Joint Canada-U.S. Cabinet Committee Is Discussed

World Situation, Defence Co-operation Considered

OTTAWA (CP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker, launching their informal talks, Tuesday discussed the possibility of setting up a joint Canada-U.S. cabinet committee on defence.

In an initial 95-minute conference, the two leaders also reviewed the world situation, particularly the Western defensive position vis-a-vis the Soviet Union.

In the general defensive picture, they discussed Joint Canada-U.S. defence co-operation, both for this continent and in relation to their common association in the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance.

The discussion of a possible joint cabinet committee on defence apparently grew out of the defence discussion but it was not known immediately whether its functions would be limited to continental security arrangements.

Briefing officers said later they did not know whether the proposal originated on the Canadian or the American side of the talks, which took place in the study of Mr. Diefenbaker's official residence.

LONG TALK
This first get-together during the president's three-day visit to Ottawa, coming five hours after Mr. Eisenhower's arrival by air from Washington, lasted much longer than the originally-scheduled one hour. The talks are to continue today and Thursday.

Tuesday's talks on the world situation also embraced disarmament, including Western proposals for inspection zones and aerial surveillance of the Arctic regions which lie between Canada and the U.S.S.R.

On the domestic side, economic problems between the two countries were discussed. But James C. Hagerty, the president's press secretary, emphasized that defence and the world situation predominated.

Sitting in with the president and the prime minister were U.S. State Secretary Dulles, Canada's External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, U.S. Ambassador Livingston B. Merchant, and Norman Robertson, Canadian Ambassador in Washington.

OTHERS JOIN IN
Mr. Dulles and Mr. Smith continue their talks on Canada-U.S. problems today, when Mr. Smith will be joined by Finance Minister Fleming Trade Minister Churchill and Agriculture Minister Harkness.

The size and composition of the Canadian team at these discussions indicated the ground to be covered would be largely of an economic nature.

Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Diefenbaker hold their next formal session Thursday but both Mr. Hagerty and James Nelson, the prime minister's press secretary, said the two leaders hope to get together privately some time during the visit.

One Fisherman Killed In Fall; Seek To Save Other

ANTONITO, Colo. (AP) — The body of one of two Albuquerque fishermen who fell hundreds of feet down a canyon wall after separating from a four-man fishing party Friday was recovered Tuesday night.

Rescue operations continued in an effort to bring the other out from his precarious perch 500 feet down the wall where he hung apparently not seriously hurt.

William E. Garver, 38, auditor for the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque was identified as the man whose body had been removed from a spot 350 feet below John Sanders who tumbled with him. Searchers said they thought he had been killed instantly.

A pilot spotted the two men Monday. Sanders had escaped death when his fall was broken by a gnarled pine, the only tree within 400 yards of the spot. Rescuers lowered a man to administer first aid.

DANGER OF ROCKSLIDE
An army helicopter from Fort Carson and an L-19 reconnaissance plane carried four experienced mountain climbers into the area when it was learned rocks were so jagged ropes could not be used safely.

Rescue was complicated by the danger that any movement might touch off a rock slide and by the deep gloom of the canyon. Only at noon are its lower walls touched by sunlight.

Bill MacIntyre, a professional guide with the rescue party, said Sanders was not believed seriously hurt.

"We got a rope down to him and were able to talk to him," he said. "Then later we sent a man down a rope to stay with him. Sanders is weak from no food and water and the night cold, but outside of that, not bad. We sent down food and water."

He said Sanders was in shock and unable to relate what happened as the two men climbed along a narrow canyon trail Friday night.

Housemaid Is Sentenced To Seven Years For Abduction

MONTREAL (CP) — Greta Goede, described by the court as an insane woman, was sentenced Tuesday to seven years in penitentiary for the abduction of Joel Reitman, 2 1/2-year-old son of a wealthy family.

The 46-year-old housemaid pleaded guilty in Sessions Court to both kidnapping and abduction. Judge Lucien Gendron dealt only with the abduction count, which carries a maximum term of 10 years. He said argument over application of an article in the Criminal Code dealing with kidnapping indicated the article needs clarification. A maximum term for kidnapping is life imprisonment.

