Victory Train Derailed

THE Canadian Amateur Hockey Association temporarily derailed Jim DeBruin's victory train which was supposed to be heading for the Maritime junior hockey championship.

Monday we were notified by CAHA president Art Potter that an appeal of Glace Bay's resignation of a Dartmouth player was upheld and we were forced to get the Bay boys back into contention. The Junior Minors were previously ousted by Hoyt's Movers, the team that Penguins eliminated last night.

Naturally we have our opinion on the ruling of president Potter. This is a derision of the MAHA which says that no appeal shall be entertained unless two or more branches are involved. In this case, only the Maritime branch was involved and the MAHA had ruled 4-1 on the eligibility of Hoyt's player.

Mr. Potter, however, had no personal interest in the case and as head of the parent body undoubtedly made the decision which he felt was just. Naturally the MAHA didn't see it that way or they wouldn't have voted as they did.

Glace Bay Back In

HOWEVER, we are not going to start saluting because the Maritime verdict was correct. Hoyt's Bay was perfectly within its rights in carrying the protest to the national body and undoubtedly they are delighted that they are vindicated.

We were told to get Glace Bay back in the picture after Hoyt's had lost their two games in best-of-five series but the Penguins, we certainly don't want to see back because they had left home last Thursday morning to go to Fredericton and they headed for Halifax and Dartmouth.

Movers, the team that Penguins eliminated last night, are going to do Dartmouth owed them at least one home game and this was badly needed to help get back a portion of the $1000.

The only logical solution seemed to have Movers and Penguins complete the series and then let Movers play the winner. Glace Bay will split the title with the Penguins and they'll get a travel allowance from the MAHA because they are a junior club.

Standing Room Only

SURELY they'll be standing room only for this sudden-death affair tonight.

Penguins definitely should be able to more than cope with the Cape Bretoners. The Cape Bretoners are a team that look as though the Miners certainly should not emerge as victors. "Bucko" Trainor's crew is determined and a bit of a savant to have to go to the playoffs. They are convinced that nothing is going to stop them at this stage for clinching Maritime honors and heading to Ottawa for play with the other teams.

But sudden-death games are dangerous affairs and the Penguins' coach is the first to admit it. He says he'll play the winner's' coach is the first to admit it. He says he'll play the winner's' coach is the first to admit it. He says he'll play the winner's' coach is the first to admit it.

Players Are Confident

BUT any such pessimism can't be bound among the Penguins' players. They are confident of their chances for this is the climax and they have definite intentions of making it a fitting climax.

They haven't heard so much junior hockey talk in years and if you can be bothered by the talk, Earl Nicholson will have trouble getting them into the Sports Arena tonight. They are confident of their chances for this is the climax and they have definite intentions of making it a fitting climax.

MONTRÉAL (CP)—Montreal, apparently tipped behind Bower's Canadiens came back from the brink of elimination Tuesday night to force Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 in the Toronto zone after three straight defeats at the hands of the Leafs in the first round of the semi-final playoffs.

A pair of power-play goals by Claude Provoost and a low howling fans sparked the win. The Canadiens thus carried the best-of-seven series to Toronto Thursday night for a fifth game at least with an attack that smothered the Maple Leafs.

They outshot Toronto 40-24 and piled up a wide edge in play in each period, consistently beating the Leafs to the puck and blunting Toronto's offense with hard-skating and sharp checking.

Ron Stewart was Toronto's lone goal-keeper—opening the game's scoring—and Henri Richard scored Montreal's first goal.

GOAL DISALLOWED

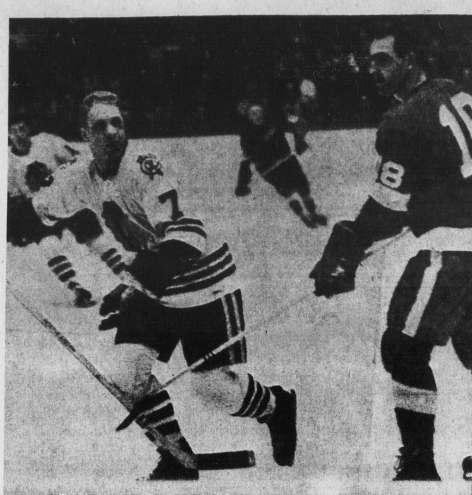

A fourth Toronto goal against Billy Hicke was ruled a goal short — handed — was disallowed by referee Frank Lefward who ruled his own blunder. Hicke's blow from the little Montreal winger jammed the puck by Toronto goalie Johnny Bower.

