Early Days Recalled At The Belvedere Golf Club

Further notes signed by L.B. M. are hereby given on the Charlottetown Golf Club.

The Charlottetown Golf Club was organized October 3, 1902, with about sixty members. Temporary links of seven holes were laid off at the driving Park and were used during the balance of that season. The rules and etiquette of St. Andrews Scotland Golf Club were adopted.

At the Annual Meeting in April, 1903, the Leasing of a tract of land known as Belvedere, about two miles from the city was authorized and the erection of a Club House to cost about $500.00. In accordance therewith the land was leased, the erection of a house began and links of nine holes laid off.

At the annual meeting in April 1904, the first house committee was appointed and the club took possession of the new links, play upon which had begun during the previous autumn, a match being played in September 1903 between a team from the Presbyterian Synod then in session in Charlottetown and a team from among the golf members.

During 1904 much more was done in the further organization of the club, the regulation of the caddies, a professional engaged to give lessons, invitations from other clubs for a friendly match, trophies offered by the Standard Insurance Co. and the Canada Life Co., the altering of the Constitution (Wednesday Ladies Day) and (Saturday, "Gentlemen's Day") Toboggan slide erected in 1905, two-thirds to be golf members and all golf members entitled to join on payment of fees.

1908 Ladies Golf Club Branch presented the club with a black walnut championship trophy table, on which the names of the annual winners are engraved on a brass plate inserted in the table.

Lease signed April 1908 renting Links from Belvedere Golf Club.