"I have no doubt that she is insane," said Judge Gendron of the German-immigrant maid. He said he hopes deportation proceedings will be taken as soon as possible.

NO EMOTION
Mrs. Goede, who wore a gray suit with black edging, showed no emotion before or after her sentence.

The Reitman child, heir to the family's chain-store business in women's apparel, was taken from his home Saturday, June 14. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Reitman, had gone out for the evening. Joel was left with Mrs. Goede, their maid.

When they returned, the boy and the maid were gone. A ransom note demanding $10,000 and threatening death for the boy, was found.

Queen Sent To Bed With Cold

LONDON (AP) — The Queen was sent to bed with sinus trouble and a heavy cold Tuesday. This led to speculation she may be overworked and receiving too many bouquets.

The Queen became ill Monday night on a tour of Scotland with Prince Philip. She cancelled plans to attend historical ceremonies at Carlisle, in northern England. Then instead of flying back to London as originally planned, she returned by train.

The 32-year-old monarch looked strained when she reached London's Euston Station.

Signs U.S. Recession Is Waning

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported Tuesday that unemployment soared to a 17-year peak in June but it said other factors hint the recession may be waning.

An expected influx of students and graduates to the labor market was the main reason for big increases in both employment and unemployment. A student who isn't looking for work isn't classed as being unemployed.

The commerce and labor departments said employment rose by 920,000 from May to 64,981,000 in June. That figure was about 1,500,000 lower than employment in June last year.

Unemployment increased by 533,000 to 5,497,000 — the highest jobless total recorded since 1941. The June unemployment figure is 2,100,000 greater than a year ago.

On the favorable side was a sizable 150,000 improvement in factory employment, the first gain in this recession-hit category in a year and a half.

Longer hours helped increase average factory pay to $83.10 a week, a record.

A further reduction was reported in the number of long-term unemployed. Workers idle 15 weeks or longer declined in two months from 1,900,000 in April to 1,600,000 in June. This is still three times greater than last year.

FINED $50
HALIFAX (CP) — Charles Garnet Wheeler of Halifax was fined $50 here Tuesday for sending Irish sweepstakes tickets through the mails. Wheeler pleaded guilty to the charge before Magistrate J.F. McManus.

Forests In N.S. May Be Closed

HALIFAX (CP) — Chief Forester Robert Burgess said Tuesday Nova Scotia forests won't be closed "if a heavy amount of rain" falls in the next few hours.

He said 142 forest fires this year have so far burned 800 acres of woodland.

Fattest Man Is Seriously Ill

BREMEN, Ind. (AP) — Robert Earl Hughes, possibly the fattest man in the world, lay seriously ill Tuesday in a makeshift trailer home parked outside Bremen Community Hospital.

The 32-year-old carnival attraction claimed a weight of 1,041 pounds. He has a 122-inch waist and measures 40 inches around each upper arm.

Hughes' dimensions baffled hospital attendants when he was brought to them Sunday suffering from a heart condition, a congested chest, and possibly measles.

