Honest Government for United Canada.

Down with Tarte and Tartesism.

THE DAILY EXAMINER

OCTOBER 29, 1905.

THE VIEWS OF THE MASTER.

La Liberte, of Paris, France, of Oct. 12, 1900, says:

"Mr. Tarte is too well known to the French to make it necessary to recall his attitude during recent events. He is a resolute partisan of separation from England, and wishes Canada to be independent by right, as she is in fact. He does not cease to protest against the deplorable spirit which reigns in England today, to censure British pharisaism and egotism, and he joyfully seizes every opportunity vouchsafed him to assert aloud his sympathy and filial attachment for the old land which was the first mother country of Canada, namely France."

"At the opening of the Canadian pavilion at the Exposition the British High Commissioner, who seeks in every possible way to be disagreeable to the Canadians, wished to arrange that the President of the Republic should enter the pavilion from the side communicating with the British exhibit. Mr. Tarte opposed this with a liveliness that impressed all his assistants."

"In spite of the cries which the Canadian jingoes set up against him, demanding his retirement from the Ministry, Mr. Tarte remained in it, firmly upheld by his colleague and friend, Sir Wilfrid Laurier."

"Here they are today almost forced to fight together, and it is probably Mr. Tarte who, in his turn, will save Sir Wilfrid."

'SIR WILFRID IS TOO ENGLISH.'

The Toronto Globe and other organs of the New Liberals having from day to day quoted in large capitals the words of Sir Charles Tupper, "Sir Wilfrid is too English for me," and misrepresented Sir Charles' meaning, Sir Charles addressed himself to the task of setting himself right upon his arrival in Toronto a few days ago. We quote the Globe's report of what he said:

Sir Charles said that what he really did state was the policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who wished to adopt an Imperial Parliamentary federation, which he proclaimed on every platform in 1897 was his means of attaining the unity of the empire, and who said that Canadians were not satisfied with the present condition of things, which could not last, and that the time would come when they would be at the turning point and then they would demand full citizenship and representation in the Parliament of England. That, Sir Charles said, meant no more nor any less than the transfer to Westminster of all the powers now exercised by the Parliament at Ottawa; everything of a national character that is now dealt with at Ottawa would be transferred to the Parliament in England, in which Sir Wilfrid Laurier was to disport himself with his friends at St. Stephen's. Sir Charles said he had denounced that policy as too English for him, and he denounced it now, and added that no man who realized the tremendous power of Canada having complete control of her own affairs, would sell that birthright for a mess of postage and allow a Parliament sitting 3,000 miles away to impose upon Canada whatever taxation they liked and to spend the money after it has been taken out of our pockets. That is the policy which he had said was too English for him. He had been attacked by the Globe newspaper for attacking Sir Wilfrid Laurier's imperialism of that character, but what had happened? Edward Blake, a man head and shoulders higher and greater than Sir Wilfrid Laurier ever was or will be, had sent him his speech which he delivered on the Commonwealth of Australia, in which he said that representation for Canada in the Imperial Parliament was an idle dream that no intelligent Canadian would adopt for a single moment. Experience had shown him the utter folly of it, and there was no Canadian who would listen to such a proposition for a moment. Sir Charles also quoted Mr. Chamberlain, who said it was not to be supposed for a single instant that Canada would give up the glorious right and privilege of governing herself and managing her own affairs and hand it over to the British Parliament in return for any representation that could be given her in an Imperial Parliament. Sir Charles, he said, was happy to say his friend Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who went from platform to platform propounding this policy, has now taken it all back hotus bolus, and says that he would not take it at any time. Therefore Sir Charles felt he had accomplished something and shown the Premier there was something he did not understand, and that something was a policy that would array every sensible man in Canada against him if he attempted to carry it out.

It was on that ground that he had said that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's policy was too English for him, and he said so again, and that no independent Canadian of any party would listen to it for a moment. He was happy to say he had compelled Sir Wilfrid Laurier to take back that which he went from platform to platform proclaiming as his desire and the means of promoting the unity of the empire. As for swimming with the current, he defied Sir Wilfrid to show one single instance where he had ever propounded a policy that if the current was not running that way, the moment he found himself breasting the current he did not wheel about and abandon the principle. He challenged him to put his finger on one principle he had ever propounded in public life which he could not show day and date when he had trampled that principle under foot. Sir Charles said if there was a man incapable of breasting the current in favor of principle it is Sir Wilfrid Laurier. From the first hour of his public life Sir Wilfrid Laurier had adopted all kinds of policies and principles, only to abandon and denounce them when he found them standing in the way of power.

This clear statement of Sir Charles Tupper ought to convince those who heard Dr. Douglass in Afton Hall on Friday evening that the attempt to gain support for Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the strength of Sir Charles Tupper's declaration that "he is too English for me" is likely to prove fruitless.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

-Sir McKenzie Bowell is determined that the sale of Senatorship Scandal shall be investigated.

-In the betting circles of St. John the odds are now, three to one on the election of Mr. Foster and Dr. Stockton. Significant!

-We are told that the keynote of the great speech delivered by Mr. Chamberlain after the elections "was the unity of the British Empire, and for the most part his remarks were conceived in a spirit worthy of such a great theme."

-Two industries of importance to our farmers have been deliberately destroyed by the colleagues of Sir Louis Davies. The makers of binder twine have been thrown out of employment. The makers of barbed wire have been hunted out of the country.

-The Sun, of St. John, reports that working men and shopkeepers are asking themselves, very seriously, what it will mean to them if there

Winter Jackets

For the winter now approaching so fast are made of all the most wearable cloths, such as beaver, melton; serge, chinchilla and chevots. The style calls for a jacket a shade shorter than last season's, but not too short. In Canada, the home of cold weather we need them a little longer than in England or the United States.

We Have

Them just the right cloth, just the right length, at just the right price—$3.95, $5.50, $8.00, up to $18.00.
 Over 1000 to choose from. Last year was our banner year in this department. This year we're determined to outdo last year's record. Our jackets are priced accordingly. Sizes from a two year old little girl up to the stoutest lady in town.
