

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JULY 11, 1895.

MRS. LAIRD.

SINCERE SYMPATHY will be felt for the Honorable David Laird, who has been bereaved of the greatest of earthly treasures—a loving and capable wife.

THE NEW TIME TABLE.

It is pleasing to hear from many sources that the new time table is giving satisfaction to the travelling public.

AN UNTENABLE POSITION.

WHATEVER may be thought about the Manitoba School Question or the expediency of Parliamentary action in respect to it, there can be no question that the Leader of the Opposition took an unreasonable and untenable position when he argued that Parliament could do so business because three ministers from Quebec could be obtained to take their places.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—Montreal Gazette: Bears on the local stock exchange point to the possibility of a Liberal success in the coming elections as a reason for depressing prices.

—The Westminster Gazette, a few days ago, asked Mr. Gladstone to write a message to the people to be displayed upon magic lantern slides together with carions and election news at the National Liberal Club.

—The residence of Mr. John McDonald, Vernon River, was on Monday, the 8th inst., the scene of a very pleasant social event, the occasion being the marriage of his sister, Mrs. Margaret McDonald, to Mr. J. E. Fellow of Portland, Maine.

THE SITUATION AT OTTAWA.

Mr. Laurier's Untenable Position.

UPON Mr. Foster's statement in the House of Commons that he had no authority from the Governor-General to make a statement other than that no resignations had as yet been received by him.

Mr. Laurier said: Well, Mr. Speaker, I hardly believe that the statement just made is true, and I am not at all satisfied with it.

His excellency has cancelled a trip which had been announced some weeks in advance in the administration of the Government.

THE UNWRITTEN LAW OF ALL ADMINISTRATIONS.

that all provinces, so far as practicable, should be represented in the cabinet. No administration would dare to consent to discharge the public business of the country unless all the provinces, at any rate all the great provinces—Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia—were properly represented in the cabinet.

SCOTCH COLONISTS IN THE NORTH-WEST.

Eleven years ago, in May, a party of settlers from the Hebrides, composed of forty-seven families, arrived at Moosomin just within the eastern limits of the Northwest territories.

Andrew had been the name given to their settlement, but it has long since overgrown its original limits, and is now known by different local names. They are a virtuous and hospitable people, those Scottish colonists though, perhaps, somewhat quaint in their manners. Gaelic is their mother tongue, and many of them especially the women, can understand no other language. Great efforts have, however, been made to give the young people a good English education, and with much success. They make apt pupils and the people support their schools generously. In this as in everything which leads man upward and onward the Catholic settlers—who are the greater portion—found a noble guide in their pastor Rev. D. Gillies. Father Gillies is a Nova Scotian and quite a young man. He was for some time—so he told me—a classmate of our own Father Burke in one of the colleges of Canada, and in point of energy and talent their striking resemblance between the two. A zealous clergyman and fine logician, he has been for some years connected with the education department, and his missionary labors extended over a large portion of these territories; but the Scotch colonists claimed his especial care. Unfortunately falling health compelled him to abandon his work for a time and return to his eastern home, and great regret is expressed by the people in consequence. Many of those settlers claim to have distant relatives in Prince Edward Island and their names such as McDonald, McLeod, McKinnon, McDougall, McSwain, Stewart, Steel, etc., are largely represented in that province. They are quite pleased with their adopted country and the success of their colony is a practical proof of what can be achieved in the Northwest, even from the smallest beginnings.

The crops are beginning to look well. An unusually dry spring, and frosts during May, acted as setbacks, but recent plentiful rains and warm days have wrought great improvement. Meanwhile the prospect for a high price for wheat and a perceptible rise in almost every agricultural product is giving great courage to the farmer.

PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

The Ministerial Situation.

A Positive Statement to be Made this Afternoon.

OTTAWA, July 11.

In the Senate, Senator Scott asked the Premier if he was able to relieve the tension of opinion on an important question, rumors outside concerning which were somewhat confirmed by an empty chair.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell said: "I am sorry to say that I am not in a position to relieve the tension of the hon. gentleman's mind, at the present moment, but I promise him that I shall be able to relieve him of all anxiety as to the matter tomorrow at 3 o'clock."

In the House of Commons, Hon. Mr. Laurier asked the Minister of Finance whether he could give any information with regard to the resignations of three prominent members of the administration.

Mr. Foster—I think I shall have to ask my hon. friend to cultivate the virtue of patience for a while longer. To-morrow, when the House assembles, I shall make a positive statement in reference to the matter.

The foregoing statements summarize all that is official in reference to the political situation. They are the outcome of a series of conferences which have been in progress since Monday, the most noteworthy of which was one yesterday between the Premier and the three dissenting members, Messrs. Gwynne, Carson and Angus. It is said, so far as receded from the position which they took when they asked that a remedial bill be passed this session, that they will now be satisfied to accept the mere introduction of remedial legislation as an evidence of the bona fides of their colleagues. This was, it is said, the offer or request which they made to Sir Mackenzie Bowell yesterday. The Premier, it is said, informed them that he would give them an answer today, whereupon, so it is said, the ministers said they would wait.
