the lawn, fell upon her face and revealed the same expression that it wore an hour before when she had crossed her husband's threshold. Her reverie was broken at length by a tap on her shoulder, when turning quickly, her eyes met those of Rashleigh Grant.

'Are you standing for a statue of Niobe, Mrs. Livingston, or are you striving to eclipse yonder bright constellations by the lustre of your eyes.'

'Neither one nor the other, as you awakened me I was dreaming of a paradise where no flatterers were allowed to enter.'

'By the way, where is your gallant husband his evening?'

Her voice was slightly tremulous as she answered, 'Mr. Livingston is at home.'

Could she have gazed upon that husband as he sat in the dim library, where she had left him in his loneliness, and beheld the proud man with his head drooping on his breast, and his whole frame convulsed with agony, while the little pale-faced child crept to his knee, and twining her tiny fingers in his hair, sobbed, 'Don't cry—mamma will come back again.' Could she have looked on that picture she would have fled from the yawning gulf of misery that rolled its turbid waters at her feet, and have been spared the trial of its fearful depths.

'You are sad to-night,' said Rashleigh. 'Will you not confide your sorrows to me, Kate? Surely you are not afraid to trust me?'

'Can you wonder I am sad when I contrast the past with the present; now I can only call a smile upon my lip, while the heart writhes beneath the torture of the effort that it costs.'

'Listen to me, Kate. I love you. Leave the husband who cannot realize your worth, who casts you from him like a toy of which he has grown weary.'

Slowly Kate rose to her feet and cast such a glance of withering scorn on her companion that made his bold eyes seek the ground, unable to meet the proud light of virtue that gleamed in hers.

'You are very kind, Rashleigh Grant, in thus counselling me to give my husband's name to dishonor—to blast, with the blighting breath of a mother's shame, a lovely child. It is generous—it is noble in you, and deserves from me an answer. Know, sir, that though I may be cast from that husband's heart, it is still to me like some sacred shrine, and the thought that I have once been its worshipped idol, shall keep the temple unprofaned, and the light of love that once shone on me from its pure depths will beam in mine until my pulse ceases to throb. Infamy and his noble soul will still be strangers, while it remains with me to keep it untarnished. Farewell, sir!'

'I will win you yet!' he hissed after her as she turned and left him.

The next morning, Mrs. Livingston, as the early sunlight was stealing through the half closed blinds, lay on a lounge with her heavy black hair thrown from off her face, the traces of tears were moist upon her cheeks, when the husband entered. A shudder passed over him as he gazed upon her Ere she could realize her situation, he demanded her to reveal to him all that transpired between herself and Rashleigh Grant on the preceding evening.

Before night a challenge had been sent, and a meeting arranged for the ensuing morning. Thrice had Kate sent word to Rashleigh to avoid the meeting, but although he was unprincipled he was not a coward, and he heeded not her prayers

Pierce arose early in the morn, and bade all in the house farewell. He took the child in his arms and tenderly carressed her, then loosed her from him, and as the dear memories of happier days came thick and fast upon him, he traced these lines to his wife:

'KATE, my own dear wife: A few short moments and I shall depart on a journey from which I may never return, for mine is an errand of life or death! Should I fall you will in those few lines read my full forgiveness of the past. I know you will mourn for me, and let the first bright, unclouded moments of our wedded life alone linger about your heart, and the memory of that happiness will banish the bitter reflections of later years. And now once more farewell. PIERCE.'

He arrived at the place of meeting soon after. The ground was then measured, and the seconds took their places. Rashleigh Grant extended his hand to Pierce and said:

'Pierce Livingston, your wife is innocent, and should I fall, remember that you have listened to a dying man who tells you that she rebuked his insolence as he deserved.'

'I believe you, Rash,' he replied, 'but it is too late to recede.'

The report of pistols echoed through the valley, and ere it died away, Pierce Livingston fell with his life-blood gushing from his heart, dyeing the green sward at his feet. That morning his child awakened worse than ephaned, and his wife to a fearful widowhood.

Alone—it is a little word, but very sad, because we can ponder on it until we shut out the space that widens, till we grow afraid to look.

The fearful lesson saddened many years in the life of Kate Livingston—years in which by prayer and meditation, she learned to follow her Saviour, on whose bosom she found peace. And when at last she was wooed again by one who loved her, she did not accept the offer to become his wife until she had told him of the past. He listened with emotion to her confession, at the conclusion of which he renewed his offer and Kate again became a wife.

