Further Adjournment Of Inquest On Infant's Body

The inquest into the death of an unknown infant boy found in the muddy bottom of Government Pond on March 12th, was further adjourned last night when the jury met at City Hall. The inquest is being conducted by chief coroner, Dr. L. E. Prowse.

The jury, after retiring 15 minutes, failed to make any final decision and asked to have the case adjourned until Thursday, May 29th.

The jury foreman said that the rest of the jury had decided that an adjournment was being called in hopes that more evidence might be forthcoming. It was also suggested to the crown prosecutor, J. P. Nicholson, that a substantial reward be posted for any information leading to the mother of the child. Mr. Nicholson assured the jury that the reward would be posted in the newspaper today.

Further evidence concerning the circumstances surrounding the death of the baby was produced by Chief of Police C. W. L. MacArthur, Chief MacArthur showed, as evidence, the wad of paper that was found in the child's mouth. Laboratory tests at the R.C.M.P. Laboratory in Charlottetown, N. B., indicated that the paper was the blue wrapping paper of a roll of "Purex" toilet tissues.

In evidence forwarded to the jury at the first inquest held on April 1st, it was proved that the infant's death had been due to asphyxiation, probably caused by the wad of blue paper.

The body was found at noon on March 12 by an 11-year-old school boy as he was stumping the bergs in Government Pond.

The report that the death had been due to asphyxiation was arrived at following an autopsy on the body at the Charlottetown Hospital by acting Provincial pathologist, Dr. George Eisinger.

GM Ends Its Union Contract

By DWIGHT PITKIN DETROIT (AP) — General Motors took over the driver's seat Tuesday in bargaining talks with the United Auto Workers Union. In an unprecedented move, the company terminated its current 3-year contract with the union effective at midnight May 29.

This took the union by surprise. It is the one that usually serves such notice. It already has notified Chrysler and Ford their contracts are to be terminated effective June 1. The Ford and Chrysler contracts differ slightly from General Motors' and termination by the company is standard procedure. These companies followed the union's notice with their own.

By calling the signals on contract termination, General Motors virtually invited the UAW to make the world's biggest manufacturing firm its strike target rather than putting the heat on Ford and Chrysler.

UNION PLANS SECRET Bu UAW vice-president Leonard Woodcock, head of the union's General Motors bargaining team, made it clear the union has no intention of disclosing any plans it may have for possible strike action.

Woodcock told reporters the union "will not be manoeuvred into a strike, particularly at a time hand-picked by the company."

General Motors' bold action Tuesday followed its rejection Monday of the union's bid for a three-month extension of the present contract until September.

The company was quick to declare this would strengthen the union's bargaining position by having the contract expire when the auto industry goes into production on 1959 models.

Ford and Chrysler just as emphatically rejected the same bid. UNION WEAPON BLUNTED The union's strike threat weapon has been blunted by a backlog of 850,000 unsold cars and heavy layoffs in the industry.

Woodcock said General Motors has made no offer so far that the union believes is worth considering. Bargaining started March 25. The union's main demand is for a share of the company's profits.

With the news blackout off, the GM-UAW talks were recessed until Thursday.
