SAD ACCIDENT.—We regret to hear that, on Thursday last, at Georgetown, as Mr. John Inglis, one of the hands in the boat was in the act of jumping from the wharf to the lower deck of the Princess of Wales, he struck his head against the upper deck and fell back against the wharf and into the water. Mr. McCarthy, the mate, immediately came to his rescue, but life was extinct when, in less than five minutes afterwards, the unfortunate man was taken out of the water. It is likely that in falling against the wharf, the neck of the deceased was dislocated. He was a steady, sober young man.—Ib.
