Album Review REBA

By: Malcolm Gorrill

REBA is Reba McEntire's fifteenth album. Released this summer, this album was produced by Jimmy Bowen and Reba McEntire, and was manufactured by MCA Records, Inc. 'Sunday Kind of Love' - which illustrates Reba M.'s tremendous vocal and performing talents - has already done well on the country charts. Several other songs show potential for becoming successful singles due to Reba McEntire's distinctive voice and to the talents of various songwriters and musicians. My favorite songs are 'Sunday Kind of Love', 'New Fool at an Old Game', and 'I Know How He Feels'. This album is a must for all U.P.E.I. country fans in general, and Reba McEntire fans in particular.

ARTHUR 2 ON THE ROCKS

Definitely Dudley! Not one of his best, but good comic relief! This, of course, is a sequel to the popular Arthur and John Gielgud is back from the dead as Hobson, the faithful butler, to rescue Arthur.

We are back at the mansion and what happens to Moore to get into such a fix is a classic. And the laughs continue to the very end.

Most of the original cast is back, including Liza Minnelli as Arthur's wife. Not a world class actress, but suitable to play opposite Moore since he isn't one's ideal of a romantic leading man.

This is relaxing theatre - some laughs, a few tears and no complicated plot to set your mind to. This one rates an A and I recommend you see this one at the Twin Cinemas in the Charlotte-town Mall.
