Andrew Jenkins, Women's Editor. Phone 4-8888

Mr. and Mrs. Don MacLeod, Iristown left recently for Edmonton, Alta., to visit the former's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford MacLeod.

Lorrie Reeves, Ross' Corner, is visiting his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Harrington, in Framingham, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Reeves and daughter, Susan, Lower Freetown, left recently by train for Hamilton, Ont., where they will be the guests of Mr. Reeves' nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lester. They will also visit other friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Blackmore, Kensington, left by train recently for western Canada, where they will spend the next few months visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Walter Reeves has returned to her home at Ross' Corner after being a patient in the Prince County Hospital for the past five weeks.

An afternoon tea was held recently at the home of Mrs. Horace Paynter, Clinton, when the members of the Myrtle Rhoads Women's Missionary Society, former members, and the immediate family gathered to honor Mrs. George Mayhew on her recent marriage. Christmas flowers and decorations adorned the rooms.

Mrs. Paynter, the WMS president, welcomed the guests. Mrs. Scott Clark read an appropriate address and Mrs. Lorne Crozier made a presentation on behalf of the WMS members and former members. An individual gift was also presented by a friend.

Mrs. Ralph Moase presided at the tea table and refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Anna Paynter, Mrs. James Paynter, Mrs. Earle Semple, Mrs. Lorne Crozier, and Mrs. Scott Clark.

A pre-nuptial miscellaneous shower was held recently at the Port Hill school, in honor of Priscilla Strongman of Port Hill, who has since become the bride of Melvin Capeman of Toronto, Ont. The school was suitably decorated for the occasion. Millicent Ramsay escorted the bride to a seat of honor where she was presented with gifts. Charlotte Ramsay read the accompanying verses and Dianne Yoc arranged the gifts.

MARY HAWORTH

Wife, Mother Of Five Sure Mate Is Straying

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been married 15 years and have five children. My husband is handsome, charming and professionally respected. He is marvelous father to the children; but between us there is strain, tension and distrust.

For some time I have suspected an outside alliance. It isn't my imagination. Many times I've assured myself there were innocent reasons why lipstick stains were on his shirt, only to have other damning evidence turn up days later.

If I question him, he never explains; just denies everything with great anger and vehemence. Now I've stopped questioning him, as I can't bear to have the children upset by the wrangling. But I continue to fret and worry.

His attitude seems to say "You are the children's mother and I am their father; but between us there is nothing. You have never had it better and I don't have to account to you for anything." I think he feels that as long as he provides for us and is a good father, his conjugal duty is met.

I am tied down with the baby and I shrink from shadowing him. Our close mutual friends have shunned us of late. I can't discuss the situation with anyone, as it is important to his position that his home life be blameless.

I am obsessed with the question: Is he unfaithful or not? Would that somebody give me the facts, so that I could face him on solid ground. If I knew he was cheating I am sure I could put a stop to it; he has too much to lose.

If I had only myself to consider, pride would have taken me away months ago. But with children involved, you think and think again.

I have nobody to turn to except God and He seems to say, "Have faith; hold on." But He doesn't say what to do when there's no faith left and the vow "forsaking all others" has been broken. What does one do then?

Don't tell me to get a new wardrobe or hair-do. I keep myself up, read and stay abreast of the times and get along well with all our friends. S. P. DEAR S. P.: As you've produced five children in 15 years' marriage and currently are "tied down" with a baby, it could hardly be said, much less proved, that you and your husband live as strangers of sorts under the same roof.

So it may be that by nature you are a dreary character, given to over-emphasizing problems, anxieties, suspicions, etc. and given also to passive dependent self-pity and heavy reproach of others, when weighing your experiences against your expectations of life.

It may be that your husband has slipped and fallen, so to speak, into an outside alliance (to borrow your phrase); and that the savagery of his denials has pitched to the intensity of your frightened guilt feelings, at running the risk of being exposed to your redoubled merciless nagging if you find him out.

You aren't speaking in accents of love and heartbreak in saying (as you do): "Would that somebody give me the facts so that I could face him on solid ground. If I knew he was cheating I am sure I could put a stop to it; he has too much to lose."

You are implacably disposed to use blackmail of sorts to bring him to heel. If only you could manage it. I take it your basic feelings toward him are cold as ice, and that whether you go or stay, your primary consideration tends to be "What is it for me?"

If you've nobody to turn to but God, that's probably a potential great blessing. Because to receive God's gift you've got to put off pride and preference and holier-than-thou self righteousness, and start from scratch in reborn humility to minister to possibly sinful associates in a spirit of love that is compassionate, hopeful and non-judgmental; that "thinketh no evil" and "seeeth not her own." (See I Corinthians 13.)

In short, what you do now is get up off your face, from the rut you're in and start to grow, morally and psychologically. A new wardrobe and a new hair-do, if you can afford them, won't do any harm and could be a worthwhile improvement, if they make you more pleasing in the sight of others. M. H.

Couple Observes 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Newsome, Rose Valley, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy MacLennan, Breadalbane.

