

Rangers More Interested In Sullivan Than Boston

NEW YORK (CP)—New York Rangers appeared more interested in the broken jaw of their captain, Red Sullivan, Wednesday than they did in their Stanley Cup semi-final with Boston Bruins.

All the talk in the Ranger camp was on Sullivan's injury, instead of the Blues' 5-3 win over Bruins Tuesday night in the first game of the series.

While the Rangers' went through a light practice — and debated Sullivan's jaw — Bruins coach Milt Schmidt was pondering his choice of goalies for the second game Thursday night.

He admitted he was far from pleased with the performance of veteran Harry Lumley Tuesday, and the probability was that he would use Don Simmons for the second game.

Except for Lumley's play, and an expressed general dissatisfaction with his team for not attaining hard enough, Schmidt didn't appear too unhappy about dropping the first game.

"Two cheap penalties beat us," he philosophized, "and I mean really cheap. Outside of that it could have gone either way. You can bet this one isn't going to end in four games."

Hank Ciesla, who took over for Sullivan after the redhead was dropped in the first period by Vic Stasiuk's bodycheck, worked out in the same spot Wednesday and will be in the same spot Thursday.

PRaise FOR CIESLA
Phil Watson, Ranger coach, sprinkled a few words of praise his way — between accusations that Boston is trying to maim the Rangers.

"Ciesla filled the hole and he played a hell of a game," he said. "If he plays that way we won't miss Sullivan too much."

Then Watson returned to Sullivan's injury.

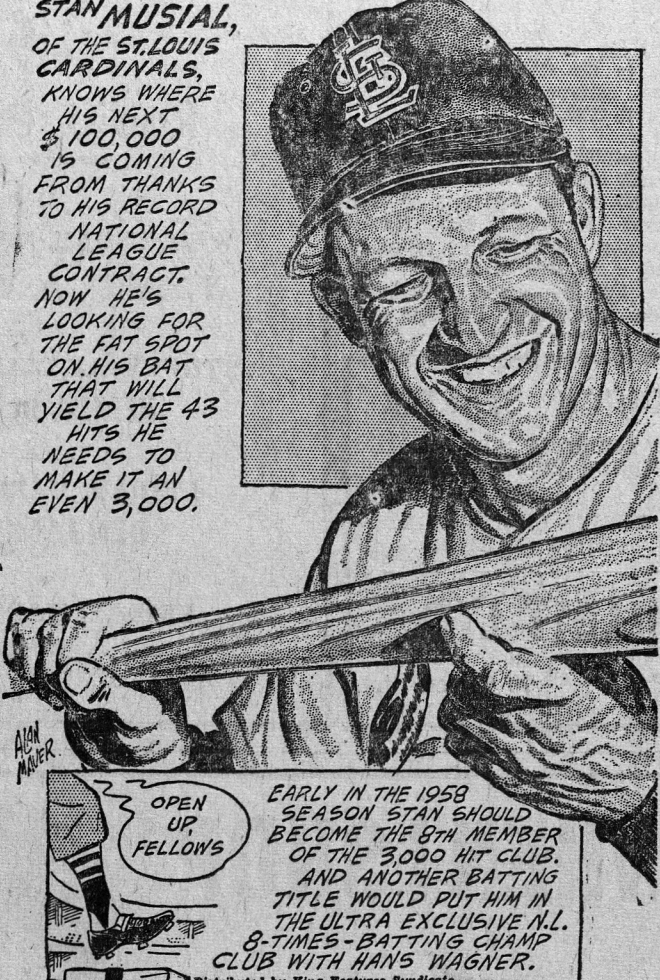

"Stasiuk had to skate an extra 20 feet to make contact. It was a dirty rotten play if I ever saw one. We figured the Bruins would be out to cripple us, and now we're sure of it."

But most of the other Rangers, including general manager Muzz Patrick, discounted Watson's excited comments. "It was a fair check—that's part of the game," Patrick said.

Beavers Defeat Cape Breton 3-2

SYDNEY (CP) — Two unmatched goals in the third period gave Buckingham, Que., Beavers a 3-2 win over Cape Breton All-Stars here Wednesday night. It squared the best-of-five Eastern Canada Memorial Cup quarter-final at one apiece.

