MENS' INTRAMURALS

INTERMURAL HOCKEY - by: Phillip Brown

Hi again, I am sorry the massive article that was supposed to be in last week was not. Due to the Public Meeting of the four candidates running in the Hillsborough district, at Duffy Ampitheatre, my time was very limited. You may wonder why is he giving this excuse? Well, I always must excuse myself when I do not fulfill something I set out to do.

Now, let me get into the action that has taken place in the IHL. The first game of last week saw M & M defeat Captain Highliner and his Billys (Bus. Vets) by a score of 6-3. Many could not believe it was possible, for the Bus. Vet's are considered as the best team in the league. Even if the latter is true, their expertise was not apparent in the 1st. Annual Symposium Hockey Tourney. They lost the final game to Acadia by a score that is unmentionable. This spectacular event, which involved sportsmanship on behalf of all teams involved, took place during the Christmas holidays. The organizers hope such a tourney will continue in the future.

On Tuesday night the league experienced something we hope will never occur again. The two teams involved were Brand X and the Evolutionary Engineers. Most of the game was very chippy. For you who are unfamiliar with hockey terminology - "chippy" is defined as "excessive roughing". It reached the point where Mike Ready (class 1001 referee) called the game. Apparently the roughness ended in a bench clearing brawl. Brand X had one player on their bench and the Engineers had three on theirs. Thus, the moral of this report is don't always count on rumors containing the real truth. I say this because, to my surprise, only a bit of pushing occurred.

In the remaining week, little action was seen, and so for now, Good Day.

INTERMURAL BASKETBALL

Information has leaked out concerning Vernon Pahl and his recruiting secrets. A senior official in the league has informed me that Vernon has acquired Peter Henderson (Rabbi) draft from the State of Maine and Herbie McInnin, graduate of UCLA Bruins, for his first string. It is hoped for the executive that such practises will not be followed by the other teams in the league.
