

I. O. D. E. Opens Convention At Edmonton

EDMONTON, (CP)—The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire opened three-day business sessions of their national convention Monday with the approval of an estimated national budget expenditures of $25,000.

In the report of the national finance committee, Mrs. Peter L. Robinson of Toronto called for estimated expenditures of $24,780. However, the estimated income of $23,310 will leave the national treasury with a deficit of $1,470.

The total receipts of the 933 chapters during 1951-1952 were $861,346 and disbursements were $868,575.

Cash and investments on hand Jan. 15, 1952, amounted to $1,336,728, the bulk of which is held in the First and Second World War memorial scholarships.

National organizing secretary Mrs. R. M. Walker of Toronto reported that membership across the country is at 1,026.

At the Saturday announcement by President Mrs. John H. Chipman of Toronto that the Queen had "graciously accepted" the patronage of the I.O.D.E., Mrs. Graham Sinclair of Toronto reported Monday that Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone, had consented to become the organizer of the national convention and to continue as the order's representative in Britain.

171 Nominate

Stresses Need Of Museum Facilities For Province

"A wise nation preserves the relics of its past; all the objects which are the evidence and symbols of its way of life down the long road of nation building," said Mrs. Mary Brehaut in addressing the Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon in the Charlottetown Hotel yesterday. Mrs. Brehaut, who was speaking on the need for a Provincial Museum in this Province, continued:

"A wise nation knows and respects the rock from which it was hewn. If we are to understand the present and to plan wisely for the future, we should know well the pioneer trail of our ancestors and tell of children of these ancestors, how they lived, how they travelled, what they wore and what kind of furniture they had. How the many beautiful pieces of furniture came to this country in tiny ships is a mystery," continued Mrs. Brehaut, "and the household equipment made by the pioneers with homemade tools from native woods suffers not at all in comparison with the pieces brought from their homes by pioneers."

Mr. Brehaut spoke of the P. E. Island Historical Society, founded in Charlottetown in 1882 which has been dormant for many years, and of the more recent activity of the I.O.D.E. in 1949 when through aroused public interest they were successful in staging a modest exhibition of articles of historic value, in the Canadian Legion Hall. The range and variety of the objects shown proved an agreeable surprise. The hall wasn't half big enough. The hope was expressed at that time that the show would become an annual event. Since there is a suitable place, it is secured in which to store such relics as their owners wish to have placed in safe keeping.

"Now a project is under consideration," continued Mrs. Brehaut, "to keep an exhibition going throughout the tourist season as many visitors often express concern over the lack of a suitable place where historic items are on display. The directors of the Y. M. C. A., with commendable public spirit, have offered the Gymnasium in their building for the summer months where ample space is available for relatively large articles of historic value, along with other items.

"Many of our greatest treasures are vanishing with sickening haste," continued the speaker. "Many have already disappeared, some going to museums in other provinces and to the United States. One of our most valuable 'treasures', a translation of the New Testament into Mic-Mac, is now in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington; a beautiful old clock once owned by Captain Holland is in California; a brace of duelling pistols given to Capt. Holland by General Wolfe was taken out of the province and sold The Louvre.

"There is no question that many people of this province have a sincere regard for all that relates to their history, and that they would welcome any move to provide permanently for museum pieces, where all could see and enjoy them," continued Mrs. Brehaut.

"Rare and interesting items are still in the Province to be searched out and identified and your alert co-operation is requested in this connection. Spinning wheels, temptation.

"Through a long succession of scholars men devoted to their God and Country, it has taught that human nature is a constant, and that fundamentally it is the same the world over, but that the material which human nature operates do change, and have changed from time immemorial. That there are absolutes, it does not deny; but the relativity of Einstein is prepared to admit. Like the universality of old St. Dunstan's University, the material and spiritual life harmoniously blended and coordinated to his eternal destiny. In other words, religion and science have lived and flourished here, side by side. 'Ex eodem fonte, fides et scientia.'

"The good bishop, the faithful pastors and the poor laymen who founded this University a century ago, wished it to be a centre of learning where first principles could be taught, discussed and in the words of Francis Bacon, 'digested.' They believed in those days, like Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Harvard in the present day, that 'a body of principles is the necessary possession of the educated man.' The exigencies of the times demanded that the young men of the province should be trained not only in the physical sciences, but also in a broad religious atmosphere that would give purpose to life.

"These early founders always stood firmly by the standard of religious and secular education. I believe, Dr. Sidney Smith, President of the University of Toronto stated recently 'that we have gone too far along the road of secularizing institutions of higher learning. There is a gap in liberal education which has been caused by the policy of evading, ignoring or even opposing the teaching of religion. To the student who knows nothing of theology, much history is meaningless, much philosophy is unintelligible.

"It is my rare and unique privilege, ladies and gentlemen of the Graduating Class of 1953, at the invitation of your distinguished rector and learned faculty, to address you on this memorable occasion. I am deeply thankful for the honor, and I hope, appreciation of its responsibilities. The history and tradition of the commencement address suggest that it should be cast in a setting of unusual dignity, and in its appeal to the ultimate motives of life and in its emphasis on the ethical and intellectual interests of society should touch the highest levels both of thought and expression."

