Prior to 1749
 some rites
 which are recorded in the register of Port-LaJoye involved residents of Saint-Pierre-du-Nord, and some of these rites were no doubt conducted at Saint-Pierre-du-
 Nord.

⁷ With a few exceptions, dates are those on which baptism, marriage or internment rites were conducted. The dates on which priests began and finished their service in any given parish may be somewhat earlier or later, respectively, than the dates indicated, since rites would not necessarily be performed on the first and last days of service. Prior to 1749 some rites which are recorded in the register of Port-LaJoye involved residents of Saint-Pierre-du-Nord, and some of these rites were no doubt conducted at Saint-Pierre-du-Nord. Thus, the extent to which Saint-Pierre-du-Nord was visited by priests based at Port-LaJoye is probably greater than indicated in this compilation. This appears to be particularly true during the tenure of Father Patrice LaGrée, 1749 - 1751. The information upon which this compilation is based is drawn largely from the registers of the parishes of Port-LaJoye and Saint-Pierre-du-Nord. For Port-LaJoye the compilation largely reproduces that first published in D.C. Harvey, The French Régime in Prince Edward Island, New Haven, 1926, pp. 240-242. Copies and transcripts of the registers are available in Canada at the Prince Edward Island Record Office, Charlottetown, the Centre d'études acadiennes, Université de Moncton, and the National Archives, Ottawa. At the later repository the citations for these registers are:

Port-LaJoye: MG1, G1, Vol. 411, Microfilm reel no. F-595 (original) and C-1472 (transcript)
 Saint-Pierre-du-Nord: MG6, A4, Ser. E, Microfilm reel no. F-817 (original) and C-2970 (transcript)

⁸ Information concerning Father Kergariou is from a small register kept by him and now residing in the Fonds Casgrain, Archives du Séminaire de Québec.
