Young Canadians Discouraged By Federal Political Showing

By JAMES NELSON
OTTAWA (CP)—Young Canadians are showing such discouragement with federal politics that their leaders are concerned about the next generation of Canada's law-makers. The presidents of the university and young peoples' organizations in both the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties were interviewed by The Canadian Press on the attitudes to politics of young people in the light of the marathon flag debate and the allegations of bribery and coercion attempts by ministerial aides.

With a single exception—support of the new flag by university Liberals—they condemned in varying degrees the activities of their political elders. Walter Goodfellow, 30, national president of the Young Progressive Conservatives, said in Halifax that across the country he has found young persons of all parties "extremely disturbed" by performances of MPs in the Commons.

Cheese Plan Not Popular

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's campaign against second-grade cheese just isn't going over with the cheese maker. After listening patiently to defenses of the government's stand, the 32nd annual meeting of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board ended its two-day meeting proposing the innovations of last year be cancelled.

Ford Company Recalls Cars

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. said here it has called back about 1,000 early 1965 models to add a bracket that could prevent a vibration developing at high mileage. A Ford spokesman said that after tens of thousands of miles, we found that vibration could develop in a rear suspension arm bracket.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

at the time, South should have made the contract. It should have been obvious to him that the only real chance of making the hand lay in losing two trump tricks instead of three, and he should therefore have catered to that precise possibility. The low trump lead from dummy at trick two was a give-up play which had no chance to succeed. What South should have done was play a low club from dummy at trick two in order to create an entry to his hand. East would presumably have taken the club and returned a heart. Declarer wins in dummy, ruffs a club, and now plays a spade towards the Q-6. Once this play is made, the defense cannot win more than two trumps and a club, and South makes the contract. This method of play succeeds if West's spade holding consists of A-J, K-J, or A-K-x. Declarer should play for one of these combinations to exist, since they each offer a genuine chance to make the contract. To ignore them amounts to giving up. When the Italians held the North-South cards, they stopped at two spades and made three for a score of 140 points. At this table, also, the trumps were mishandled, but, since the Italians made the contract, they gained 100 points on the deal.

prompted university students of all parties to question the old-line party tactics in Ottawa. "Young people party" rily those who feel they have some education. "I felt Canada has more important things to worry about. The debate made them realize they are thinking and living in a different kind of country from their elders." "The Dorion inquiry really only confirmed the views of many students, most of them not actively associated with a political party, that most politicians are in the game to line their pockets."

RIPLY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT

In Montreal, Michel Robert, president of the Young Liberal Federation, said his members have expressed "a certain desire for deep reform." What happens in Ottawa in the next six months "will determine what will happen to the new federal Liberal organization being built in Quebec by younger party members," Mr. Robert added.