Mrs. Newsome was the former Mabel Gamester of Breadalbane.

In the evening, relatives gathered to shower the couple with gifts and good wishes.

An address was read by their daughter, Mrs. Roy MacLennan and a gift was presented on behalf of the immediate family by their only son, Stirling Newsome. Their grandchildren also made a presentation and other gifts were presented.

A buffet supper was served, the table being centered with an anniversary cake made by Mrs. Newsome's sister, Mrs. Fred Thomas.

Those serving were: Susie Gamester, Mrs. Fred Wigmore, Mrs. Lloyd MacLennan and Roberta Sherren.

Instrumental music and dancing occupied the remainder of the evening.

Baked Caramel Custard Deep Dish Dessert Treat

One chicken is a convenient bird; by simple arithmetic, two chickens are twice as convenient. Your supermarket features economical two-chickens (or even three) in a bag at birdwise prices. Cook the birds all at one time and use one or two for Sunday Dinner. Store the remainder to use later on.

Pleasingly Plump Today's bird is easier to cook than ever before. Because of increased knowledge of scientific breeding and feeding, it comes to market at the age of 9 1/2 weeks, and while it is still pleasingly plump, it is considerably more tender than its forebears.

If two birds are used for a dinner party, try roasting them with different stuffings and offering your guests their choice.

To Pat Custards Together: Combine the milk, slightly beaten eggs, additional sugar, salt and vanilla and stir well. Turn into the caramel-lined custard cups. Stand them in a pan; pour in hot water to the height of the cups. Bake in a mod. oven, 350 degrees F., about 30 min., or until firm in the center and lightly browned on top, or until a pick inserted in the center comes out clean. Remove from the water. Cool. Refrigerate at least 1 hr. before serving.

To Serve: Turn into deep dessert dishes. Serve "as is" or garnished with Mandarin orange sections.

TOMORROW'S DINNER FROM THE CHEF

MR. AND MRS. JOHN E. HANCOCK

Hancock-Ramsay Marriage Solemnized In Summerside

A wedding of local interest took place at the Summerside Bible Chapel recently when Judith Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Ramsay of Summerside, became the bride of John Earl Hancock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell W. Hancock of Summerside.

Stanley Wells performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Gordon Warnholtz was pianist and accompanied Mrs. Donald A. Goddard as she sang "The Wedding Prayer" during the ceremony and "The Song of the Ruth" during the signing of the register. Baskets of white and pink flowers with green bows adorned the chapel front, while the guest pews were marked with white satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional floor-length gown of white velvet with fitted bodice, scoop neckline and long lily point sleeves. The gown featured a train which flowed from a bow at the waistline. Her head dress, a satin wedding ring crown trimmed with brilliants and pearls, held a tiered veil of nylon tulle. She carried a cascade of pink roses and white Fuji mums. Her only jewellery was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

Linda MacKay, maid of honor and Sandra Taylor, bridesmaid, wore identical floor-length dresses of jade green peau de soie with elbow-length ruffled sleeves. They carried Victorian bouquets of pink carnations and white pom poms with rainbow colored streamers. Little Sharon Warnholtz as flower girl was in a floor-length dress of pink peau de soie made on similar lines to those of the other attendants. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations and carnations and white pom poms. All wore pillbox headresses of matching satin.

The groom was attended by Owen MacRae of Charlottetown and the ushers were Ernest Heckbert and Lowell Huestis of Summerside.

Mrs. Ramsay choosing a sheath of blue lace over crepe with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Hancock the groom's mother, wore a suit of bronze with matching accessories and pastel mink stole. Her corsage was of Orange Delight roses.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Lucy MacKay, was attired in a periwinkle blue sheath with matching accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations.

The reception which followed, was held at the Kensington Recreation Centre with 100 guests attending. Robert Dowie of New Brunswick Bible Institute, Victoria, N. B., proposed the toast to the bride. The groom is a graduate of New Brunswick Bible Institute at Victoria, N. B., and the bride also attended. The New Brunswick Bible Institute Male Quartet rendered two musical selections. Judy Perry of Halifax, N. B., circulated the guest book.

For a honeymoon trip to points of interest in New Brunswick and Maine, the bride donned a sky blue suit of hand-woven wool, pastel mink hat, brown leather bag and shoes and corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Hancock are residing in Summerside.

Teachers Given Centennial Ideas

TORONTO (CP) — The Centennial Commission is sending a 200 - page guide to Canada's 250,000 teachers to help them set up programs of activities for their students next year.

The guide covers such subjects as art, music, geography business and history. It offers ideas for plays and pageants, reading material for students and suggestions for such activities as tree - planting expeditions and visits to interesting places.

Emphasis is on individual class and school programs but several projects would involve co-operative effort among schools across Canada.

The commission hopes, for example, that at least one day a month will be set aside during the school year for special activities on a country-wide basis, each school using the same theme.

January would lead off with Canada day, introducing Centennial Year, February would have flag day, March would have a day concentrating on ethnic groups, April and May would emphasize the country's human and natural resources, and June would have one or more sports days.
