TALES OF THE PINERIES. BY HAMLIN GARLAND.

ANNIE AND ANNIE were standing on the steps of the jail, listening. There's no telling what they'll do, he was saying as he heard some of the wild voices. They heard a new sound—a chorus of savage shouts. The trample of feet grew plainer and more rapid, beating the frozen ground and the hollow sidewalks till an ominous roar arose.

"They're coming," Dan. Annie turned her resolute face to her husband. "They're after him."
"Who's after him? I won't open up—listen to that, will you?"
The roar came nearer, and the shouts now took shape.

"Bring a rope—a rope!"
"We'll hang 'im right now!"
That terrible voice seemed to inflame the whole mob, as a rancous snarl of a tiger rouses the beasts of a menagerie to primitive ferocity.

"Now, Annie," said Dan, "you go in and shut the door. I'll stand here."
"But you're going to need me out here, Dan. I'd rather be out here with you."
"Annie," said Dan, quietly, "go inside. Lock all the doors. Lock this door behind me and hide the keys. I'll stand right here alone."

"All right, Dan," she replied without a quaver. "But I'm afraid!"
"Don't open the doors for anything or anybody till morning—not even to me." His voice had a peculiar inflexible quality. "I don't need any help."
She knew him in these moods. "All right, Dan. It's your duty."

After she went in and shut the door behind her, Dan put his ear to the door till he heard the bolts slide with a click, and the chain rattle into place. Then he took out his revolver, examined them as well as he could in the shadow, and calmly waited the approaching crowd.

Suddenly the city marshal dashed up. "Dan, they're coming!"
"Dan, they're coming!"
"Dan, they're coming!"
"Dan, they're coming!"
"Dan, they're coming!"

"Open the door, Mr. Sheriff."
"Open the door, Mr. Sheriff."
"Open the door, Mr. Sheriff."
"Open the door, Mr. Sheriff."
"Open the door, Mr. Sheriff."

"HALT! STOP RIGHT THERE!"
"HALT! STOP RIGHT THERE!"
"HALT! STOP RIGHT THERE!"
"HALT! STOP RIGHT THERE!"
"HALT! STOP RIGHT THERE!"

reberating about went up. The prisoners, whose pale faces had been seen from the barred windows, shrank back and shivered.
The assault was at a loss. "Which is him?" they called, as they halted before the lower row of cells. "Tell us, Dan."
Dan shook his head. "Not by a d— a sight!"

"This is the fellow!" yelled a big man in a spotted jacket.
The occupant of the cell gave a scream of fear. "Oh, no, no! My God, no! I ain't that man!"
"Next door to the left," said a calm voice from one of the upper cells. "The man in red stockings!"

"Defend 'yself!" cried Dan again. But the prisoner was powerless. The revolver was out of his reach, and he couldn't have used it anyway. He could only cling to the bunk and to the door as they wrenched him out; his dry lips uttered no sound, and his eyes had the wide-open look a hunted animal wears. He made no other resistance than to catch at everything in reach.

"Out with 'im!"
"Here he comes. Get out o' the way."
"Everybody was as mad now to get out as they had previously been to get in. They swept Dan and Annie into a corner by the door and held them there; but as they went by he called.

"You ain't done with me yet, John Haynes, Nick Gooz, Sam Morris." They were too intent on getting outside to do more than glance at him. A wild roar arose outside. For the first time Annie weakened and Dan saw it.
"Go on, you sneaks! Get on your hands and knees!"
He took her by the hand and pushed her into the living room, then turned and rushed to the doorway.

The sight made his hair tingle and stir. "Stand out o' the way, Dan. Don't be a fool—they'll kill ye, sure!"
"I take some of 'em with me" was his grim reply.
The mob halted—wavered. Most of them were spectators merely; and they would have turned away, but again that implacable, howling voice arose, with only curses for words.

"Go on, you sneaks! Smash 'im!"
Instantly a dozen desperate men began fighting their way toward the door. Dan waited immovably.
"Open up for God's sake, Dan—" Those nearest him leaped up as if to seize his hands.

