"Woman"

Great indeed is the task assigned to woman. Who can elevate it? Not to make laws, not to lead armies, not to govern empires, but to from those by whom laws are made, armies are led, empires are governed; to guard against the slightest taint of bodily infirmity, the frail yet spotless creature whose moral no less than physical being must be derived from her; to inspire those principles, to animate those sentiments, which generations yet unborn and nations yet uncivilized will learn to bless; to soften firmness into mercy and chasten honor into refinement; to exalt generosity into virtue and by soothing care to allay the anguish of the mind; to cheer the scholar sinking under his toll; to be compensation for friends that are untrue, for happiness that is gone—such is her vocation.

The bed of the tortured sufferer, the home of the deserted friend, the theatres in which her greatest triumphs have been achieved. As the vine which has twined its graceful foliage about the oak and been lifted by it in sunshine will, when stricken by lightning, cling around the tree and with its tendrils bind the shattered boughs so the woman who is dependant and ornament of man in his happier hours, should be his stay and solace when smitten by troubles, winding herself into the rugged recesses of his nature, tenderly supporting the drooping head, and binding up the broken heart. —By Mrs. Clarence Rose.

Toronto Is Scene Of Fall Bridal

White gladioli and mixed fall flowers adorned the altar to form an attractive setting in Dentonia United Church, Toronto, Ontario, on Saturday afternoon, October 8, 1955 at 1:30 p.m. when Norma Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. MacLennan, of Traveller's Rest, P.E.I., became the bride of Mr. Robert Harrison MacIsaac, of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin MacIsaac, Dunblane, P. E. I.

Rev. J. C. MacLean officiated at the double ring ceremony. Wedding music was in charge of Mr. Howard Campbell.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Daniel, wore a full-length strapless gown of white nylon net over satin with full skirt. It featured a matching jacket of chintilly lace with long sleeves pointed over the hands and Peter collar outlined with tiny seed pearls. Her fingertip veil was held by a halo of white nylon net and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white mums.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Keith Marr as matron of honour, who wore a waltz length gown of American Beauty velvet with matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Mr. Keith Marr was groomsmen and the ushers were Messrs. Wellington Compton and Leslie MacIsaac.

A reception for forty-five guests followed in the church hall where the bride's table was decorated with pink tapers and cut flowers. It was centered with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. J. C. MacLean.

The couple left on a honeymoon trip to points of interest in Ontario. For travelling, the bride wore a navy suit with navy and white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

ELLEN'S DIARY
By An Island Farmer's Wife

Farmwife, what of today! So sweetest? Another clue must we give? It comes home tissue-wrapped in a parcel, you are pleased to carry, rather than trust to be tucked away with the other belongings in the car! You keep it near, for perhaps you will open it on the way to peek in with accelerated heart-beats to make sure you like the shape and shade quite as well as you did in there. A new hat! Certainly! That we now have at this house in tangible souvenir of today.

"Wasn't there a spell in your old one yet, Ellen?" James asked later when we had paraded it for his approval. "You know" he nodded "this is a pretty tight fall, on farms. 'Not a spell!' we chuckled.

But a nice spell of night now for "twa auld bodies" of the farm to come to their rest.

Until tomorrow—Diary—Good-night.....