A few weeks since I made her a visit Her home is the abode of content, and her life is flowing calmly, interspersed with good deeds. Whenever she thinks it advisable for the good of any of her acquaintances, whom she thinks are in danger of making the same fearful mistake which clouded her young life, she relates her story, and its effects have been for good to many who have listened to the narrative.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The correspondent of the London Globe, writing of Maximilian's funeral at Trieste, says there was little sorrow expressed. All was very orderly and quiet, but it did not impress one with the notion that it was the silence of respect, of reverence, of regret; it was like the silence of people who, having waited three or four hours in the cold, think they have got enough for their pains. People who had come to see a great and gorgeous show were disappointed in finding it was, after all, only a funeral.

John Quincy Adams was in Russia at the time of the invasion by Bonaparte, but he once declared that he never could discover precisely who was the cause of the burning of Moscow. The governor of Moscow denied it, and the Emperor denied having ordered it. Mr. Adams's theory was that if the government had acknowledged that they caused the fire they would have been obliged to indemnity the sufferers.

THE WORLD'S PROGRESS.

We often hear of the lost arts of ancient civilization. We are often called upon to admire the splendid temples, the magnificent theatres, the majestic monumental piles, the exquisite statues, and the splendidly-cut gems of antiquity These external memorials have been left behind by the Greeks and Romans, those colossal nations of early times. Of their social condition, we know only what is gleaned from their literature. We are aware that they had physicians, but we are ignorant of their mode of treatment. The few medical writers whose works have come down to us, seem to have known nearly as much as the modern faculty; indeed, the latter appear to have relied upon Galen for the rudiments of their profession. We have often wondered whether they possessed, at any time in their history, such medicines as have been given to our age by the celebrated Holloway. We conclude that they had not. Who doubts that even though our civilization should fail and the world should relapse into a state of barbarism like that of the middle ages, the name of Thomas Holloway would not still live in the memory of the people? Such benefactors to the human race are never forgotten, as by two inexpensive preparations the rich and poor find a panacea for their ailments; the sailor and the emigrant have a complete medicine chest at their command if they possess a pot of the Ointment and a box of the Pills, well knowing that the former will cure any old wound, sore, or ulcer, while the latter is the finest corrector of the blood to be met with, and is priceless in its efficacy, for in all disorders of the liver and stomach it is unparalleled. We have the best guarantee for what we now state if we may judge by the success of the inventor. It is a common saying that novelty is the order of the day, and that most things, however useful, soon wear themselves out; but has it been so with Holloway or his medicines? And why not? because we hear that nothing that has yet been offered to the public as a medicine which has been found to replace them. We have no desire whatever to puff off Holloway or his preparations; and we assure our friends that if ever we have reason to change our opinion about him or his medicine, we shall not fail to handle him or them accordingly.—Pensylvanie Times.

WAITS AND MEASURES IN ABYSSINIA.—Mule Measure: 50 mules make one muleteer to look after them; 2 muleteers to look after them make 1 good thing of it; 100 good things of it make 1 penny on to the income-tax; 1 penny on to the income-tax makes 10,000,000 Englishmen swear. British Waits: 2 visits to the Horse Guards make one six month's delay; 2 six month's delays make one bit of Bombay management; 12 bits of Bombay management make one Annesley Bay; 100 Annesley Bays make one Abyssinian Expedition. The bare idea of two Abyssinian Expeditions makes one mad.

THE PAIN KILLER ABROAD.

The following correspondence will show something of the estimation in which Perry Davis's Pain Killer is held on the shores of the Mediterranean. It is not surprising that a medicine that receives such testimonials as this from abroad. should find well sustained and increasing appreciation at home.

U. S. CONSULATE, Tunis, Dec. 27, 1865.

To the Proprietors of Davis' Pain Killer, Providence, R. I.

Gentlemen,—The enclosed has just been received from my friend Tulin, late Consul General of Norway and Sweden and of Prussia in this place. No comment is needed. Truly yours,
AMOS PERRY.

GENOA, Dec. 16, 1865.

Dear Sir,—Accept thanks for this third supply of Davis' "Pain Killer." This medicine has often relieved me of serious indisposition, and I would not on any account consent to be without it both for myself and my family.

I have recommended it to my late colleagues and friends in Tunis and Genoa, and at my request one of the largest druggists in this city has sent an order to New York to meet the demands in this place. Yours truly, G. A. TULIN,

Ex-Consul General of Sweden, Norway and Prussia in Tunis.

