THE AMERICAN
$8.00 Typewriter.

This is a well-made, practical machine, writing capitals, small letters, figures, and punctuation marks (71 in all) on full width paper, just like a $100 instrument. It is the first of its kind ever offered at a popular price for which the above claim can be truthfully made. It is not a toy, but a typewriter built for and capable of REAL WORK. While not as rapid as the large machines sometimes become in expert hands, it is still at least as rapid as the pen, and has the advantage of such simplicity that it can be understood and mastered almost at a glance. We cordially commend it to helpful parents and teachers everywhere.

- Writes capitals, small letters, figures and marks—71 in all.
- Writes just like a $100 machine.
- No Shift Keys. No Ribbon. Prints from the type direct.
- Prints on flat surface.
- Writing always in sight.

- Takes any width of paper or envelope up to 8½ inches.
- Easy to understand—learned in 5 minutes.
- Weighs only four pounds—most portable.
- Compact, takes up but little room.
- Built solid and simple; can't get out of order.
- Capital and lower case keyboard ailke—easily mastered.
- More "margin play" for the small letters which do most of the work.
- Takes good letter-press copies.

Packed securely in handsome case and expressed to any address on receipt of price, $8.00, in registered letter, money order or certified check. We guarantee every machine, and are glad to answer all inquiries for further information as to this machine and also the "Yost."

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

HIS OPINION ON MONEY.

THOMAS A. EDISON, THE GREAT INVENTOR, SPEAKS.

He Thinks the Hankering After Gold and Silver Largely Due to Tradition and Custom—The Best Dollar Could Be Made of Compressed Wheat.

Thomas A. Edison, the great inventor, has apparently turned a portion of his attention to the financial problem. In a recent interview he said:

"The hankering after gold and silver is largely traditional. People allow themselves to be governed by the old ideas on the subject of coinage formulated at a time when national credits did not exist and currency would only be taken at an intrinsic value. What we need is a new standard of value. I think that the best dollar could be made out of compressed wheat. You take a bushel of wheat and squeeze the water out of it and then compress it into a hard cake the size of a silver dollar and stamp the government mark upon it. That would represent actual value and labor performed and then you could eat your dollar, for when you wanted to use the wheat all that would be necessary would be to put your money to soak. We should then have the bushel of wheat as a permanent unit of value which all farmers would appreciate, and the currency of the country would represent actual worth and labor performed. Both gold and silver could then be dispensed with and the present bimetallic problem solved."

Aluminium.

Aluminium is silvery white, two and a half times heavier than water, and only one third as heavy as steel. It does not tarnish like silver when exposed to the air, and although it is not so hard as iron some of its alloys with copper and other metals are intensely hard and strong. It can be spun around wire so fine that weavers turn it into cloth, and it can be hammered so thin that a breath will blow it away. It is already being used for kitchen pots and pans, because it is so light and strong, and in Germany it is made into equipments for soldiers for the same reason. It is expected some day to replace iron wares for carrying electric currents, since it is much lighter than iron and will not rust. Boats are being made of it, though salt water corrodes it, and the first practical flying-machine is likely to be built in large part of aluminium.

By the aid of electricity it is now possible to extract aluminium from clay cheaply, and the uses of the metal are being increased every year. Up to the present there has been one strong drawback to its use. Mechanics have been unable to make a solder that would unite two pieces of it firmly. If such a solder has been invented, as claimed, then the uses of this most abundant metal have been increased a hundred-fold.—Harper's Young People.

Some Definitions.

Cuff was once a mitten or glove. Coupon—something to cut off—was devised by Thomas Cook, author of Cook's tours, in 1864, but it is not among his testaments that it shall be called "kewpon." Culturist is Americanese, from cultivator of fish or other natural products to a cultivator of culture. Chinook "cultus" means of little worth. There is a cultus cod which will probably give us a significant term in due time. There was an honest simplicity in the elder meaning of custard. It was egg pie. Among the fanciful modernizations stands pre-eminent cynosure—literally the dog's tail—which, by the way, Prof. Moultoe ought to pronounce "sinesure" to be consistent with "zenithe," and which, from its original meaning of the pole star, the train of Ursa Major, and spelt "cinosura," was carried by Benjamin Disraeli to its full present sense, a centre of attraction or interest.

