THIS IS NATIONAL Health Week-Whooping cough. Because whooping cough has always been regarded as a disease of childhood, it probably hasn't been taken as seriously as it should be. This is not merely a cough, but it is a serious illness which in many cases takes the life of the little victim - or leaves him with some impairment such as deafness, damaged lungs or brain injury. Since it is possible to have a child made immune to this disease or at least make him so unsusceptible that if he takes the disease it will be in a much less serious form, no Canadian youngster should go through life without this protection which can be obtained from a doctor or Health Centre.

Vital Role Of Reading Stressed To Home, School Assn.

It is what happens in the 143 hours of the week (outside of the classroom) that so positively determines the success of the school - and particularly the public school whose pupils come from every type of home and community environment. Superintendent of City Schools K. A. Parker told the Queen Charlotte Home and School Association.

K. A. PARKER

In a meeting at the school auditorium Thursday night, presided over by E. S. Chandler, president of the organization, Mr. Parker said in part: "Frankly, my remarks which follow are directed especially to parents and the responsibilities which they must accept if our children are to receive the maximum benefit from the educational effort. Dr. Laycock, perhaps more than any other Canadian educator, has consistently hammered on the theme for many, many years that every child has four sets of teachers, those in the home, the school, the community, and his companions. Unless there is a constant effort made to integrate the positive and best efforts of these teachers of our boys and girls, the end product is surely bound to be unsatisfactory. The very fact that teachers and parents have gathered this evening under the auspices of a Home and School Association is tangible evidence of the ever present need of the co-operative effort."

Gardiner Will Seek Freer Farm Market With Britain

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Wednesday night he will urge greater Canadian farm produce during talks next week with Sir Anthony Eden.

Mr. Gardiner told the Essex County Medical Society he hopes to express to the British premier the feeling Canada and Britain are of complementary to one another in efforts to persuade the U.K. government to resume its pre-1947 food purchases from Canada.

"During the Second World War we sent to Britain up to 700,000,000 pounds of bacon, up to 145,000,000 pounds of cheese and up to 86,000,000 dozen eggs yearly, partly as a war effort and partly to prove we could supply those quantities."

He said he feels there are better ways of tackling Britain's dollar shortage problems and some of these difficulties could be wiped out altogether "but a small country like Canada cannot wait the world."

"But between 1947 and 1950 they cut off every bit of it. I accepted their reasons, but I felt a bit put out when they suggested we should buy more goods from them," the minister said.