"Back! Stand off!" was his terrible cry, "or by the livin' God, I'll shoot." His words had death in them and the crowd fell back and there was another pause which was portentous.
Dan shivered with a sort of awe. As far as his eye ranged, he saw a flood of human faces on which the moonlight and the electric lights, intermingling, fell. It began at his feet, this flood, it extended into the shadow at every point. And he stood there alone.

Suddenly the door behind him opened and shut with a slam. His wife stood before him with a revolver in her hand. "Annie, for God's sake!" He turned his head and his hands fell.
The shadowy figures near the wall sprang toward him. A shot rang and the figure sprang back with a scream.
"Dan! Look at me, Dan," cried the heroic little woman. "Watch out!"

Friends crowded around, others cursed in a wild uproar. This was the unexpected again. A sort of daze fell on them. Then they called back and forth, suggestions, imprecations. But the pious, insatiable spirits did not surrender. They raised a new cry.
"The back door! Bring sledges."
"Keep the sheriff where he is and we'll be inside!"
Dan turned to his wife bitterly: "We're here. We can't do anything here, and we can't get in."

The crowd jeered. "They ain't enough o' yeh, Dan."
"Let me stay here, Dan, while you—"
"I won't do it." He couldn't tell her that it was her coming that had broken his hold on the crowd. He returned to them again in appeal. As he spoke the crashing of the sledges began.

Timely Warning.

The great success of the chocolate preparations of the house of Walter Baker & Co. (established in 1780) has led to the placing on the market many misleading and unscrupulous imitations of their name, labels, and wrappers. Walter Baker & Co. are the oldest and largest manufacturers of pure and high-grade Cocos and Chocolates on this continent. No chemicals are used in their manufactures.

Consumers should ask for, and be sure that they get, the genuine Walter Baker & Co.'s goods. WALTER BAKER & CO., Limited, DORCHESTER, MASS.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Batesman's Drops, Children's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for colic are composed of opium or morphine?
Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?
Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?
Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?
Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?
Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitzer. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?
Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitzer and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?
Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?
Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?
Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?
Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The face-simile signature of Walter Baker & Co. is on every wrapper. Children Cry for Pitzer's Castoria.

When the kidneys are weak, or overworked, poisons of various kinds are sure to slip past them. Sickness of some kind is sure to result. The kidneys are filters and their work is to keep poisons out of the circulation. The sickness will depend on the nature of the poison—it may be malaria or typhoid or rheumatism or something else. People with weak kidneys can escape these effects by aiding these organs by kidney treatment. People are coming to understand this truth. It explains why Doid's Kidney Pills, though only a kidney medicine, set people right, and they get well. It is all because they go straight to the cause which shows itself in the weak link. When you are sick use Doid's Kidney Pills, for they always cure. Mr. F. A. Rowe, of East Consett, Co., grew 62 tons of pumpkins on three acres the year realized being $186. It took three teams and five men three days to deliver them at the Ganning factory, netting Mr. Rowe about $150. That's a fact. For Nervous Prostration and Anemia there is no medicine that will so promptly and infallibly restore vigor and strength as Scott's Emulsion.

COLIC, Cramp and Cholera, Morbus, Diarrhoea, Dysentery and Summer Complaints, Cuts, Burns, and Bruises, Bites, Stings, and Scalds can all be promptly relieved by PERRY DAVIS' Pain Killer.

Funny People and What They Say.

It is amusing to read advertisements nowadays—best cutters in Canada—away ahead of any on P. E. Island—buying goods at less than manufacturers' prices—buying direct, and all such nonsense. What shrewd people! We claim to hold that proud position to-day of selling cheaper than any house in the city. You don't have to pay extra for cutter's salary and big rents and all such when buying from us. We are the only tailors in this city who make a specialty of custom tailoring. If we could hold before you in this paper to-day the style, fit and finish of one of our garments there would not be one person in Charlottetown but would join us in saying that we are the leading fashionable tailors of P. E. Island.
