LIZARDS FOR THE LADIES.

Chameleons on Golden Chains the Latest in the East of Fashion.

"Never heard of having a pet chameleon?" said an up-to-date young lady. "Why, you surprise me. The animal is becoming quite a fad. I own in Florida, where I was last winter, a very particular friend of mine always carried her chameleon about with her wherever she went. I'm not sure but that she slept with it. At all events, she wore it constantly.

"Yes, wore it, of course! That is the way to do with a chameleon, according to the latest style. Though I am getting very fond of my own particular specimen, I am not quite reconciled to wearing it yet. But this friend of whom I just spoke had her chameleon attached to a chain. She had a jeweled fastener, the gold band around the creature's body, just behind the fore legs. To this band the chain was fastened, the other end of it being attached to a pin which she stuck into the dress.

"Oh, I assure you that it is quite the thing. A number of women of my acquaintance in Florida last winter wore chameleons. They had them fastened to their dresses by slender gold chains, so that the animals could walk about. If they have a chameleon, it is correct to wear him all the time. Repulsive idea, you say? Not at all. See what a lovely little animal it is! Are his eyes not bright? And then it turns from one color to another in such a wonderful way. When I tickle mine under the chin, he always changes to a bright green.

"Do you know, I was very much frightened when I brought my chameleon on up from the south. After we left Florida last winter he positively refused to take a thing to eat. I tried him with scraps of lettuce, bread, but he declined to touch a morsel. Flies are his favorite diet, but there were none of those to be had in the north during cold weather. Finally, it occurred to me to experiment with cockroaches. To my delight, he devoured them with avidity. I believe that in a dozen chameleons away with every roach, particularly water bugs.

Dr. Stegger, the reptilian expert of the Smithsonian Institution, was applied to for information respecting this so-called species of chameleon. Said he: "It is not a true chameleon. In fact, it is not so nearly related to the chameleon as the monkey is to man. Its right arm is the hind leg, and it is peculiar to America. Though a tropical animal, its habitat extends up into Florida. It lives in trees and, like the real chameleon, is an eater of insects.

"Here are a couple of true chameleons in this bottle of alcohol. You will observe they are very different looking animals from the one I have just described. They are more than twenty different species. Some of them attain a length of sixteen inches when full grown. Certain kinds have long horns. They are a very ancient type of reptile indeed. One of their peculiarities has to do with their feet. Each of these extremities has five toes, and is divided in such a manner that there are three toes on one side and two on the other. If you will put your hand in a position of being about to grasp, and will imagine that you have two thumbs and only three fingers, you will perceive the likeness to the foot of the chameleon. It is made that way, that it is designed for grasping the twigs of trees in which it lives. The animal further assists itself to hold on by means of its prehensile tail, which it winds about the branch. Madagascar is a great place for chameleons. How do they change color you ask? Oh, that is very well understood, though it is not easy to explain in a few words. Beneath the outer skin are several layers of pigmented cells. When upon a green tree, the cells containing the green pigment come to the top, while the others retreat. It is the same way with the other colors produced. Of course the color changes are entirely involuntary on the part of the animal, being merely intended to conceal it from its enemies."—Washington Star.

PEPPER FOR DIGESTION.

While it is true that too much spice and pepper in one's food will in time work some injury to the digestion, over-stimulation, yet it is also true that a moderate daily use of pepper is a proper stimulant for the digestive organs, and in the case of persons who are inclined to have a torpid liver is often quite sufficient to keep them in proper condition without resort to drugs. One physician's prescription for a person habitually bilious was to take once a week a little pill made of bread and a small pinch of cayenne pepper.—Demorest's.

Deservedly Popular.

Our readers have no doubt read with interest the despatches almost weekly appearing in this and other Canadian journals regarding cures of a most startling nature made by Dodd's Kidney Pills. These pills have proven themselves to be a certain cure for all diseases of the kidneys and bladder, such as backache, rheumatism, Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy, etc.

He Was Convinced.

A man in Nova Scotia was in doubt as to the genuineness of the reported cure of Mrs. Bernard Maguire and ex-Councillor Lingley, of Pettersville, Queen's Co., by a course of Dodd's Kidney Pills. He wrote to Squire Lingley, and that gentleman promptly assured him that the testimonials were genuine.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Only a short time remains in which to visit the world's fair. It has been a far greater success financially than had been anticipated in the early summer. So far as the show itself is concerned, all visitors agree in describing it as marvellous, and when its variety, volume and significance are considered, even this term seems inadequate. When one pauses to think that but a few years ago the very site of the city of Chicago was a wilderness, and that to-day there are gathered within her borders the representatives and the products of the skill of all nations of the earth, a conception of the rate at which the world is progressing dawns upon almost bewilderingly the mind. There have been many previous world's fairs, and many more will register their names in the annals of the city of Chicago in its brief and varied history.

In careful study of its people and the climate of the north it is not possible that the prevalence of catarrh. It is a peculiarity resulting from the climate, and is noted by the medical authorities. Unfortunately this annoying and debilitating disease is not confined to Chicago. There are numerous cases of catarrh in the Lower Provinces. It is therefore of the greatest importance that a remedy which has proved its ability to cure the most obstinate cases should be brought into general use. This remedy is Hawker's Catarrh Cure, the most effective in curative power of any before the public to-day.

The Hawker Medicine Co. can furnish testimonials and references regarding Hawker's Catarrh Cure that no reader of this paper will for a moment question. Capt. S. F. Belyea, of Greenwich, King's Co., N. E., under date of Oct. 8th, writes to the company that an aggravated form of catarrh had in his case closed the nasal passages so that he could scarcely breathe, and induced serious deafness and caused him great pain and trouble. He tried many remedies, but all failed until he got Hawker's Catarrh Cure, three 25 cent packages of which affected a cure. "I can honestly say," writes Capt. Belyea, "that I am practically well and I take great pleasure in recommending Hawker's Catarrh Cure to those who may be suffering from this very troublesome disease."
