Canadian Cyprus Airlift Completed On Schedule

By DAVE MCINTOSH
The NICOSIA (CP)—RCAF airlift of Canadian soldiers to sunny Cyprus was completed Sunday one week after it began in the March snows of Canada.
"The airlift has gone very, very well and we are grateful to the staff of the RCAF," said Lt. Col. Andrew Woodcock, brigade commander of the 1st Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment.
The Van Doos held a muster parade—with band—at their first camp west of Nicosia. The parade, Woodcock said, was not to determine whether anyone was missing but whether someone had sneaked over with the battalion who wasn't supposed to come.
The Canadians are becoming a bit restless because they have not been assigned an operational role although they expect to take over patrol of the most troublesome areas from Nicosia to Kyrenia, miles north of the Mediterranean coast.
Canadian officers and officials had no word on when an operational role would be assigned, when the British troops or those of any other nation were joining UN forces in Cyprus or when Lt. Gen. P. S. Coyne, India, UN force commander, would arrive here to assume his duties.
MEETS WITH U. THANT
Coyne, who has been in India on a brief leave, was to meet with UN Secretary-General U. Thant today in Geneva and reports from there said he was scheduled to return to Cyprus Wednesday.
"There is a lot of people waiting," the Canadian officer said.
British troops which will form part of the 7,000-man force have been issued their UN blue berets but are not yet wearing them.
Some 50 RCAF personnel who helped with the airlift at the end will return home this week leaving the Canadian force at strength of approximately 1,000 when the aircraft carrier Bonaventure arrives at Famagusta March 29 with about 100 soldiers. The Van Doos number slightly more than 700.
The RCAF will continue to operate one or two supply flights weekly into Nicosia in support of Canadian contingents.

Prorogation Tomorrow Is Target

An attempt will be made to wind up the business of the current session of the Legislature so that the session can be prorogued Tuesday by Lieutenant-Governor J. MacDonald.
In adjourning Saturday's sitting until 10 a.m. today, Premier Walter R. Shaw pointed out that "a considerable amount of business has been completed this week and it may be possible to finish the business of the session Monday night."
It is expected that there will be three sittings of the Legislature today and Premier Shaw believes that this should give enough time to complete the consideration of remaining legislation, budgetary estimates, government departments' spending for the 1964-65 fiscal year and finish the debate on the budget.

LIKE SUNDAY DRIVE

Armed with rifles, cameras and binoculars, Canadians conducted a 90-mile patrol Sunday in Kyrenia and west to Myrtos, a town about 100 miles west of the mountains and it was like the Sunday drive in the country, about 25 miles an hour.The patrol was made of friendly greetings from Cypriots gathered in village cafes.

Corporation Will Operate Memorial Buildings Here

By DON MACLEOD
Legislation to provide for the administration, operation and maintenance of the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Buildings in Charlottetown was given second reading—approved in principle—in the Legislature Saturday.
Promoted by Provincial Secretary J. David Stewart, the legislation provides for the setting up of a corporation, known as the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Buildings Trust, consisting of a chairman and sixteen board members.
The chairman and five other members of the 17-man board of trustees are to be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council from residents of the province. The other 11 members of the board will also be appointed by the same body, but will be non-residents of the province who "fairly represent the several regions of Canada."
The successful operation of the buildings will "lie in the calibre of the people this government can come up with to serve on the trustee board."
The objects and powers of the corporation are vested in the corporation. The act, to act, administrator, manager and maintenance of the buildings in furtherance of the purpose for which it was created, as a national memorial to the Fathers of Confederation.

Seafarers' Deaths Moves To St. Peters

Beginning this morning, Prince Edward Island based seal hunters will be operating out of St. Peter's, it was learned last night.
Reports from hunters in the area indicate that a small seal herd is located some 35 miles off the coast and the closest landing point in the area is at St. Peter's.
Planes which had been operating out of Alberton under Glen Matthews had left to join the hunters already in the St. Peter's area and Russell Dockertoff. With the addition of the Matthews group, the total of hunters in the St. Peter's area will stand at about 40 and about 12 planes and one helicopter will be hired.
Ice conditions in the area were described as "rough and dangerous" but the weather, when the weather holds, the hunt on this new herd "should be very successful."
The hunt up until quite recently was rather unsuccessful and a large number of hunters and boats have been lost. Hunters hope that this new herd will help them to overcome some of the losses suffered earlier.

Stories Sparked Clash

They were on their way to restrictions in regions in south-eastern India. They told tales of anti-Hindu violence in Pakistan. So the tension between the two nations turned on the Muslim minority in Orissa and Bihar.
Prime Minister Nehru, a Hindu, sent a note to Pakistan President Mohammed Ayub Khan, a Muslim, suggesting joint action to prevent further strife.
This is a major landmark for Nehru, who has only been here as speaking terms with the Pakistani leaders for two years while the two nations have been at odds over Kashmir and accused each other of mistreating religious minorities.
The government sent orders out to all state governments to get tough with leaders of rioting groups.
Some riot leaders urged their supporters under the guise of religious war while actually seeking loot. Hindu outnumber Muslims in India 47,000,000 to 16,000,000. In Pakistan, the ratio is 70 million for Kashmir and accused each other of mistreating religious minorities.