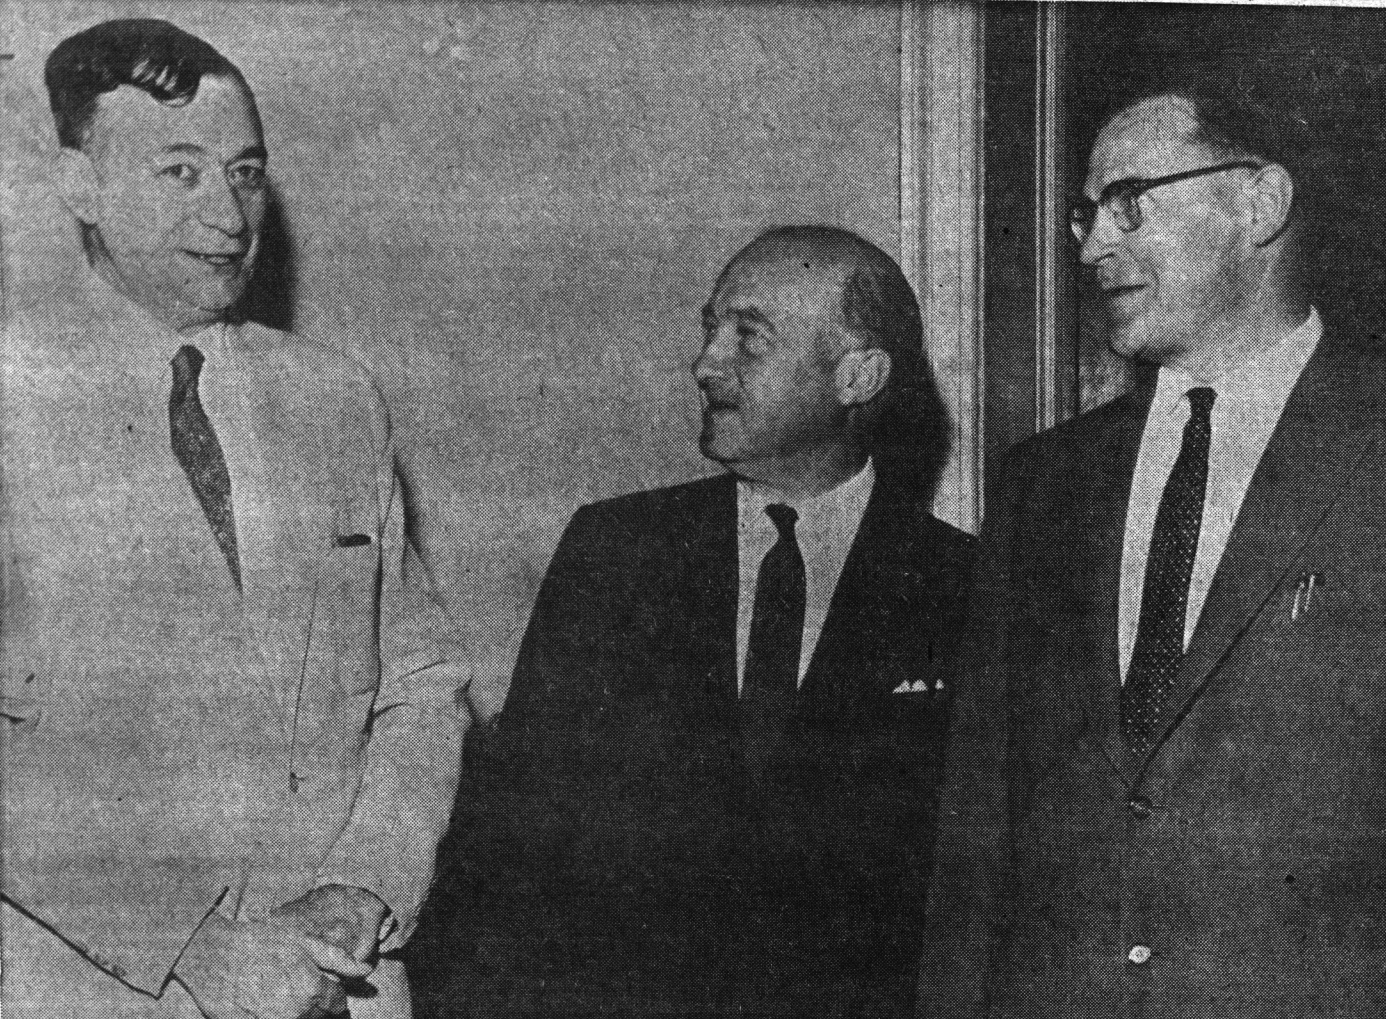

No hospital bed would support his weight. Neither would any hospital cart. Rough measurements indicated he couldn't be taken through the doors of the rooms.

There was nothing to do but leave Hughes in his trailer home, semi-reclining on a combination bed-chair built of heavy timber. Oxygen tanks were installed in the trailer and nurses climbed a ladder to attend the man.

Khrushchev Declares Will Defeat West Without War

BERLIN (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev told a rally in Communist East Germany Tuesday night Russia will defeat capitalism without war.

The visiting Soviet premier cited the United States recession and Soviet Sputnik triumphs as proof of his claim.

The Russian leader also called for efforts to make Yugoslavia get in step with the Soviet bloc. Khrushchev came here for the East German Communist party congress opening Thursday.

