The Schnapper of Australia.

The king of Australian fishes is undoubtedly the schnapper. We speak not now of the trumpeter of Tasmania nor of the blue cod of New Zealand, about which the inhabitants of these colonies are not unnaturally proud. Judging by his shape, the schnapper is an ugly fish. His color is good, but his proportions are not fair as he lies on the slab of the fishmonger. In your first introduction to a ten pound schnapper on the end of your line he strikes you as an interesting acquaintance of whom you would like to know more. On your subsequent intimacy at table you forget much of his unsightliness. He is, however, gibbous and unsymmetrical, having a strange lump on his head, which gives him a startled appearance. This fish is always caught with rod and line, and the manner of his taking is peculiar. The home of the schnapper is in the deep sea, generally a considerable distance from the shore and in the immediate neighborhood of a shelving reef. Good schnapper fishing may, however, be had from the rocks of the mainland or an island. Every holiday in Sydney there are hundreds who go forth to fish for schnappers. For this purpose it is usual to club funds and charter a small steamer. By this means the expense is lessened, while the party is made more enjoyable. The bait is usually the flesh of mullet or other fish cut up.—Chambers' Journal.

How He Got There.

"So our friend Bushler went to the top of Mont Blanc?" said one man to another. "Not at all." "But he said so." "True. Two months ago, when he returned from Switzerland, he said he had been at the foot of Mont Blanc. Since then he has gradually led himself to the top."—Pink Me Up.

STITCH! STITCH! STITCH!

The woman who bends her back over a sewing machine for many hours each day needs to be strong and healthy in every way, or she is courting death. When her work comes hard, and makes her nervous, fretful and despondent, and she has "stitches in the side," pains in the back or abdomen, and headaches, she may be certain that something is radically wrong.

A local doctor, with a limited field of observation and experience, will probably say that the fault is in the stomach, liver or heart. Generally he is wrong. The fault is probably in the delicate and important organs that really constitute womanhood. They are weak or diseased. If such is the case, only a doctor of known reputation and wide experience should be consulted. A letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., will secure the free advice of probably the most eminent specialist in these diseases in the world. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been used with success by tens of thousands of invalid women. Over 100,000 have acknowledged its merits over their signatures. It promptly cures all weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine. All medicine dealers.

"I have been a great sufferer from female diseases," writes Mrs. C. C. Clark, of New Rome, Floyd Co., Ga. "I was confined to my bed three years, and not able to sit in my chair but very little. I got one of your pamphlets and read it and sent and got three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I took the medicine and received so much benefit from those three bottles that I was induced to take more. I therefore sent and got nine bottles. I took them and they completely cured me."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and constipation. One a dose. They never gripe.

Mr. Beechinor was in a Terrible Condition

Could Not Walk or put His Hand

Six Bottles of Nature's Medi-

A STRONG AND CON-VINING LETTER.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

Dear Sir: For five years I suffered from sciatica and rheumatism, at times being so bad, that I could not walk or put my hand to mouth. If I attempted to do any work I would be crippled for weeks, I took medical treatment, Turkish and mineral baths, but all failed to meet my case. Some time ago I tried Paine's Celery Compound, and after using six bottles I feel like a new man, and can do a hard day's work and feel none the worse for it. I have also gained in weight, and can say I am permanently cured. Your truly,
J. BEECHINOR, Shiloh, Ont.

Her Manuscript.

Into the ground floor office of a magazine noted for the red tapery of its methods rushed a woman. In looks, bearing and clothes she was the typical literary crank, and walking up to the rail especially designed to head off such as she she said, "I want to know whether your magazine will print this for me right away." "This" was a bundle of manuscript which, however it may have looked in those faroff days when the woman first began hawking it about, was now tattered and grimy. It was rolled. "We don't—er—we don't consider manuscripts down here," said the young man behind the rail. "You'll have to take it up stairs." "Up stairs," repeated the woman. "How far up?" "Oh, only four flights," said the man. "No, there is no elevator. I'm sorry, madam, but even our editor in chief uses the stairs."

The woman glanced at the stairs. "Four flights counting this one?" she asked. "Counting this one," said the man. "That's too much," said the woman. "I don't care if all the editors in creation climb them, I shan't." And she turned to go when something caught her eye and back she came. "Look here," she said, "isn't that a speaking tube over in the corner?" The man admitted that it was. "Why can't you call up through it and ask them if they will print my manuscript?" The man explained that the manuscript would have to be read first. "Well," went on the woman, "why can't you read it to them through the tube. Then they can tell right off and it'll save me climbing those stairs." The man explained "some more," but, although he did his best, it was in vain. Before he was half through the woman, manuscript in hand, had lounced out of the door with, "And some folks wonder why literature is degenerating."—New York Sun.

Two Failures.

Fuddy—Tandem has been married before, hasn't he?
Duddy—Yes. He was young and inexperienced when he married the first time.
Fuddy—But how about this second marriage?
Duddy—Oh, he is old enough to be childless now.—Boston Transcript.

Then He Sleeps.

"Williams has a new cure for insomnia." "What is it?" "He takes a pitcher up stairs with him and goes to bed under the impression that he has to be up in time to catch a milkman."—Chicago Record.

The Arabs use camel's milk in place of that of the cow, and in all parts of the east sheep's milk is extensively used as a substitute for cow's milk, while in Spain the goat is the domestic substitute for the cow, that country having 4,530,000 goats.

A SWIFT HUMILIATION.

An Arrogant Father Humbled by His Twelve-year-old Son.

"It is an everlasting and incontrovertible fact," remarked the undersized man, "that pride goes before a fall. I used to have some doubts on the subject, but they have all been swept away by the events of this afternoon."

"It was a sudden conversion?"
"Yes, but it was a complete one. I am not in the habit of gloating over the misfortunes of others, but I must confess that a great wave of satisfaction went over me when I saw the proud structure of self esteem which Loftins has been rearing all these years totter and tumble to the dust."

"Has he met with difficulty?"
"Yes. And it did me good to see the way he got red in the face and then turned pale when he realized his position."

"He has a haughty manner. You see, he is a self made man, and, as a consequence, takes especial pride in his success. Reverses cannot fail to go hard with him."

"This one did."
"You were with him when the blow fell, and instead of sympathizing with him you turn around and exult in his misery."

"Well, if you want to put it in that kind of language, it's what I'm doing. He had been talking loud and had half succeeded in convincing me that I didn't know much, and that what I did know wasn't of any account. He had been laying down the law on every question that came up for conversation and showing me where all the theories I had ever formed about anything from politics to boiling an egg were totally wrong. Then came the crash, the awful instant in which what seemed to be a tower of strength proved as flimsy and perishable as the decoration on a wedding cake."

"The blow came in the shape of a telegram?"

"No. It was delivered by one of his own family. He had just settled back in his chair, with his thumbs in the armholes of his vest, to enjoy my silent embarrassment, when his 12-year-old son came into the room with a lot of things he wanted his father to tell him about the siege of Troy, the battle of Thermopylae and how to extract the cube root."—Washington Star.
