Farewell Party For Wing Cmdr. R. F. Gross

At a very pleasant social event in the council chamber of the Town Hall last evening Wing Commander R. F. Gross, who is leaving the Summerside R.C.A.F. station and Mrs. Gross were tendered a presentation and a farewell gift on behalf of the Town.

In the address regret was expressed at his departure from Summerside where he has made so many friends during his term as commanding officer here.

Mayor Wedge noted that his being posted to this joint services course evidently meant an advancement in his career and he expressed best wishes for continued success in the service.

In reply W.C. Gross said that it has been a pleasure to live in Summerside and he deeply regretted leaving. He had found the people friendly and sincere.

He said that Summerside airport is one of the biggest in Canada and people here should be very pleased to have such a large base near to them.

W.C. Gross plans to leave tonight for Montreal where he will embark for England.

Leaves For Conference GORDON CALLS

When you have these facts my confidence in the judgement and sense of responsibility of railway workers is such that I believe they will take appropriate action to bring these long drawn-out negotiations to an end and do so without the agonizing experience of a strike.

Reviewing the demands of the unions, the railway president said that full acceptance, if applied to all employees, would cost the railways $124,000,000 a year.

Mr. Mosher, also president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, reiterated his union's attitude that the railway's settlement offer made last week is not acceptable.

Mr. Mosher said the unions had made the reluctant decision to take a strike vote only a year after asking the railways to bargain collectively.

The railways at least have been consistent to the extent of saying that we have a strange form of collective bargaining.

Experts Not

Boston College Seismograph Station in Weston, Mass., offered a positive estimate of the location three hours after the quake flung the record off the recording paper.

He placed the quake as 5,215 miles from Boston - possibly in North or Northeast Turkey or the Caspian Sea area.

Probably Biggest - But Dr. L. Don Leet, head of the Harvard University Seismograph Station in Cambridge, Mass., hazarded a guess that it originated 8,000 to 9,000 miles distant, probably in the East Indies.

The record began at 10:23 EDT at Harvard and one second later at Weston.

Hours later the earthquake's waves racing thousands of miles through the earth's crust still were "saturated" with motion.

At Hartford, Conn., Trinity College's seismograph recorded quakes described as "terrific" about 3,000 miles distant in an undetermined direction.

Father Linehan said the recording light beam that traces the record on photo-sensitive paper a foot wide was swinging in a path six feet wide.

Located in Pacific? - Rev. Joseph Carroll, S.J., at Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis., believed the tremor was located in the Pacific, possibly in the vicinity of Japan.

But the Central Meteorological Observatory in Tokyo, which recorded the severe shock at 10:18 A.M. EDT, believed it originated somewhere in the northern part of the American continent.

In London, seismologist H. V. Shaw described it as "a colossal earthquake" which might have been a submarine disturbance.

The quake was one of the five greatest ever recorded in the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey at Washington reported. It tentatively placed the earthquake's location in the northern tip of Burma near the China border.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 - (AP) - A strike of bus drivers which inconvenienced approximately 100,000 riders yesterday spread today as drivers refused to take buses out of two other garages on the ground that they were dirty.

The surface transportation company said the strikers, who claimed dirty windows and windshields created a safety hazard, had an ulterior motive and threatened to sue the Transport Workers Union (T.W.U.) for breach of contract.