The Leafs were a vastly changed club from Toronto's first three games. There were spanking holes in their defense that yielded at least a half-dozen breakaways to Montreal and it was only Bower's superb goalkeeping that prevented the Canadiens from running up a higher score.

Toronto's George Armstrong was in the penalty box for tripping Richard when Tremblay got his first goal in Montreal ahead 2-1 in the second period and Frank Mahovlich was sitting out a minor for checking Terry Harper when Tremblay popped his second for insurance in the final period.

His first goal at the 14-minute mark, 14 seconds into the game, Armstrong was waved off by an unassisted and of a freakish nature.

He tried to pass the puck out from the corner and it was 7-0.

Red Wings Square Series; Thump Black Hawks 4-1

DETROIT (CP)—Detroit Red Wings easily thumped Chicago Blackhawks 4-1 Tuesday night in the first of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final two games each.

The Wings never were behind and practically loved with the Hawks in the final 20 minutes for their second consecutive victory.

The Hawks, desperate for a victory on Detroit Olympic ice, brought in the injured Bobby Hull from Chicago just a few hours before game time, but the ace left winger's presence made little difference as the Wings outskated and outlasted the Hawks for all but a brief spell in the second period.

The series now moves back to Chicago for a fifth game Thursday night. The sixth will be played here on Sunday and the seventh, if necessary on Chicago Stadium ice next Thursday.

Hull scored Chicago's only goal at 8:37 of the second period with Red Wing defenseman Pete Goegan in the penalty box for tripping Pierre Plante.

The Red Wing scorers were Alex Faulkner, Gordie Howe, and Claude Provoost and Floyd Smith.

The Hawks started out this playoff series as if they'd disposed of the Wings in a big hurry. They won 5-4 and 3-2 at home with ease but the Wings bounced back with a 4-2 triumph Sunday night. They dominated the game, but as they did Tuesday night.

Chicago goalkeeper Glenn Hall, who got a front of 44 hits Sunday, had another busy evening. He got in front of 35 shots against only 17 for Terry Sawchuk in the first period.

The healthy Red Wings went out early after the Hawks who played without the services of defenseman Al MacNeil and left winger Murphy MacNeil of Sydney, N.S., suffered two cracked ribs in the second game and was temporarily hospitalized after the series opened a week ago Tuesday night with an injured ankle cast.

It's doubtful whether these would have helped because the Wings, who finished first in the National Hockey League regular schedule, forechecked the Hawks almost to a standstill when the Hawks did get going, they could not mount an attack sustained organized offense.

Many in the crowd of 14,127 headed for the exits late in the game with the wings in front 4-1 and controlling the puck as they left the Detroit net.

Faulkner, a native of Bishop's Falls, Nfld., and the only player in the first league from that province, scored his second goal of the series at 1:24 of the first period. He scored three more goals, one in the second period, one in the third period, and one in the fourth period. He was aided by Claude Provoost, who scored the first goal of the series at 1:11 of the second period, and by Pete Goegan, who scored the first goal of the series at 1:11 of the second period.

Plante Terrific, Says Toe Bake

BY BRUCE STOVEL
MONTREAL (CP)—"When I saw Koon skating in there alone, I thought there goes the 'ball' game," said Montreal coach Toe Bake after his Canadiens whipped Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 in their Stanley Cup semifinal Tuesday night.

"That was the turning point," said Bake wiping his forehead. Leafs center Dave Keon came in alone on Montreal goalie Jacques Plante for the first time in the game with Canadiens leading 2-1. Plante came out and stopped the small forward.

"Jacques Plante was really happy."

"That's the first breakaway I can remember that guy missing against us."

Bake said his players had more confidence tonight.