Hon. Amos Perry, Consul General, Tunis.

JUDSON'S DEAD SHOT WORM CANY.

The following is an extract from a letter received by us from Dr. RUSH, OF NEW YORK. It speaks in trumpet tones for this great remedy; read it: "As I before remarked, I have used your Worm Candy in my practice; now I never said a word in favor of a Patent Medicine before, but I think it just to say to you that your Medicine is no humbug. I have tried it and I know it will do all it claims. It must be one of the most successful medicines of the day, for it is one of the most valuable. Those who have children should never be without it.

AN EFFECTUAL WORM MEDICINE.

Brown's Vermifuge Comfits,

OR WORM LOZENGES. Much sickness undoubtedly, with children and adults, attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. The "VERMIFUGE COMFITS," although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. This valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be safe and sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children.

Children having worms require immediate attention, as neglect of the trouble often causes prolonged sickness.

Symptoms of worms in children are often overlooked. Worms in the stomach and bowels cause irritation, which can be removed only by the use of a sure remedy. The combination of ingredients used in making BROWN'S "VERMIFUGE COMFITS" is such as to give the best possible effect with safety.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER,
HAS proved itself to be the best preparation ever presented to the public; a fact to which thousands have testified who have been benefited by its use.
A few applications of this Compound will change brash, dry and wiry Hair to a moist and glossy appearance, and make it of
SILKEN TEXTURE.
The Proprietors offer the SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER to the public, entirely confident that by its restorative properties it will bring back the Hair to its NATURAL COLOR.
It is not a dye, and consequently does not stain the skin or soil the finest fabric. If the Hair is falling off or becoming grey, the use of the RENEWER will surely arrest its decay, no matter from what cause, and will create a new growth, and make it assume in a short time all its former vigor, as it furnishes the nutritive principle by which the Hair is nourished and supported. As a
HAIR DRESSING,
the RENEWER is unequalled by any other Hair preparation in the world, giving it that beautiful texture which is so much admired by all. It does not contain any poisonous drugs, the basis of its remedial properties being a VEGETABLE COMPOUND. It completely eradicates scruf and dandruff, and cures all diseases of the scalp, and by its cooling properties allays the itching and fever of the scalp. It combines not only the best remedial properties for all diseases of the Hair and Scalp, but also is the best dressing for the Hair. This preparation has been sold for the past seven years entirely upon its own merits.
Beware of the numerous imitations, which in appearance only are similar to it, which are forced upon the public upon our reputation Call for HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER, and take no other, or you will be disappointed.

GENTS.—I have been cured by your wonderful Medicine of one of the worst of diseases, as follows, viz:
I had been afflicted for several years with an internal Tumor, and four years ago I was taken sick with a fever; the old complaint also revived. I had a Doctor attending me, but continued to get worse, we sent for another Doctor. He pronounced it a hopeless case, and said I could not live long. He said the Tumor was then as large as a pint bowl, and was assuming a cancerous nature. I suffered more than tongue can tell. My friends expected me to die daily. They were called in to see me die, and I was reduced to a mere skeleton. I suffered in this dreadful manner for upwards of two years I at length, as a forlorn hope was induced to try your medicine. The first lot seemed to make me worse, and I became discouraged; but the Rev. A. W. Borss advised me to continue. I did so, and soon began to improve, and I am now well again, and a wonder to myself and neighbors. I feel as one raised from the dead. I am a young woman of of 26 years of age. I state these things for the benefit suffering humanity, and I cannot begin to describe the severity of my case—it is widely known in the County of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.
Yours, with much gratitude,
LOIS A. HATFIELD.
We, the undersigned, friends of Miss Hatfield, have much pleasure in endorsing all she says aboea and much more might be said of this most extra ordinary case.