It was a case of Beavers living up to their name. They worked harder than the Cape Bretoners throughout for the comeback victory. Beavers trailed 1-0 at the end of the first, and 2-1 going into the third.

Pierre Hayes tied it at 7:17 of the final when he whipped around the Cape Breton cage after taking a pass from Louis Bardeleau and poked the puck into the corner.

Cape Breton was a man short at the time of the tying goal, but the teams were at full strength when Mike Donaldson fired home the winner at 11:32 of the third.

Hilary Lawlis scored the other Buckingham goal. He got Guy Beaugard's rebound as the two were left alone in front of goalie Joey McMullin.

For Cape Breton, Lou Roy and Doug Polley were the snipers.

Adams Has No Sympathy For Wings After Defeat

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Cana'tian Press Staff Writer
MONTREAL (CP) — Detroit Red Wings, ignominiously defeated 8-1 by Montreal Canadiens in the first game of their Stanley Cup semi-final, got no sympathy Wednesday — certainly not from general manager Jack Adams.
"They couldn't have beaten the Verdun (local team) juniors last night," fumed Adams.

Adams was reported to have been just as vitriolic in talking directly to his players—"maybe you are a National Hockey League team but you didn't play like one . . . if you have no feeling of pride you don't deserve anything better than what happened to you."
MIGHT DO GOOD
Adams agreed that the terrific lacing might do his club some good and that the players would strike back Thursday in the second game of the best-of-seven series before the teams move on to Detroit.
But he still wasn't going to be too enthusiastic.
"For years I've been dying with these guys. Now I'm not going to die any more. Not for hockey players. It's their money, not mine, they're tossing off."
Coach Sid Abel agreed his Wings couldn't have been much worse.
"We've got to hold down penalties for one thing," he said. "That Montreal power play will

"We outplayed them from the start, got the jump on them, but they're still dangerous," said Blake. "You can write off that lopsided score. There probably won't be another game like that in the series."
"I was glad to see our power play had a lot of hustle for a change. In the last few games of the season, after we had clinched the NHL title, there was a let-down."
Blake said he will go with the same lineup in Thursday's game with the same lines working. This indicates that Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrin, who made his appearance Tuesday after being sidelined two months, will be used almost exclusively on the power play.

Roy (Polley, Locke) 13:21. Penalties: Hayes 3:29, Moore 5:47, Polley 5:49, Vince McNeil 7:48, Parent 9:44, H. Lawlis 19:09.
Second period: 2. Buckingham, H. Lawlis (Beaugard) 2:10; 3. Cape Breton, Polley (Locke) 8:33. Penalties: Keddy 9:41, V. McNeil 10:11, Cyr 14:54, Donaldson 19:52, H. Lawlis (miscellaneous) 19:52.
Third period: 4. Buckingham, Hayes (Bardeleau) 7:17; 5. Buckingham, Donaldson (LaFrance) 11:32. Penalties: Hayes 1:04, V. McNeil 6:17, D. McNeil 9:02.
Stops: McMullan 4 15 9-33, Lvaerne 10 7 9-26

MAKE SURE YOUR SHOTGUN FITS YOU

GENERALLY, THE LENGTH OF PULL IS RIGHT WHEN THE BUTT FITS INTO THE CROOK OF THE FORE-ARM WITH THE FINGER ON THE TRIGGER.

IF WHEN YOU PRESS YOUR CHEEK FIRMLY AGAINST THE COMB YOU CAN'T LOOK RIGHT DOWN THE BARREL BUT SEE IT FORESHORTENED (A), THERE IS TOO LITTLE DROP IN THE COMB AND YOU'LL SHOOT HIGH. IF UNDER THE SAME CIRCUMSTANCES YOU SEE ONLY THE BRECH, YOUR GUN HAS TOO MUCH DROP AT THE COMB.

TO IMPROVE YOUR AIM, SHOOTING AT CLAY PIGEONS THROWN BY A PARTNER WITH A HAND TRAP IS AN EXCELLENT WAY

IF YOUR GUN FITS YOU PERFECTLY BUT YOU STILL MISS, GENERALLY THE COMMONEST REASONS ARE — NOT GETTING YOUR CHEEK DOWN ON THE COMB, THEREBY SEEING TOO MUCH OF THE BARREL AND OVERSHOOTING; SLOWING OR STOPPING YOUR SWING, CAUSING INSUFFICIENT LEAD
