Trust in God.

BY NORMAN MCLEOD.

Courage brother! do not stumble
Though the path be dark as night;
There's a star to guide the humble—
Trust in God and do the right.

Let the road be long and dreary,
And its endings out of sight;
Foot it bravely—strong or weary—
Trust in God and do the right.

Gems of Thought.

Hatred is blind as well as love.
Memory—bosom-spring of joy.
Kindness—nobler even than revenge.
The greatest pleasure of life is love.

Autumn nodding o'er the yellow plain.
Hate no one—hate their vices, not themselves.
Man is only miserable so far as he thinks himself so.

Learning is pleasurable, but doing is the height of enjoyment.
With most men life is like backgammon, half skill and half luck.

To be a great man it is necessary to turn to account all opportunities.
Justice is the key-note of the world, and all else is ever out of tune.

Who hath not known ill fortune never knew himself or his own virtue.
The English law punishes vice; the Chinese laws do more, they reward virtue.

That laughter costs too much which is purchased by the sacrifice of decency.
Kindness in ourselves is the honey that blunts the sting of unkindness in another.

It is always safe to learn, even from our enemies; seldom safe to venture to instruct even our friends.
It is often better to have a great deal of harm happen to one; a great deal may arouse you to remove what a little will only accustom you to endure.

A modest person seldom fails to gain the good-will of those he converses with, because nobody envies a man who does not appear to be pleased with himself.

Every blade of grass in the field is measured; the green cups and the colored crowns of every flower are counted; the stars of the firmament wheel in cunningly calculated orbits; even the storms have their laws.

The child's grief throbs against the round of its little heart as heavily as the man's sorrow; and the one finds as much delight in his kite or drum as the other in striking the springs of enterprise or soaring on the wings of fame.

Love, when founded in the heart, will show itself in a thousand unpremeditated sallies of happiness; but every cool, deliberate exhibition of the passion only argues little understanding, or great insincerity.

Judgment is not a swift-growing plant; it requires time and culture to mature it, while fancy often springs up and blossoms in a single hour. The fragrance of the first, however, is lasting, while that of the latter is as transient as its stem is fragile.

The Famine in China.

Letters from Shanghai, just received, indicate that the reports of the China famine were far from exaggerated accounts. The Netherlands Ministers-Resident, in an appeal to his countrymen for aid, confirms the worst we have heard, and goes on to state that in spite of the intense cold the sufferers had been forced to pull down their houses, sell their timber, eat the rotten sorghum stalks from the roof and the dried leaves which they usually burn as fuel. Then they sell their clothes and children. Having no more clothes many take refuge in pits built underground to keep themselves warm by the fetid breath of the crowd, a course which is simple death. For the suburb of Ching-Chow city there are four such pits. One-third of the number, 240, originally put in them, died within six weeks, and yet no sooner is a corpse carried out than a crowd is struggling for the place. Starvation by inches faces these unfortunate people, and deputations of old men who come to beg relief weep like little children before you when there is none to be had. Not a day passes but one must refuse to many who ask it, perhaps the last bit they would have eaten. To add to the horrors of the famine, typhus fever has set in.

Interesting Statistics.

During last year the number of strikes in the United Kingdom of England, Scotland and Ireland, of sufficient importance to be classed independently, exceeded 200. More than 5,000 days of skilled labor were lost, which at a low estimate is equal to £1,000,000 sterling in wages, but counting derangement of business, the effect on trade, the excesses, and other evil results due to idleness and ill feeling, more than £2,000,000 in actual loss may be charged to strikes during the year 1877.

It is now claimed that the United States produce more carpets than any other country in the world. In 1875 the value of the product was $32,376,000. In 1872 its importations of carpeting amounted to nearly $6,000,000; in 1877 they were only $675,000.

The largest flour mill in the world is now, according to an American paper, being built at Niagara Falls. Its capacity will be about 1,200 barrels a day. The structure is placed on the hydraulic canal, which has a perpendicular fall of about 190 feet.

The fifth publication of Behm and Wagner's well-known "Population of the Earth" makes the number of the earth's human inhabitants for the current year 1,439,145,300, an increase of 15,000,000 over the estimate of last year. The increase is attributed partly to natural growth, partly to exact knowledge due to recent censuses. The distribution of the population among the grand geographical divisions is as follows: Europe, 312,398,480; Asia, 831,000,000; Africa, 205,219,500; Australia and Polynesia, 4,411,300; America, 86,116,000.

The number of sailing ships built in England, Scotland and Ireland during the first half of 1878 was 350, against 359 in the first half of 1877, with a gross tonnage of 89,842 against 100,892; of steamers 274, against 181, with a tonnage of 239,470, against 139,682 in 1877.

A "SEA DEVIL."—A correspondent of the Standard, writing from Labrador, states that a sea serpent or some species of "sea devil," had been seen at Pack's Harbor, on that coast, two or three times during the summer. The correspondent says: "The serpent rose out of the water with a sharp point something like a marling-spike, which increased in size until it was as large as the Great Eastern. Patrick Dawson saw him yesterday, and he said he could sail his boat under the curve described by the monster when he reared himself out of the water. The mast of his craft would not reach half way up to him. This is no romance—it is a certain fact." Probably the next man who see it will suggest the possibility of running the Great Eastern under the curve made by the monster, and the next man may propose Noah's Ark. The story of its dimensions is sure to increase with the repetition of it; and there is no knowing what vast proportions may be attained at last, if the last observer will only keep his eye fixed on the monster.—St. John's (N. F.) News.

"WHAT IS conscience?" asked a school teacher of his class. "An inward monitor," replied a bright little fellow. "And what's a monitor?" "One of the iron-clads."

A LARGE number of cotton mills in England are closing and great destitution is anticipated.

The People Want Proof.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtues as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted, can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that use it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists on the Western Continent.

How is it possible for a mirror to flatter when it always costs reflections on one's personal appearance?