ULCERATED CANCER CURED!
Who needs better proof than the following voluntary testimony of
MRS. HANNAH BALMAIN, OF WICKHAM, N.B.
Some four years since there came a lump in my breast, and at the time I did not know what it was—but on showing it to three Doctors, they told me it was a "CANCER," and for which the knife would have to be applied; then again, I went to a female doctor, who has been in the habit of curing Cancers by drawing them out, but she informed me that it was deep in the flesh and too long seated, and therefore could not help me. Knowing that something must be done, I concluded to try your medicine, which I saw advertised in the Visitor. Accordingly I sent for a can of Ointment and Powder for making the Syrup, which I used without the slightest change at the time. I began to think it was a failure, but concluded to give it another trial; consequently I procured another can of Ointment and Powders, and from its use it gathered and broke in two places, and discharged very freely for about six months, after which time it broke again in another place, and one of the old Ulcers healed up, the remaining two still remaining, one of which ran for two and a half years, the other healing up in about two months after it broke, during which time I used your medicine regularly I may here state, that the last Ulcer healed up about thirteen months ago, since which time I have enjoyed good health. Yes, I may say better health than I have enjoyed for several years.
I remain yours, respectfully,
MRS. HANNAH BALMAIN.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER.
FIVE ISLANDS, Nova Scotia, October 21st, 1867.
Messrs. Rogers & Co,
GENTS:—My daughter is nicely, and you have done wonders, for I never thought you would make a cure as you have done. Her leg appears to be quite strong, but it itches a little.
Yours, &c.,
EDWARD CORBETT.

The above was a very severe case of Scrofula of four or five years standing, and after having baffled the skill of the best Physicians and almost every other Patent Medicine, and the child appeared to be on the verge of the grave, and the parents having lost confidence in everything in the medical line, we undertook the cure for a certain sum, and if we failed we were to get nothing: but we succeeded, as we do in every case of Scrofula we undertake Nearly the whole of the bone from the knee to the ankle came out in pieces from time to time.
ROGERS & CO.

Mrs Edwin Starratt, of Port William, Nova Scotia, after having lost the use of her limbs for upwards of three years, has been fully restored to her former health by the use of our medicine Any one wishing to know the particulars can correspond with Mrs. S. who will give every information.
R. & Co.

Mr. Allen, Editor of the Liverpool Transcript, Nova Scotia, has been cured of a very bad Scrofulous sore on his leg, of several years standing, after every other means failed.
R. & Co.

Miss Miles of Milton, Queen's Co., Nova Scotia, was for upwards of three years suffering from a general derangement of the system. Suspension of the menses, bleeding at the lungs, &c., &c., and to all appearance was fast sinking to the grave. Medical skill and every other means proving ineffectual. In a few months our ALTERATIVE SYRUP restored her to her usual health.
Persons wishing to know the truth of this case can drop a line to the Rev. JOHN HUGHES, Baptist Minister at the above place. We could easily fill pages of newspapers with the relation of such cases, but we deem the above sufficient for the present.
R. & Co.

It usually takes from six to twelve months to effect a cure in cases of long standing, and will cost from thirty to sixty dollars The cheapest way for such cases is to order a $20 box at first, which can be had in New Bruswick by ordering from
JOHN CHALONER, ESQ.,
Corner of King and Germain Street. St. John. But may be had at all the principal Drug Stores by Retail, or address

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION,
and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be far the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all LUNG COMPLAINTS.
This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years; and when resorted to in season, seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaint, &c.
The unequalled success that has attended the application of this medicine in all cases of
PULMONARY COMPLAINTS
has induced many physicians of high standing to employ it in their practice, some of whom advise us of the fact over their own signatures. We have space only for the names of a few of these:—

ALEX. HATCH, M.D.	A. A. GIBBS, M.D.
E. BOYDEN, M.D.	W. H. WEBB, M.D.
WM. A. RUST, M.D.	W. B. LYNCH, M.D.
R. FELLOWS, M.D.	A. SKILLMAN, M.D.
NATHAN PLUMMER, M.D.	H. D. MARTIN, M.D.

BRADFORD KNAPP, M.D.	A. H. MACANAIR, M.D.
SEYMOUR TEACHER, M.D.	S. H. FINLEY, M.D.