Laugh.

There is absolutely nothing that will help you bear the ills of life so well as a good laugh. Laugh all you can. If the clothes-line breaks, if the cat tips over the milk and the dog elopes with the roast, if the children fall into the mud simultaneously with the advent of clean aprons, if the new girl quits in the middle of housecleaning, and though you search the earth with candles you find none other to take her place: if the neighbor in whom you have trusted goes back on you and keeps chickens, if the chariot wheels of the uninvited guest draw near when you are out of provender and the gaping of an empty purse is like the unfilled mouth of a young robin, take courage if you have enough sunshine in your heart to keep a laugh on your lips.

Europe Slowly Growing Colder.

That the continent of Europe is passing through a cold period has been pointed out by M. Flammarion, the French astronomer. During the past six years the mean temperature of Paris has been about two degrees below the normal, and Great Britain, Belgium, Spain, Italy, Austria and Germany have also been growing cold. The change seems to have been in progress in France for a long time, the growth of the vine having been forced far southward since the thirteenth century; and a similar cooling has been observed as far away as Rio de Janeiro, where the annual temperature has been going down for some years past.—Scientific American.

When Children Grow.

The British Medical Monthly offers some interesting statements, which our readers may test for themselves if they will, as to the times of growth of the human body.

The year of greatest growth in the boys is the seventeenth; in girls the fourteenth. While girls reach full height in their fifteenth year, they acquire full weight at the age of twenty.

Boys are stronger than girls from birth to the eleventh year; then girls become physically superior until the seventeenth year, when the tables are turned, and remain so.

From November to April children grow very little and gain no weight; from April to July they gain in height, but lose in weight, and from July to November they increase greatly in weight, but not in height.

A Husband's Rebuke.

"How do I look?" said Dr. Kallowmell to his young wife as he exhibited his new suit.

"Dressed to kill!" she exclaimed enthusiastically.

"My dear," replied her husband gently, "you shouldn't talk shop."—Judge.

DAINTIES FOR JOHN CHINAMAN.

Ah Sin Revels in Dishes Which Look Curious to Occidental Eyes.

Every day in New York you can see a score of pigtailed gentlemen in the neighborhood of Mott street each carrying a huge brown bag. If you could open these mysterious packages you would find desiccated shrimps and prawns, picked Amoy cabbage, delicate little tubers known as "ma-tai" bitter cucumbers, dried devil fish, Awabi clams from Japan, smoked oysters, preserved sharks' fins, pots of sweetmeats, funny looking sausages and lots of dainties for which there is no name in English. A poor laundryman will spend a quarter or a third of his income upon these luxuries, and will devote a half day of his precious time to cooking them in approved Mongolian style. The table is a queer work of art. The china and porcelain are superb, so beautiful that in this land of collectors they would be placed in cabinets. There are no knives and forks. The Celestial mind regards cutting and carving a labor unworthy of a guest, and relegates it to a cook. In lieu of forks are chopsticks—long, slender bars of ivory tipped with silver or gold. The spoons are films of porcelain; the white glasses, cups like those in children's doll houses. Your plate is a saucer and your napkin a silk towel held by a servant. The table is handsome nevertheless. It is nearly covered with dainty plates containing hors d'œuvres piled up in slender pyramids. One pile consists of peeled bananas, cut into little drums; another of pineapple, carved into tiny bars, like miniatures of laundry soap; a third of crystallized dwarf oranges, moistened in honey; a fourth of fine onion sprouts and a fifth preserved eggs, dark green and suggesting cucumbers. Other plates contain sliced sausage, pickled cocks' combs, hard boiled pigeons' eggs, sweet pickled shredded ginger, sliced water chestnuts, dried fish segments, desiccated prawns, smoked fish roe, and a score of other and equally incongruous dainties.

