

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

MARCH 10, 1892.

A Review.

The result of Tuesday's elections in the Province of Quebec removes the last shadow of a chance for the Liberal party—at least while constituted as it now is—gaining control of the destinies of the Dominion.

Looking back at the record of this party, it has been, emphatically, a party of shifts and expedients, never attaining to anything that might be called a policy. The Liberals have obstructed and hampered legislation, have derided the credit, resources and capabilities of their own country and have done their utmost to frustrate the attempts of the Government to enter into honorable negotiations with other countries for favorable trade relations. But never have they risen as a party to a statesmanlike grasp of the situation. In 1873 they carried the country on a catch cry of the Pacific scandal. They then obtained a sweeping majority, which gave them a first-rate chance of showing what they could do. Shrewd, disinterested observers from the very outset predicted their failure. It is a noticeable fact that, almost from the start, the people showed a want of confidence in them. As soon as the excitement of the catch cry had calmed down, the people saw that, in political phrase, "the wood had been pulled over their eyes." The bye-elections speedily showed a reaction which went on growing and strengthening till the next general election drove their party from power. It is worthy of note that the tactics which proved successful in 1873 well-nigh proved successful in 1891-92. There can now be little doubt that there was a well-organized scheme to buy up enough constituencies to turn the scale in favor of the Liberal party. Everything seemed favorable. The depression in trade, the falling health of Sir John Macdonald, the length of time that the Conservatives had held power, all combined to render the position of the Government precarious. It is probable that nothing but the personal popularity of Sir John Macdonald and the confidence felt in his skill and foresight saved the Government. The majority was largely reduced as a result of these Liberal efforts. But the prize was not won. So a systematic effort was made to unsettle Conservatives throughout the country. Simultaneously with this came the old scandal cry. Abuses had crept into various parts of the departmental services, and a system of wholesale corruption had been growing up in the Province of Quebec. A desperate effort was made to fasten all this upon the Government. With this cry it was hoped to sweep the bye-elections. So confident were the party that leading members of it predicted that in three months they would be in power. But the people had learned a lesson in 1873. The Government had already beaten the Opposition in the game of unseating. It speedily became evident that the Opposition had beaten the Government out of sight in the game of corruption. They fell two to one in the courts. At this crisis came the astounding revelations of Mercierism which disclosed the means by which the Government majority had been so largely reduced at the general election. The people saw the trap and the bye-elections told the tale. The Liberals are farther from power than ever.

What of the future? That depends on the ability of the Liberal party to frame a policy. Till they do this, they are hopelessly condemned to the cool shades of opposition. The tactics which purchased a brief success in 1873 and signally failed in 1891-92 can hardly be attempted a third time with any hope of success.

Methods of Studying History.

MR. R. R. FRITZGERALD, Q. C., delivered an excellent lecture in the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening on "Methods of Studying History." Mr. Percy Pope occupied the chair. The lecturer referred to the importance of recognizing the unity of history. Isolated facts are generally unimportant, except as they are connected with, and form part of, integral groups of facts or events. Whatever our preconceived notions or theories may be respecting any given historical event, person or period, we should tenaciously hold to them until further knowledge or study shows that we are wrong. The late wonderful discoveries of records in Babylon and the East not only added vastly to our knowledge, but confirm the truth of many of the Bible records. It is impossible properly to study English History without at the same time mastering, in outline at least, the great facts in the history of Europe, especially Germany and France. It is a good plan to take some prominent historical personage and group the leading events of his time around him. Charles the Fifth was the central figure in the history of the reformation. Louis the Fourteenth played the great part in the Seventeenth Century, and Frederick the Great looms up conspicuously in a later period. Kings as such have not done much to advance the interests of the human race. The Hapsburgs and Bourbons show but a poor record, and it is yet to be seen whether the present German Emperor will prove a second Frederick the Great in sustaining the credit of the ancient German House of Hohenzollern. We have shown our English kings of all the ancient kindly power. The parliament is above the king. The idea of the divine right of kings expired with the fall of the Stuarts, when the people chose another king. The throne is still the fountain of honor. If the royal occupant prove himself unworthy the people are ready to tell him he must step down and out. The period of the four Georges was the great epoch when the voice of the people was distinctly heard in the demand for liberty of the press and numerous other reforms. The lecture was well delivered and well received.

Free From Diphtheria.

We are glad to hear, on good authority, that there are now no cases of diphtheria in the village of Souris. Six or seven families were afflicted by the disease, and the average number of deaths was about one in each family. The Board of Health did the best they could under the circumstances to prevent the spread of the disease. They closed the St. Charles School, as also the Methodist and Presbyterian Sunday schools. They ordered that social gatherings, for the time being, should cease. Inmates of houses in which the disease prevailed were prevented from leaving their premises until after the sick ones had recovered and the houses and contents had been properly cleaned and disinfected. Owing to the isolation of these families, two men had to be employed to attend to their wants, but were not allowed to enter their dwellings. Dandriffs were freely used during the prevalence of the disease, and as soon as the patients were considered free from it the clothing, furniture and rooms were thoroughly disinfected. The public school was opened again on Monday last, but not without the usual being first, enabled with chlorids of lime water and the room and books disinfected. Children who have had the disease are not allowed, however, to attend school for one month after recovery, and disinfection of their places of abode as shown by the certificate of the Health Officer. With these and other precautions taken, it is hoped that the disease there has been successfully stamped out. The Board of Health are to be commended on the regulations and their success in preventing the spread of the dread disease.