It should help you bridge the gap, perhaps hiatus, that lies between the sheltered and ordered life you have led here and the uncertainty, doubt, and confusion that may be ahead of you on the road or stage of life. I hope I can weave for you a tapestry of life with strong strands of silk, with here and there a golden thread, to inspire you in your high ideals and noble aspirations, within the framework of reasonable ambition.

P.E.I. Hospital Nursing Graduates

A class of 14 graduate nurses of the Prince Edward Island Hospital School of Nursing will receive their diplomas tonight from Senator J. Walter Jones at the graduation exercises at Prince of Wales College.

A large gathering of relatives and friends of the nurses is expected to pack the Auditorium as in former years. The valedictory address will be given by Miss Laura Mae Higginbotham.

Judge DesRoches

The Supreme Law Giver will not be mocked. His sanctions existed before the codes of Eshnunna, Hammurabi and Moses.

High Responsibility
"The hope of the world lies in the leadership of the young men and women who graduate today. To you we entrust the guardianship of our heritage, culture and liberties. Will you measure up to your responsibilities before the judgment seat of God and the opinion of your fellow-men? We hope you do."

"Bear in mind the lessons you have learned here, and the pageantry and symbolism of this day. When the road through life gets rough, and weariness and discouragement slow your footsteps, come back in memory and imagination to your Alma Mater, St. Dunstan's University has been a vigilant and solicitous mother to you. She will refresh your energies, inspire new hope and counsel you in the way of wisdom.

"In concluding, I would like to repeat in part the words of one of St. Dunstan's most outstanding graduates, James Cardinal MacGuigan, spoken on these sacred grounds a few years ago. 'There is indeed,' he said, 'no honor that I could bring back to this college that can repay it for what it has done for me. For, here I was given the opportunity to develop my mind and to form and fashion my heart and will after the Christian ideal—Here I have listened to stalwart men of God give me holy counsel for the guidance of my life—Here I learned something from books—more perhaps from the minds and hearts of my fellow students, and from my teachers, to you who linger here amid the scenes of my youth, be it and ever shall be an island who has struggled and sometimes faltered, but has been sustained and strengthened by drinking from the fountain of faith and knowledge.'

"Graduates of 1953—May God guard and guide you all the bright and gloomy days of your life, but especially when the shadows of evening lengthen, and the mists and darkness of night fall upon you."

Busy Session At Police Court

In the City Police Court yesterday morning before Magistrate K. M. Martin, a resident of West Royalty was sentenced to 30 days in jail for operating a motor vehicle while his faculties were impaired by alcohol. Another resident of the same locality who accompanied the guilty party in the car was convicted of being drunk and disorderly and sentenced to $30 or 30 days. These arrests and convictions arose from a car collision on Euston Street early Sunday morning when a parked taxi was rammed from behind by a car driven by the accused.

A speeder from R. R. 6 was fined $30 and costs or 20 days and for

Interesting Wallpaper Show At PWC Auditorium

Over 200 ladies enjoyed a wall-paper display and style show last evening at Prince of Wales College auditorium, sponsored by R. T. Holman Ltd., assisted by the Junior Ladies Aid of the Prince Edward Island Hospital and the Junior Aid of the Charlottetown Hospital.

Miss Marie Fremont, interior decorator and expert wall-paper stylist with the Reg. N. Boxer Division of the Canadian Wall-paper Manufacturers' Association, was introduced to the audience by Mr. R. E. Sailer, local manager of R. T. Holman Ltd.

Miss Fremont gave a very interesting display of color schemes, using different combinations of ceilings, walls, draperies and floor coverings to produce startling effects. She also gave a demonstration of papering ceilings and walls which made the task look very simple indeed.

Later in the evening Miss Fremont showed a number of colored slides of various rooms in the home showing the proper selection of wallpaper and the effect it has on both modern and period furniture.

During an intermission lucky numbers were drawn and six members of the audience each received a valuable prize.

Also during intermission, through the courtesy of Creameries Ltd., the audience was served with ice cream.

Miss Fremont will conduct a similar wallpaper and style show this evening at the High School auditorium at Summerside.

College Student Wins The Jumbo Jackpot

Last evening at approximately 6:45, Miss Elsie Hickox of Canoe Cove who was visiting in Charlottetown, the guest of Mrs. E. J. Wynne, 210 Weymouth Street, answered the telephone with the word "Quix" and won for herself $100.00.

Miss Hickox has completed her first year teacher's training course at Prince of Wales College.

It was the fourth call made by the Jumbo Jackpot operator, the first three all being incorrectly answered by saying "hello".

passing through a red light, the guilty party from Central Royalty was fined $20 and costs or 10 days, suspended sentence, and a drunk and incapable was given $10 and costs or 10 days.

A local man charged with possession of stolen goods was remanded to the 27th.

The other numbers called were 2658 Summerside, 55-3 Alberton, and 40-24 O'Leary.

The numbers to be called were drawn by Mrs. J. David Stewart wife of Col. J. D. Stewart, Mayor of Charlottetown.

The next contest will appear in Wednesday's Guardian and the name of another of Canada Pacific products will be the word which is to answer the telephone next Monday evening between 6:30 and 7:30.