You help yourself to any of these, both before and during the banquet. In the meantime the waiter or the "sing-song girl" has filled your teacup with fragrant Oolong and your winecup with boiling wine. From this point neither cup is permitted to remain empty nor grow old. If it stands longer than the time allotted by Mongolian etiquette it is removed and replaced by a hot one. After a few minutes of nibbling and sipping the courses begin to arrive and continue to arrive as long as there is a soul at the board. Soups and stews, ouelettes and entrees, roasts and boiled, ragouts and fricassees, croquettes and vol au vents, sweet dishes and sour follow one another without apparent rhyme or reason. At the end of every half hour you take a recess of from five to fifteen minutes. Everybody lights a cigarette or puffs a water pipe. A few retire to one of the bunks and smoke a pipe of opium. The "sing-song" girls perform a brief concert, vocal and instrumental, and again the meal proceeds. It is a poor dinner that has less than twenty courses. Some have forty and fifty, and a few pass the hundred mark. You eat what you please and as much as you please. Scarcely any dish is simple; some contain twenty ingredients. The average banquet uses pork, fresh, salt and smoked; pigs' brain, liver and kidney, chicken, duck, pigeon, quail and goose; fish, fresh, dried, salt and smoked; eggs of at least four kinds, rice, pastry, beans, peas, cabbage, millet, lentils, onions, garlic, leek, cucumber, squash, melon, gourd, potatoes, white and sweet; yam, ma-tai, bean, sprouts, spinach, turnip, parsnip, carrot, devil fish, dragoon fish, fish roe, clams, oysters, crabs, sea weed, mushroom and tree mushrooms, bird's nests, shark's fins, chillies, orange peel, ginger, cocoanut, macaroni, and heaven knows what not.

Interesting Experiments.

The Armstrong Gun Company has shown some very interesting experiments with the latest ordnance. A 6 inch gun was fired four times in twenty seconds, an 8-inch gun three times in thirty seconds. A torpedo was driven satisfactorily with cordite as powder. There was a search light which would keep its beam upon an object no matter how violently the vessel rolled. A 10-inch thirty-ton gun, when it was fired, opened the breech screw by the recoil and wound up a spring, which, when released, would close the breach again. A 4 7-10 field howitzer anchored itself after the first discharge by driving a spade-shaped plate into the ground, after which its recoil was met by a jacket which surrounds it. A 6-inch gun, with light portable disappearing mountings, for a siege train, could be taken apart so that no portion weighed more than three tons, ten hours being required to mount it. A 6-inch naval gun fired five rounds in sixty-nine seconds, each time at a different range and target. A plate of special steel designed for a shield received rifle and Gatling gun fire at 100 yards range without a single penetration, while the plate hitherto used was penetrated at every shot, the Gatling gun almost cutting it in two.

Freeing a Well of Foul Air.

"I saw," says a writer in a Western paper, "a curious method used, the other day, in Illinois to take the foul air out of a well. The well was to be cleaned, but the man that took the job was afraid to go down until he had ascertained the quality of the air at the bottom. He let down a lighted candle, and when it had decended to about six feet of the bottom it went out as suddenly as though extinguished by a whiff of air. That was all he wanted to know. He was then sure that the well had poisonous gas in it, and took a small umbrella, tied a string to the handle and lowered it open into the well. Having let it go nearly to the bottom, he drew it up, carried it a few feet from the well and upset it. He repeated this operation twenty or thirty times, with all the bystanders laughing at him; then again lowered the light, which burned clear and bright even at the bottom. He then condescended to explain that the gas in the well was carbonic acid gas, which is heavier than the air, and therefore could be carried in an umbrella just as though it were so much water. It was a simple trick, yet perfectly effective."

Sara's Opinion.

Madame Bernhardt has expressed her opinion regarding several of her fellow-players. Mary Anderson she considers very beautiful and graceful, and a—a good actress, but not great. Mrs. Langtry is beautiful, beautiful! "But Ellen Terry is the artist I love. Oh, she is a great, a grand artist—so graceful, so bewitching; and Mr. Irving is an artist, too—more artist, however, than actor."

Puttner's Emulsion contains neither Quinine, strychnine, nor other harmful drug. Its ingredients are wholesome animal and vegetable substances, and it may be taken indefinitely without dangerous results. .....