Addressing some 200,000 listeners by Communist count—in the East German industrial town of Halle, Khrushchev declared: "The Sputnik, that is our victory. It is the science and wisdom of the Communist movement."

"The others have three—spatniks, late-niks and grapefruits," he said, "but what are these three against one Sputnik?"

Khrushchev said the capitalists were always arguing that farmers and workers are not able to run a country.

"Then you should have it very simple to win the contest, you capitalists," he said.

"Now the entire world knows where the crisis is developing and where economy is flourishing," he went on. "The Soviet Union will build seven new furnaces this year with a capacity of 4,600,000 tons of iron. I ask by how many tons can the United States increase its output?"

"There is only one socialist country which is limping—Yugoslavia," he said. "Great efforts must be made so Yugoslavia marches with us."

Five-Year-Old Girl Is Alive After Three Days In Woods

MALONE, N.Y. (AP)—A five-year-old girl who vanished three days ago in the Adirondack wilderness was found alive Tuesday.

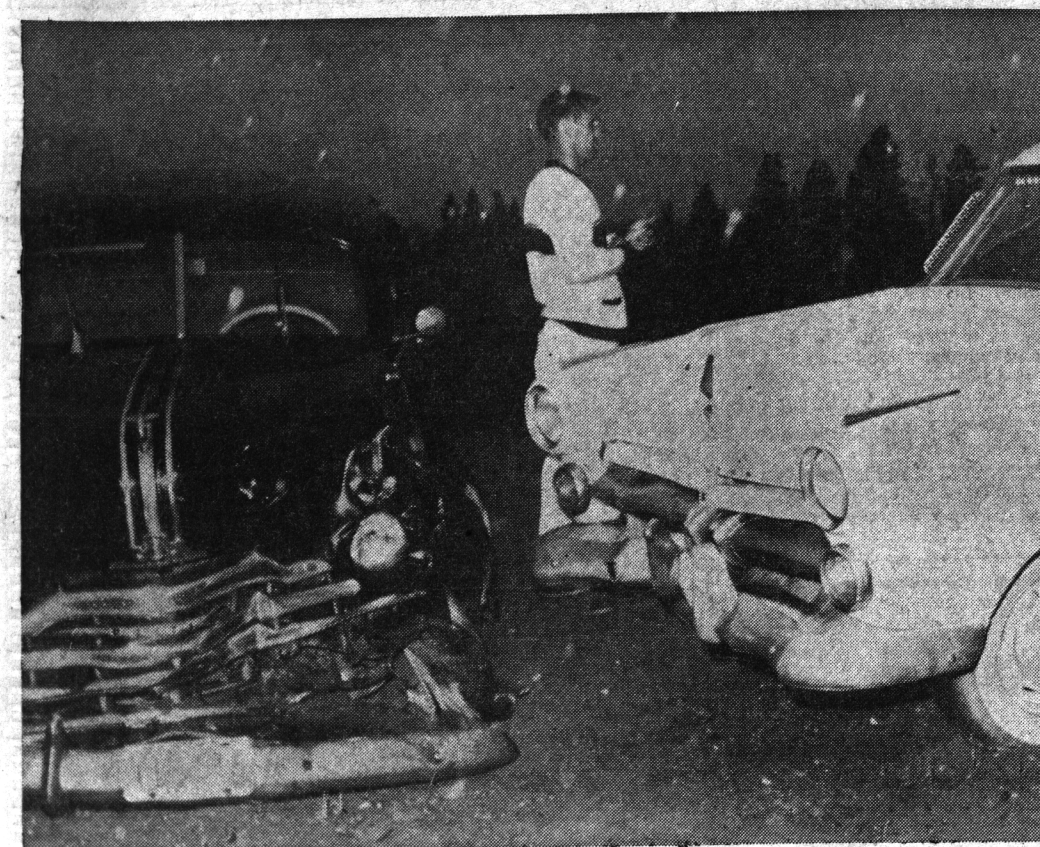

Blue-eyed Brenda Jean Doud was discovered in a swampy area near Eagle Pond, the area into which she wandered Sunday afternoon.

