Royal Appreciation Of Picture From P.E. Island

Lt. Colonel Johnstone's fine model of Glamis Castle (above), built to adorn his lawn at Long River, is well known to thousands of visitors as well as to Prince Edward Islanders. Recently a picture of this model of the famous Scottish castle, where Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother was born, was forwarded to Her Majesty by Mr.

James Pendergast, of Kensington. Mr. Pendergast has received a very appreciative letter from Buckingham Palace on Her Majesty's behalf, expressing her keen interest and asking Mr. Pendergast to convey Her Majesty's congratulations to Colonel Johnstone on the model.

Tyne Valley Notes

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Eliza Stewart on Thursday evening March 5th.

be anybody at the foot of the very tree in which those Hawks were living. So he trotted past and never guessed that he was so close to a dinner of which he is especially fond. He didn't guess that a pair of bright eyes were watching him contentedly.

Later that day, Jimmy Skunk ambled past. Jimmy would have liked those eggs she was sitting on, but it never entered his white-capped head to look for eggs in such a place as that.

"I knew it," said Mrs. Grouse to herself. "I knew it all the time. This is the safest place for a nest that I could have found in all the Green Forest. No one dreams that I would choose such a place for a nest, so no one looks for it here."

Once there was a whirl of wings, and Mr. Grouse lighted on the ground right in front of Mrs. Grouse, and just a little way out from her. For a moment or two he stood perfectly still with his head held up. He was looking, and listening. Then he heard a young Hawk crying in the nest above. With a roar of his stout wings he roared away. He didn't want to be in that neighborhood any longer than was necessary.

Mrs. Grouse chuckled softly to herself.
