Ash Mountain sets standards others can only hope to follow

Club performers must possess the range of entertainment that can fit any situation and the inventiveness too make any situation entertainment. And Ash Mountain can do just that. There can be no other reason why they have become one of the most respected and sought after club groups around.

Their style spreads across a musical spectrum from contemporary rock to show tunes, from vocal harmony to tight instrumentation. Each set establishes its own character, providing a complete show within a show. Don't be surprised if "Good Feeling '57", with Jive Ducktail and the Boogiemens, begins an uncontrollable sweep down nostalgia lane to "Surfin' With the Beach Balls", a Coppertone kit of California, surf-crazed beach-partiers or to the shores of England, where red military jacket costumes highlight a romp through the Liverpool era of the Beatles, Dave Clarke Five and more.

Each costume change establishes a new mood, whether it be contemporary sophistication or a casual Beach Boy scene. But their resources don't stop with wardrobe. Every set adds its own appropriate effects, creating an authenticity to the musical period — a mirror ball for "At the Hop", a bubble machine and a fog spreader. And above it all a custom designed and operated lightshow bathes the entire stage and choreographs the colourful action below.

Ash Mountain's awareness

of current musical trends keeps them fresh and exciting. They continually strive for musical perfection by setting standards others can only hope to follow.