She was taken to a hospital in Malone where her condition was reported good.

The search force, including state police, soldiers and volunteers, had grown to about 500 persons. Helicopters and bloodhounds were used.

Brenda, wearing a blue blouse and blue shorts, wandered away from where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Doud of Massena, were building a camp.

OTTAWA LADY INJURED IN CRASH

A visitor to this Province, Mrs. MacDonald of Ottawa, was taken to the City Hospital last evening for treatment of injuries received in a head-on collision which occurred on the Trans-Canada Highway about one-half mile east of Cornwall at approximately 7:00 p.m.

Mrs. MacDonald was said to have sustained several fractured ribs.

The injured lady was a passenger in a 1948 Pontiac coach (shown left) driven by her sister Mrs. Evelyn Gill of Charlottetown. The other vehicle involved, a 1953 Meteor, was driven by Robert Hickox, formerly of Charlottetown, now residing in Moncton.

Neither Mrs. Gill, Mr. Hickox, or the other two passengers in the Meteor were injured in the mishap.

MRS. GOEDE

The money was left, as instructed, in the women's restroom of a downtown bus station. A policeman acted as restroom attendant. No attempt was made to get the money.

The boy was found three days after his abduction at the home of taxi-driver Edouard Royer in Ottawa. Royer had taken the child to his home at request of a woman who said she was "going shopping." When she failed to return he telephoned police. Mrs. Goede was arrested the next day in Toronto.

Three Little Girls Charm U.S. President At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Three little girls in blue wowed the president of the United States Tuesday.

In fact, President Eisenhower was so taken by one of them that he told her he'd like to paint her picture.

All grand-daughters of Canada's Governor-General Massey, they formed an informal welcoming committee as the president and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived at Government House, Mr. Massey's residence, to open a goodwill visit to Canada.

As the presidential couple drove up Jan. 9, Evva, 8, and Susan, 6, were lined up on the steps of the great, grey stone residence with their mother. Their father, Lionel Massey, is the governor-general's son and secretary.

The three blonde tots, dressed in blue sunsuits, caught the president's eye as soon as his car stopped. The president and Mrs. Eisenhower lingered behind, bending over to shake three tiny hands.

"My, I'd like to paint your picture," the president, an amateur artist of some note, told six-year-old Susan, chucking her under the chin.

Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Diefenbaker hold their next formal session Thursday but both Mr. Hagerty and James Nelson, the prime minister's press secretary, said the two leaders hope to get together privately some time during the visit.

Stock Trading Eases Slightly On Toronto Mart

TORONTO (CP) — Profit-takers invaded the stock market Tuesday to keep the trading pot boiling but activity was not as heavy as in Monday's record-breaking session.

Most of the action was again centred around low-priced mines. In most cases Monday's gainers were Tuesday's heaviest losers.

Final volume was 12,534,000 shares, down considerably from Monday's 15,699,000, the heaviest in Toronto's 106 years of stock market history. Tuesday's volume ranked sixth in all-time totals.

During the first hour the high-speed ticker-tape, which can usually cope with any sustained action, fell as much as 15 minutes behind floor transactions. It caught up by noon and remained steady for the rest of the session.

Holstein Breeders Honour Their National Secretary

Holstein Breeders throughout the Province last night held an informal get-together on the occasion being a visit from their national secretary, George M. Clemens of Brantford Ontario.

Following a talk from Mr. Clemens at Birch Court a question and answer period took place while breeders enjoyed coffee and lobster-burgers. Mr. Clemens told the get-together that Holstein Breeders must "raise their sights" and strive for the production of "Canadian Holsteins" rather than just "Prince Edward Island Holsteins."

He suggested a Maritime sales organization which would be constantly on the alert for probable sales of good producing animals. Mr. Clemens recalled that some years ago, Island Holsteins enjoyed a more widely known reputation outside the Province than they do today. He would like to see a revival of this export trade.

The National Secretary complimented the breeders who have made good showings at the Royal Winter Fair and encouraged them to keep striving for top quality production. He felt that artificial insemination was doing a great deal to improve the status of the ordinary herd but advised established breeders to still retain their own herd sires as a means of preserving their identity.
