RCMP Provide Backing For Defecting Seaman

OTTAWA (CP)—A 19-year-old East German seaman who was prevented by other crew members from leaving his ship in St. John's, Nfld., to seek asylum in Canada, was taken off the vessel Thursday by an RCMP constable and an immigration officer.

The immigration department said here that the seaman, Hans Joachim Dost, now is in RCMP custody at St. John's. An inquiry will be held to consider his request to enter Canada.

The youth first tried to leave the ship Bertholt Brecht Tuesday.

Dost approached a night watchman at the pier where the vessel was being repaired and asked how he could seek asylum in Canada. City police were called but left after deciding it was a matter for either the RCMP or the immigration department.

The watchman called the RCMP but before an officer could arrive, four sailors from the Bertholt Brecht dragged Dost back aboard.

Under the Immigration Act, an RCMP officer or an official of the immigration department may muster the crew of a foreign ship docked in a Canadian port.

This provision to the act is implemented whenever authorities feel they have good reason to take the step. After the crew has been mustered any member may make representations to the Canadian authorities.

In this case Dost said he wanted to seek political asylum in Canada. After he had made this statement, he was removed from the ship in the custody of the RCMP.

Canada's Trade With Europe Down In '62, Report Shows

By JIM PEACOCK

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Western European trade with Canada fell in 1962, the United Nations economic commission for Europe says in a report showing that western and eastern Europe remain the most dynamic sector in world trade.

The report, primarily a review of recent changes in Europe's trade, shows Canada's total imports in 1962 were 14 per cent higher than in 1961 while its total exports were up by five per cent.

"The expansion in Canadian trade in 1962," the report says, "occurred entirely in trade with the United States."

The report gives no breakdown of total figures for Canadian trade but says western Europe's share in total Canadian imports fell to 16 per cent in 1962 from 18 per cent the previous year while western Europe's share in total Canadian exports dropped to 24.5 per cent in 1962 from 27 per cent in 1961.

IMPORT LESS WHEAT

Chief reasons for the decline in trade between Canada and western Europe were lower exports of power generating machinery, aircraft and ships from the United Kingdom and lower imports of wheat into European Common Market countries and crude materials into European Free Trade Association countries.

The value of total world trade in 1962 was $140,600,000,000, an increase of 5½ per cent over 1961, the report says.

Imports of Europe—western and eastern—increased to 54.3 per cent of the world's total imports in 1962, an increase from 53.3 per cent in 1961, while European exports amounted to 52.3 per cent of the world's total, up from 51.7 in the previous year.

Trade within Europe increased to 36.6 per cent of the world's total trade in 1962, up from 35 per cent, in 1961.

The report indicates that total world trade in 1963 will show a more rapid rate of growth than it did last year.

Since trade is related to growth in over-all economic activity, this year's trade will reflect a 1962 growth in world production. The report shows world manufacturing production increased by almost six per cent in 1962 compared with a growth rate of slightly more than three per cent in 1961.

In a breakdown of western Europe's trade with North America, the report shows imports from the U.S. totalled $5,650,000,000 in 1962, an increase of five per cent over the previous year. Exports to North America totalled $5,450,000,000 an increase of eight per cent.

For the first half of 1963, imports from North America were five per cent higher than in the same period of last ytar while exports were down one per cent. Total figures were not given in this period.

The report did not separate the North American figures between Canada and the U.S., but said that more than 80 per cent of western European trade with North America is with the U.S.

Americans Make New Corn Sales To Hungarians

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. commerce department has issued two more export licences for the shipment of an additional 1,400,000 bushels of corn to Communist Hungary.

One licence was for 800,000 bushels, valued at $1,408,176, and went to Continental Grain Company of New York. The other was for 600,000 bushels, valued at $969,300, issued to Cargill, Inc., of Minneapolis.

Continental said its shipments will be made in foreign-flag vessels in November, probably through the St. Lawrence River or from the ports of Trois-Rivieres, Que., or Norfolk, Va.

Cargill was authorized Wednesday to ship 1,200,000 bushels of yellow corn to the Soviet satellite country. This deal involved $1,929,384.

No progress was reported meanwhile in U.S.-Soviet negotiations to clear the way for a $250,000,000 sale of U.S. wheat to Russia.

This projected transaction has been complicated by President Kennedy's stipulation in authorizing the sale of grain to the Soviet bloc, that it be shipped in United States vessels when available.

Liver Paste Is Recalled

MONTREAL (CP)—Delicious Food Products Limited has announced is recalling its liver paste from the market immediately because of a federal health department report that a death in Montreal had been linked to poisoned liver paste. The company's product sells under the trade name Paragon.

In a prepared statement, the company said it firmly believes that it is premature to link its product directly with the case of food poisoning. No direct relationship had been established between its product and the case of food poisoning.

The statement said the manufacture of the paste has always been carried out at the plant under the supervision of a federal health inspector, who checked the raw materials and premises.

In Ottawa Wednesday, the federal health department warned housewives to check their cupboards for cans of Paragon brand liver paste. The department said one contaminated can had been found in Montreal and that its officials feared the product might be on sale in other parts of Canada.

The department said Delicious Food Products Company Limited was being ordered to recall all cans now on store shelves or in stockrooms.

The victim of the poisoning was identified in Montreal as Jean Paquette, 17. His 15-year old brother was also stricken but was given anti-botulism vaccine and was reported progressing satisfactorily.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1♦
Pass	1NT	Pass	3NT

Opening lead—two of spades.

This remarkable hand occurred in the match between Great Britain and the United States in 1935. Konstam was North of Britain and opened the bidding with a diamond. When Meredith responded one notrump, Konstam raised him to three.

West led a spade. East won with the queen and returned the ten, the king forcing the ace. Meredith cashed the ace of hearts, led the jack of clubs, and played the king on it after East had followed low. West took the ace and led another spade. East winning with the nine.

East now played the king of diamonds. Meredith won it in dummy with the ace and returned a club, finessing the nine successfully. He then cashed the queen of clubs, and, when the suit proved to be divided 3-3, added two more club tricks to his collection.

Next, with fingers crossed, he finessed the jack of hearts and, when it held, cashed the K-3, which gave him ten tricks for a score of 630 points.

It was a case of making bricks without straw. If West had not taken the king of clubs when he did, South would have gone down two regardless of how he played thereafter. West's play of taking the king with the ace was surely not the worst defensive play on record — most players would probably have fallen into the same trap — but it proved to be very expensive.

Some idea of the magnificence of the result Meredith obtained can be gained by comparing what happened at his table with what happened at the other table.

There the American North opened the bidding with one notrump, which everybody passed.

East led a spade and North wound up going down one! He could have made the contract, it is true, but he ran into a tricky line of defense which caused him to go wrong.

Great Britain gained 730 points on the deal.
