PC Has More Criticism Than Praise For Gov't

OTTAWA (CP)—Unpredictable J. C. Van Horne, fiery Progressive Conservative MP from New Brunswick, in a Commons speech Tuesday night had more criticism than praise for government action on a host of problems.

At times he delighted an applauding opposition as he made unemployment in his constituency of Restigouche - Madawaska the theme of his speech. He also raked the government's policies on unemployment insurance, agricultural price supports, housing and the CBC, and blasted Canada's exhibit at the Brussels world fair.

Mr. Van Horne, speaking in the throne speech debate, said the electorate March 31 "had little else to vote for as an alternative" to returning the Conservative government.

"We did not offer all the measures that are needed. But we certainly offered the most."

Were it not for unemployment insurance benefits "many of the people in my constituency would have been driven to insurrection."

The condition was not new, it had existed to almost the same degree under the previous "dead, slack, lack-lustre, unimaginative, unapproachable former Liberal government."

"They (the Liberal government) had been too self-hallowed to listen, too lazy to wake up."

OBsolete Service The CNR, operating "dilapidated and obsolete" services in New Brunswick, was passing up a "great opportunity" to put thousands of persons to work in the province getting it. equipment up to date.

"We have spent 22 years in opposition berating the CNR for expecting pensioners to exist on $30 a month. Yet here we are in power. Some of these people can't wait another 22 years."

Qualifying regulations made too many persons ineligible for disability pensions.

"We need new federal-provincial conference that will work out a new definition of 'invalids' to include invalids. The same goes for other groups, the disabled and the blind."

Minimum family allowances should be doubled, to $12 a child monthly, from the present $6, and should be paid to age 18—instead of the present 16—"and thereafter as long as the child is at school." Mr. Van Horne said such action would merely restore the allowance's purchasing power to the $945 equivalent, when it was started.

"This long over-due action should be taken now," he said, to applause from CCF and Liberal members.

The New Brunswick legislature had passed a resolution favoring a federally-constituted royal commission inquiry into the Bank of Canada and Canada's monetary system, he added. "High finance has been the Bank of Canada's boss, and the bank should serve the interests of the people. There should be provision for periodic reviews of the bank's powers and its functioning."

Mr. Van Horne said 80 per cent is too low a figure on which to calculate the 10-year average base price for commodities being placed under provisions of the Agricultural Prices Stabilization Act. Often the average was lower than the current price, which was still too low.

"Our New Brunswick potatoes must be put in position to compete with U.S. potatoes. This business of on-again, off-again support programs does not provide the kind of support our farmers deserve."

On housing, he said many persons cannot afford the high down-payments asked for. "That is an entirely unnecessary requisite. Housing, under our own National Housing Act, is beyond the reach of many who need it in the worst way."

On the publicly-owned CBC, he said the government "has inherited a mess."

"The whole top echelon seems to be blinded with the wrong kind of liberalism. I suggest that the government sell the CBC, make it completely independent of government. CBC management seems to go out of its way to make the CBC unpopular."

(Prime Minister Diefenbaker stated emphatically last year that the CBC was not for sale.) Criticizing Canada's pavilion at the Brussels International Trade Fair, Mr. Van Horne said "in comparison with the other exhibits you would think that Canada is in dire need of a Colombo Plan."

Rain Assists In Controlling Forest Fires In Many Areas

By THE CANADIAN PRESS Rain gave thousands of weary Canadian fire crews a Victoria Day respite in their struggle against a severe weekend forest fire rampage. But the situation was tense in some parts of the Northland.

Ontario got the biggest break as heavy thundershowers roamed the North, drenching 75 outbreaks. Only 46 were burning Monday. None was out of control.

The fire threat remained serious in Manitoba with 31 fires burning, six out of control. The biggest, near Gypsumville, 140 miles northwest of Winnipeg, was reported stretching through 40 blackened miles of bushland. Alberta reported 28 weekend forest fires burning with one 1,000-acre blaze in the Lesser Slave Lake area out of control. No new fires were reported Monday.

A high hazard continued in parts of Saskatchewan.

The Maritimes had weekend fog and rain, cutting the forest fire hazard to a minimum. There were no outbreaks reported.

Manitoba's serious fire situation has resulted in travel and burning restrictions. All campfires have been banned in the northern section of the province and forest travel has been halted in the Whiteshell, Sandilands, Duck Mountain, Porcupine Mountain, Bird River and Bird Lake forest reserves.