Notes and Comments.

The Patriot says that the National Policy of to-day is not the National Policy which Sir Leonard Tilley introduced. The Patriot is right about this point, sugar is now free! The Grits say that the bye-elections always result in favor of the Government in power. Our friends of the Opposition must surely remember the history of the McKenzie regime, under which nearly every appeal to the people at bye-elections went against the Administration. We were favored with a perusal of the manuscript of "Reminiscences" from the Life of Mr. John Ross, proprietor of the "Magic Healer" Salve, which he intends shortly to publish in pamphlet form, in which he gives a sketch of his public career, during the publication of Ross's Weekly in connection with the Tenant League agitation, his advocacy of the railway movement, and later his success with the "Magic Healer" Salve. As one-half of every page throughout the work will contain the continuous sketch of his life, more than usual prominence will be given to the advertisements inserted therein. We have no doubt but that this little work will be eagerly sought for by many who were cognizant of its incidents, and trust it may have an extensive sale.

The great Lessorie Phenix, that is what the Lessorie of Canada are talking about. The cheapest cleanser ever produced. The most marvellous solution when you think of all it will do, that has ever come to the relief of housekeepers. Lessorie Phenix will clean anything. When you boil clothes you don't need any soap at all, if you use it. It is so comprehensive in its efficacy, it will wash your clothes, and it will clean your silver or brass ware. There is hardly any limit to its service. It has beautiful emollient properties, and it is a benefit rather than an injury to the hands. Ask your grocer for Lessorie Phenix.

MONTREAL, March 7.—Lawyers here have received instructions from the Marquis de Salles of Toulouse, France, to endeavor to have the register of the death of Paul Dupuis, formerly editor of La Semaine Religieuse in this city, altered in order to establish that Dupuis was really the Marquis de Salles, a worthy nobleman, who left France some ten years ago and came here, changing his name to Paul Dupuis. The Marquis devoted himself to journalism in this city, and died here about a year ago. His widow, residing in Toulouse, in order to obtain possession of the estates requires to have the fact established that he was not Paul Dupuis, but Marquis de Salles and the lawyers have been instructed to investigate the matter and have the register changed. Proceedings are being taken in the superior court to this end.

New York, March 7.—Richard Scanlan, last night, threw a lighted lamp at his wife in their home on West Sixteenth Street, causing her body to be burned so badly that she died after six hours' terrible agony. Scanlan declares he found his wife in a compromising situation with his brother, Michael Scanlan. Both men were arrested. Mrs. Scanlan would not admit she was guilty of any indiscretion.

Sensational Development.

Mercier's Resignation.

He Says That Quebec is Ungrateful and Unjust and That He Will Return to His Farm and Home.

THE FALLEN LEADER BRAZENS IT OUT.

MONTREAL, March 10.

Mercier has resigned and addressed a letter to his friends. In it he says "all the good I have done has been set aside and ingratitude is my only award. The verdict of the people is unjust and will be reversed by history. But meanwhile I must submit and return to private life. I will return to the labors of the field in order, if possible to regain health, and to my lawyer's office for the maintenance of my family."

The Provincial Government organs announced a short time ago that Mercier would be arrested at the instance of the Attorney-General Casgrain in a few days and prosecuted on criminal charges of robbing the public treasury. What effect his resignation will have on this determination cannot be learned. It is believed, however, that any such proceedings will be allowed to drop.

The news of Mercier's resignation created a great surprise. The sweeping victory for DeBoucherville was instantly dropped for this newer and more sensational development.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Regulations For the Lobster Trade.

Heavy Fees to be Imposed.

OTTAWA, March 10.

The session of the House of Commons was very brief yesterday. A return of the election in West Huron was received by the House. It is understood that Ananias Cameron will petition against Patterson.

On Friday next Hon. Mr. Tupper will move— First, that it is expedient to impose a fee of $500 for each license granted by the Minister of Marine to cut or preserve lobsters, or to keep them alive in ponds or in other places. Second, that it is expedient to impose a fee of one cent for each case containing four dozen one pound cans of lobsters to be paid to the person directed by the Minister, and to mark, label and stamp such case.

THE QUEBEC ELECTION.

Satisfaction With the Result.

Opinion of the British Press.

LONDON, March 10.

Mercier's defeat gave unalloyed satisfaction throughout Great Britain. The Standard says that the result of this spirited and crushing protest against corruption completely justifies the action of Lieut.-Governor Angers, and is a striking proof of the existence of a public conscience in the Province of Quebec.

