Lazy Dog Bomb, Vicious Weapon Against Viet Nam

LONDON (CPA) — One of the weapons being used by the U.S. and South Vietnamese forces in Viet Nam is the Lazy Dog bomb, which showers steel projectiles over a wide area. U.S. military officials have described it as a conventional ordinance. It is a canister bomb, timed to go off before hitting the ground and is packed with finned steel projectiles about 1/4 inches long. The Lazy Dog is considered much more effective against troops concealed under jungle foliage than ordinary high explosives. It is one of the weapons being used in the Viet Nam conflict that has come under attack here from some church and political leaders and newspapers.