Such testimony
CANNOT BE DISCREDITED.
From the mass of evidence in our possession we select the following:—
From L. J. RACINE, Esq.,
of La Minerve, Montreal. "Having experienced the most gratifying results from the use of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, I am induced to express the great confidence which I have in its efficacy. For nine months I was most cruelly afflicted with a severe and obstinate cough, accompanied with acute pain in the side, which did not leave me, summer or winter. The symptoms increased alarmingly, and so reduced was I that I could walk but a few steps without resting to recover from the pain and fatigue which so slight an exertion occasioned. At this juncture I commenced taking the Balsam, from which I found immediate relief, and after having used four bottles I was completely restored to health. I have used the Balsam in my family, and administered it to my children, with the happiest results. I am sure that such Canadians as use the Balsam can but speak in its favor. It is a preparation which has only to be tried to be acknowledged as the remedy par excellence."
A CURE FOR WHOOPING COUGH.
ST. HYACINTHE, C.E., Aug. 21, 1856.
Messrs. SETH W. FOWLE & SON.
Gentlemen:—Several months since a little daughter of mine, ten years of age, was taken with Whooping Cough in a very aggravated form, and nothing we could do for her seemed in any way to relieve her suffering. We at length decided to try a bottle of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. In three hours after she had commenced using it, she was greatly relieved, and in less than three days was entirely cured, and is now well. I have since recommended the Balsam to many of my neighbors, who have used it, and in no case have I known it fail of effecting a speedy cure.
You are at liberty to make any use of the above you think proper. If it shall induce anybody to use your Balsam I shall be glad, for I have great confidence in it.
Yours, P. GUITTE,
Proprietor of the Courrier de St. Hyacinthe.
Clergymen, Lawyers, Singers, and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY REMEDY which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties. This Remedy, unlike most others, is extremely PLEASANT TO TASTE.
A small quantity allowed to pass over the irritated part at once removes the difficulty.

The Most Reliable Friend!

Holloway's Ointment.

Its Searching & Healing Properties are known and recognized throughout the World.

The number of years this invaluable Ointment has stood the test of public opinion, (and the longer known the better appreciated) is a testimony of itself more convincing than anything that could be written in praise of its truly wonderful healing properties. In the cure of bad legs, bad breasts, sores, wounds, and ulcers, its effect is marvellous. For ring-worm, scald-head, scrofula, and diseases of the skin generally, there is no remedy to be compared to it. When assiduously rubbed upon the skin (previously well bathed in warm water) this Ointment is quickly absorbed into the system, and cleanses, in its passage, every part to which it is applied.

Glandular Swellings, Mumps, Bronchitis, Quinsey, Sore Throats and Diptheria.

In any of the above diseases, immediate and permanent relief is obtained by effectually rubbing this detergent Ointment, twice a day, upon the neck, chest and back. Its acts upon the very mainsprings of life; for through the glands pass all new matter required for the body's reparation and all old particles detrimental to its preservation. The Ointment, used conjointly with Holloway's Pills, will act so searchingly and certainly as to effect cures in the most hopeless cases.

Rheumatism, Lumbago, Contracted and Stiff Joints.

Many thousands of martyrs from the above complaints have found life almost unsupportable; yet, if Holloway's Ointment be briskly and perseveringly rubbed upon the parts affected, ease may be safely guaranteed, especially if the pores of the skin be previously opened by fomentations with warm water. The gross humors require expulsion from the system; it is therefore necessary to have recourse to Holloway's admirable Pills, which, by purifying and strengthening the system, greatly assist the operation of the Ointment and facilitate and confirm the cure.

Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, and Ulcerations of all kinds.

There is no medicinal preparation in the world which may be so thoroughly relied upon, in the treatment of the above ailments, as Holloway's Ointment. Nothing can be so simple or safe as the manner in which it is applied, or its action on the body, both locally and constitutionally. The Ointment, rubbed around the part affected, enters the pores just as salt enters meat. It quickly penetrates to the source of the evil and drives it from the system.

Erysipelas and Scrofulous Sores.

In all irritations of the skin, sores, ulcers, burns or scrofulous enlargements of any kind, Holloway's Ointment presents a ready and easy means of cure. It manifests a peculiar power in restraining inflammation, removing stagnation, cooling the heated blood, and checking all acrimonious and unhealthy discharge.

Diseases attendant on Childhood.

Diseases incident to early life fall more under the management of the mother than the medical man. Holloway's Ointment should therefore be regarded by her as a "Household Treasure," as it never fails in bringing out the rash in measles and scarlatina; and for the removal of all skin diseases its effect is miraculous. In cases of whooping cough and croup, this invaluable Ointment should be rubbed twice a day upon the throat and chest, and the youngest invalid will derive therefrom the most soothing relief. Two or three of Holloways's famous Pills, reduced to a powder, will augment the curative powers of the Unguent.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:

Bad Legs	Corns (soft)	Rheumatism
Bad Breasts	Cancers	Scald Heads
Burns	Contracted and Stiff Joints	Sore Nipples
Bunions	Elephantiasis	Sore Throats
Bite of Moschetoes and Sand Flies	Fistulas	Skin Diseases
Coco-bay	Gout	Scurvy
Chiego-foot	Glandular Swellings	Sore Heads
Chilblains	Lumbago	Tumours
Chapped Hands	Piles	Ulcers
		Wounds
		Yaws
