SENTINEL FOR BARNUM.—The New York Express says, that a New York millionaire, whose name it does not give, has invited Mr. and Mrs. Barnum to make themselves perfectly at home as long as they please at his palace on the Fifth Avenue. This sympathy was excited by the manly and honest course Mr. Barnum has pursued in his misfortunes. The manner of the offer is thus reported by the Express.
 Meeting Mr. Barnum in Nassau street last week, he grasped him warmly by the hand, and said—

"Barnum, I heartily condole with you in your troubles. Still, I've a favor to ask—"

"Of me?" replied B., in surprise.
 "What can I do for a millionaire like yourself?"

"Why, you see, Baraum, I've a very large house and a very small family, on the Fifth Avenue. I've plenty of servants, horses, carriages and extras. Now, the favor I want you to do for me, is to remove yourself and wife to my mansion, make of yourselves a portion of my family, and stay there this winter year, and next year, and —and—in fact, as long as you please—the longer the better."

The great showman was so thoroughly amazed that, for a moment, he was unable to speak.

"My dear sir," he replied, at last,
 "your generosity pains me beyond expression."

"Generosity! nonsense!" exclaimed the man of wealth; "it is no generosity at all; it is pure selfishness; for I tell you frankly that I shall feel more gratification than you possibly can, if you will accede to my proposition. You can do it without the slightest feeling of dependence. Make my home yours, and I repeat it with all sincerity, that I and not you will be the party especially accommodated. Say no more about it, but come at once. You have now arrived at a time of life when too much excitement may destroy your health.
 You need rest and quiet. I offer it to you; my house shall be 'Liberty Hall' to you; and yours, and in your side, I want it you please. I have talked it all over with my wife, and she unites with me in asking this favor of your hands."

Whether or not this generous offer was accepted, we are not informed, but we know the above to be a literal fact.

"Mrs. Partington says, a gentleman in Boston judges so heartily, that she fears he'll burst his jugular vein."

—John Jones has no objection to the lick-her law when applied to Jane. Jane Jones contends stoutly for the liquor law as applicable to John. Jane's argument is simple and conclusive. When John don't liquor, he don't lick her; therefore, if John can't liquor, he won't lick her—the conclusion she wishes to reach.

Two Irish laborers being at the exception of some manufacturers at the new hour, as it is called, at Newgate, London, one said to the other—"Och, Pat, now but there is any difference between being hanged here and hanged in chains?"
 "Yis, honey," replied Pat, "at very great difference, one hangs here only about an hour, but the other hangs all the days of his life."

Lectures for the improvement of young men, are becoming increasingly popular in England. Some of the first names in literature are entering the lists of lecturers every year. George Smith, Esq., F. A. S. made his debut as a lecturer in London last week. A numerous assembly listened to the lecturer, whose subject was "Idolatry." Mr. Smith is one of the most learned men in Britain; his researches in Church History are profound and comprehensive, the results of which already appear in his published works. His largest work, "Sacred Annals," has been reprinted in America in three large volumes, and is in its own shilling a week; now he is a man of wealth and learned leisure; having been the architect of his own fortune and learning. He was about 30 years ago brought under the influence of religion by a Methodist revival, and ever since, his progress in wealth, learning and piety has been singular. But religion, he would probably have been all his life among the toil-worn sons of labour. As he is still physically vigorous and a diligent student, we shall most assuredly have other valuable works from his powerful pen.

Another favourable sign of the times is, the interest which the ministers of religion are taking in the elevation of the sunken masses of the community. The Rev. Jas. H. Rigg, one of the most gifted among the younger class of Meth-ody Ministers, the other day, delivered a lecture in the Town Hall, Brantford, on the "Condition and Prospects of the Labouring Population of England." Some of the statistical facts worked out by Mr. Rigg were most appalling and saddening. He proved, that in certain districts of England's vice and ignorance prevailed at the present time in a much greater proportion than at any previous period, and that 33 per cent of the whole population of England dwell in a wretched manner. Mr. Rigg stated, that this state of things could not be altered by looking at the evil, exposing and grappling with it, and that if the condition of the labouring classes is to be improved, it must be, by giving them a better and improved class of cottages to dwell in, a superior education, and a good moral training thoroughly imbued with the principles of Christianity.—
