How Slate is Mined.

The manner in which slate is mined and cut up for purposes to which it is applied is a process that is known to only a few people in this country, its principal sources being in upper New England and eastern Pennsylvania. It is not taken out of shafts but is quarried out of big holes in the earth. Some time ago when the writer was at Bangor, Pa., he was invited to go down into one of these quarries, about 200 feet deep, and over hand on a rope, but he declined the invitation, as I think most inexperienced persons would do. The slate is blasted out in huge blocks and is hoisted out by steam and turned over to the men who know how to reduce it to the proper size. Huge blocks of it are taken in hand by these workmen, who cut a notch into one end of each piece. Then they take a chisel and a mallet, and they are so skillful in directing their blows that they can split the blocks of slate in almost any way they please. If you watch the slab on which one of them is working you will see a little hair line running through it, and presently the block will fall apart on either side of this mark. The workman will make this line go straight through the middle or to either corner just as he likes. I do not know just how he does it, but he invariably accomplishes what he sets out to do.

The smaller pieces thus produced are taken in hand by another set of men, who reduce them up into sheets of the proper thickness for roofing slate. This they do with a long bladed instrument about the shape of a putty knife, but many times larger, and if you saw them do it you would marvel how they cut the sheets only one inch thick and split it thirty-two times. The usual number of divisions is sixteen. These sheets are taken and cut into squares by machinery.

Wherever there are slate quarries you will find a great many Welshmen, for the best slaters come from Wales. Boys follow the trade of their fathers, and there are whole families and settlements who know no other means of earning a living.—New York Advertiser.

The British Regular Army.

The British regular army at the end of last year numbered 229,000 men of all ranks, which was about 3,000 above the "establishment." The reserves number 80,349 men, the militia 124,700, the yeomanry (volunteer cavalry) 10,400 and the volunteers 227,800. During 1893, 34,847 recruits joined the army. Of these 11,582 were 5 feet 7 inches in height or over, 11,215 measured 34 to 35 inches around the chest and 14,224 weighed 130 pounds and upward. These weights and measurements are a better average than in any other recent year.

DO THOU LIKEWISE.

LADY SAVES FIFTY DOLLARS BY WISELY INVESTING SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS.

A wise, careful and thrifty wife and mother living about five miles from a large and flourishing Ontario town, tells how she was enabled to save fifty dollars by the judicious investmen of seventy five cents. Her story runs as follows:—

"Last autumn I found it necessary to provide new overcoats, suits and dresses for three boys and two girls. The materials for these garments and the making and trimmings would cost fifty dollars. This was a large sum to expend just at the time when we were making great efforts to build a new house.

"For two days I thought the matter over, and after carefully examining my children's garments, the question strongly presented itself to my mind, 'can I make use of the Diamond Dyes?'

"I had used the Diamond Dyes before with great success in a smaller way, and so I determined to see what could be done, with the view of saving so large a sum as fifty dollars. My children's garments were not torn or very badly worn; they were simply faded, dingy and old looking. I commenced with an overcoat to test my skill, and succeeded in dyeing it a lovely dark shade of brown. I pressed and finished it in such a way that it looked like a new garment from the hands of a tailor.

"Meeting with such great success, I tried the other garments and achieved wonderful results, and the total costs of the work accomplished was only seventy-five cents.

"My boys and girls were astonished and were quite as well pleased with the renovated garments as they would have been with new ones. Very few people around me were aware of the fact that I had used Diamond Dyes to renew my children's clothing, and fit for another winter's wear. Of course I told some of my friends how I had saved fifty dollars, and they are following my example and are freely using the Diamond Dyes.

"You will clearly see how any intelligent and handy mother can easily save quite a good sum of money every year. Diamond Dyes are certainly money savers."

PROTECT THE SHEEP.

This is the season of the year when sheep suffer from cold rains and from neglect, second only to that from moisture and neglence in the spring of the year. Then the debility of long confinement and unfamiliarity with rain makes a sudden and very sharp change attended by the injuries that always succeed radical changes. The cold rains of fall send the sheep to barns reduced in vitality and with catarrhal diseases and chronic colds. This can not be afforded, especially so with coarse-wooled sheep. Rains penetrate to the skins of this class of sheep and, of course, vaporize slowly. The skin is kept cold and the animal uncomfortable. It is true that the housing of sheep at this time requires some care and expense, but it is just this care that makes the records of good sheepmen that we so envy. There is no profit without this care for the sheep in the coarse-wooled sorts and less in the other breeds than should be secured.

GENERALLY PRESCRIBED

The idea that Bright's Disease cannot be cured Proven to be a Fallacy.

QUEBEC, Nov. 5—Local physicians are much gratified over the letter of Dr. A. G. McCormick, of Richmond, this province, testifying to his cure of Bright's Disease, by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Since the introduction of the remedy in this city, many physicians have not hesitated to prescribe the pills, and numerous cures have been the result. This latest testimony, coming from so well known a medical man, proves that the local men were right in changing the old-time remedies for Dodd's Kidney Pills. Hence their jubilation.

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
