Women with Mustaches.

The stories told of artifical improvement in faces are often lies and, of course, no great amount of painting and powering can be done deceptively; but it is a positive fact that science has applied itself in the removal of hair from feminine faces. No less an authority than Dr. Shrady, who was one of Grant's physicians, put me in the way of gratifying my curiosity. He said that women had their mustaches destroyed by electricity; that an illustration of the process was to be given within a few days before a class at the women's college, and that if I desireed I might for that occasion become a student. I went. The class had seats in a small amph theatre before a surgeon's chair which resembled a barber's chair suggestively. The demonstrator was an expert in electricity. He first brought in a battery, attached to which were wires, one ending in a needle and the other in a handle. Then he introduced a girl. She was French, and could not speak much English. I persume he had hired her for that purpose, though she might well desire to submit to the order, for on her upper lip was a decidently unpretty growth of hair. She was a neat, nice looking creature with an olive skin and piquant features. The operator placed the handle of the machine in one of her hands, and told her to grip it steadily. That was to keep up a current through her when ever he touched her with the needle. He fixed an magnifying glass to his eye, bent over her as she lay back in the chair, stuck the needle along down the course of a single hair to its roots. "Ouch-h-h!," exclained the girl. But she said that she could stand it; and so he went on gently stabbing the hair, the electricity each time removing one of the hirsute offences. Fifty were thus done away with. The man explained that they could never grow again, but that the process must be careful, in order not to make tiny scars.—New York Letter in Albany Journal.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and liver complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, nervous prostration, indigestion, dizziness of the head, palpitation of the heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottle, 10 cts. Try it.
