

FASHION SHOW BRIDE

Centennial Y's Menettes Present Summer Highlight

The Red Carpet was out last evening for the Centennial Y's Menettes Summer Fashion Show sponsored by R. T. Holman, Ltd. and held at the Y.M.C.A. reception room. Against a background of yellow tulips and mixed live account of the activities of the Y's Menettes and thanked everyone for the marvelous support given to them. The conveners were Mrs. J. O. MacLean and Mrs. Harold Milligan.

Hi-Styling commenting was given by Mrs. Brian Cudmore, Mrs. Ronald Woodgate and Mrs. David Scales. Make-up was by Mrs. Norman Stewart and Mrs. Dick Welton, hair-styling by Mrs. Woodruff. Ticket convener was Mrs. Alan Forsythe. Food arrangers were Mrs. George Burgess, Mrs. Norman MacLeod, and Mrs. Robert Mayhew. Program convener Mrs. John Sterns.

There is a friendly intimate atmosphere about this smart Menette show, probably enhanced by the fact that the small tables for four make for fashion camaraderie. To Miss Ruth Boswell's background music of artistically chosen motifs, the models stepped out upon the aforementioned red carpet.

First came the cottons, crisp in silhouette and simple in color. While designed for our easy summer yet they had a sure sense of fashion. In addition to those for the young outlook only there were classic lady charmers in women's sizes.

The California bathing suits were wonderful to see—in or out of water. The make-up for these noon dresses were in flowering silks, the most feminine form of daintiness for teas and dancing. Polka dots were also in evidence. The fashion-minded Princess Margaret is wearing polka dots this season. With the lovely dresses much admiration was expressed for the Paris hair-styles. The lingerie was lovely and the evening dresses simply beautiful. In fact the ballerina length dresses were indescribably smart and pretty. The models who captivated their audience were the following: Mrs. Ken Judson, Mrs. Keith Johnson, Mrs. Leigh Donald, Mrs. Everett MacDougall, Mrs. Charles Balleen, Mrs. R. S. MacIntyre, Mrs. Allison Deacon, Mrs. George Shelton, Mrs. Ralph Bearisto, Mrs. Wm. Soper, Mrs. Julian Herring, Miss Sylvia Boulter, Miss Marina Buell.

Worthy of special mention was the model Mrs. William Soper who was very appealing and who received warm applause. The teen-agers could have been greeted with "Strike up the band! Here comes the star!" They were the following: Miss Florence Montgomery, Miss Marilyn MacDougall, Miss Virginia Mustard, Miss Dianne Jenkins.

The wedding bells of course was the bride. How lovely can a bride be? That question is easily answered. Just as lovely as the bride, Miss Florence MacDougall, was at the Y's Menettes Summer Fashion Show. Against the white dress was carried a sheaf of red carnations presented by the Mrs. John Williams estate and the lovely background of cut flowers were by Tail's. As the bride stood for all to gaze upon her enchantment, Miss Dorothy Baxter sang most effectively, "I'll Walk with You".

Following the show delicious refreshments were served. Lucky door prizes had been presented at intervals during the show. There were two shows Monday night two on Tuesday and one on Wednesday.

As the curtain rang down on Monday's night's first show, all the elements were presented to the Centennial Y's Menettes, the officers of whom are the following: President, Mrs. Harold Milligan, Vice-prident, Mrs. Brian Cudmore, Secretary, Mrs. Ron Woodgate, Treasurer, Mrs. Norman MacLeod. In fact it was with reluctance the people seemed to leave. However, everyone including those who worked so hard are already looking forward to the next year's summer fashion Y's Menettes show.

Among those present at the final meeting this season of the local Canadian Club which was held last night at the Charlottetown Hotel were left to right, Mr. Eric Morse, Ottawa, National Director, Association of Canadian Clubs; Mrs. David Walker, St. Andrew's, N.B., Vice President (Maritimes) Association of Canadian Clubs; Mr. R.A.J. Phillips, Ottawa, guest speaker; His Honor, T. W. L. Prowse, and Mrs. Prowse.

Canadian Club Enjoys Talk On Arctic Regions

"In yet another era of nation-building, Canada is now facing a new frontier in the north. Now we are reaching for a third sea, the Arctic, and seeking to give Canadian life its third dimension," said Mr. R. A. J. Phillips, Ottawa, guest speaker at the Canadian Club dinner held at the Charlottetown Hotel last night.

Mr. Phillips, a member of the Canadian Department of Northern Affairs, with the aid of colored slides, painted a vivid picture of the life, possibilities, and the present developments of the vast northern section of Canada lying between the northern extremities of our present provincial boundaries and the North Pole.

Presiding at this season's concluding meeting of the local Canadian Club was Dr. Frank MacKinnon, retiring president.

Prior to Mr. Phillips' address the National Director, Mr. Morse spoke briefly to the dinner guests expressing his pleasure at being present both at the conference and at the dinner, and reminding his audience that they were not simply a group of "Charlottetownians", but part of nation-wide organization, 40,000 strong. One of whose objectives was to make Canadians better acquainted with one another by providing speakers from various sections of the nation.

Mr. Phillips reminded his hearers that it was almost 1,000 years since the Canadian Arctic was first seen by Europeans.

"For three hundred years," he said, "the ice-filled waters of the Arctic Archipelago and Hudson Bay have been criss-crossed by seamen searching for a path to the riches of Cathay, little realizing that a wealth equaling China's lay at their feet. Then they found fur. Explorers became traders and traders became explorers. There were hints of more substantial riches, of minerals within the frozen rocks. But they remained virtually untouched until almost our generation.

"Fate may seem perverse that so often it places the riches of the world in hard and distant places. It has been so with the north, not just in Canada. Our polar neighbor, the Soviet Union, has wealth in its Arctic tundra, but the Russians are a generation ahead of us in seizing it. Something of Russia's economic strength is based on its north, and much of ours will be. Perhaps we have been slow in pushing our frontier to the Arctic, but this is no reflection on Canada. We have had other preoccupations. The wonder, in the mid-twentieth century, is not that we are just starting to move north, but that we — so very few, so very young — are ready to do so."

Mr. Morse thanked on behalf of the Club by the co-chairman, Mr. George Ayers, who was nominated to act as secretary for the meeting.

Mr. F. MacKinnon reported on the work of the steering committee, and gratefully acknowledged the assistance of the members who had aided in the preliminary work. From a survey of the areas concerned, it was established that more than 80 per cent of approximately 215 families were in favor of the establishment of the new church.

The business of the meeting consisted of the reports of the nominating committee and of the appointments of the Official Board and members to serve on various committees concerned with the planning, construction and operation of the new pastoral charge.