Death of an Official.

HALIFAX, March 10.

James G. Morris, chief clerk of the Customs department, died last evening after a few days' illness.

Weather Bulletin.

TORONTO, March 10.—10 a. m. South-west to west winds; mostly fair; light local rains.

General Telegraphic News.

ATHENS, March 7.—The report that 300 followers of ex-Prime Minister Deligiannis had been arrested is emphatically denied by the authorities here, and stories that people were arming for rebellion are laughed at. The entire country is quiet.

WARSAW, March 7.—In view of the activity of the Polish revolutionists in propagating their doctrine of Free Poland among the people, the authorities have decided to billet soldiers at private residences and thus prevent any discussion of plans to bring about an organized movement against the Czar's authority.

OTTAWA, March 7.—A statement of superannuations for last year shows a total of $38,096, a greater portion of which was in the post office. The return gives the first intimation of the fate of Col. Tilton, suspended deputy minister of fisheries. He gets a superannuation allowance of $1,436, economy in public service being accorded as the reason for his removal. The Deputy Minister of Public Works, Billage, gets $2,240, and the late Queen's printer, Chamberlain, $1,664.

New York, March 7.—Richard Scanlan, last night, threw a lighted lamp at his wife in their home on West Sixteenth Street, causing her body to be burned so badly that she died after six hours' terrible agony. Scanlan declares he found his wife in a compromising situation with his brother, Michael Scanlan. Both men were arrested. Mrs. Scanlan would not admit she was guilty of any indiscretion.

Personal.

Mr. W. A. Brennan, of the Summerdale Journal, is in the city. He is registered at the Hotel Davis.

Mr. Lemuel Mann, of Vancouver, B. C., left by express train last night via the Capes on his return trip to his adopted home. Mr. Mann has had a pleasant visit among friends in town and country.

Mr. A. C. McMahon, the popular actor, who has been delighting Charlottetown audiences during the winter, has kindly consented to take part in the programme which St. Paul's choir, of Summerdale, are preparing to put on the boards in the Market Hall of that town on St. Patrick's night, the 17th inst.

Sir John Thompson's leadership in the House of Commons is proving decidedly popular; while as head of the Government the Hon. J. J. C. Abbott is finding abundant evidence of the confidence reposed in him and his colleagues by the people.

James Spurgeon, the brother of the late Charles Spurgeon, has provisionally assumed the duties of the pastorate of the Metropolitan Tabernacle.

Mr. Foster, Secretary of the United States Treasury, is sick and has had to quit work and go on a resting trip over the ocean. His two predecessors, Mr. Manning and Mr. Windom, died in office from the effects of overwork. So did Mr. Folger, one of their predecessors. Watching Uncle Sam's cash is more fatal to conscientious men than serving in his army.

The Prince of Wales has been elected G. M. Mark Mason of Great Britain, and Sir Augustus Harris has been elected grand treasurer. Englishmen would be more respected in the United States if they employ less gush. The Toledo Commercial criticizes a recent utterance of Sir Edwin Arnold in the following pleasant manner:—

Sir Edwin Arnold appears to have been "mashed" on this country in true poetical style. He said, in concluding an entertainment in New York: "I came to America her friend; I go away her champion, her servant, her lover." At first blush it may look cruel to regret that so much effusion is not reciprocal, but it transpires that his love is not entirely disinterested. He loves this country because those among whom he fell were lovers of his country. The Anglo-Americans will reciprocate fully Sir Edwin's gush.

News Notes. Ex Senator Ingalls has declined an offer of $10,000 a year to become the editor of a new local afternoon paper in Kansas City.

A New York mediumistic artist has succeeded in marrying a venerable widow to whom he delivered messages from her "deceased friends." She is over 70, but has a fine figure—$300,000—which probably proved a strong attraction to the medium.

Mr. Waller, a merchant of Bradford, England, has arranged to defray the entire expense of bringing home from Brazil the 150 persons remaining out of a company of 500 who emigrated from Yorkshire to that country some months ago. The others, mostly women and children, have perished from hardships or from the unsuitable climate.

MARRIED. At St. Mary's Chapel, Chatham, N. B., on the 1st inst., by the Rev. Canon Forsythe, M. A., Henry A. Muirhead, second son of the late Hon. Senator Muirhead, to Frances J. Blair, second daughter of the late George A. Blair, Stipendiary Magistrate, of Chatham, N. B.

DIED. On the 10th inst., at her residence, Upper Great George Street, Sarah Jane (Gilbert), widow of the late Robert Magford. Born in Bedford, England, February 11th, 1811. Emigrated to this Island, A. D. 1841. Leaving three sons and three daughters to mourn. But their loss is her gain. "The righteous shall be had in everlasting remembrance."

[Funeral from her late residence, at 2 p. m., on Saturday, to People's Cemetery, when friends are invited to attend.]
