ENMAN'S DRUGS

Among The Farmers

Federation Of Agriculture News

Farmers and Taxpayers

We are getting just a little bit fed up with that section of the Canadian press which, in discussing the payment of sixty five million dollars to western growers, persists in dividing Canadians into two classes, taxpayers and farmers.

We fall to see that any damaging effect to the economy of Canada as a whole, is going to result in the transfer of this money from Canada to western Canada. It does not appear to be a great deal different from shifting your wallet from one pocket to another.

Those same newspapers might devote some consideration to the transfer of wealth which has gone on for the past half century from western Canada to Central Canada and which has resulted in the development of wealthy and powerful commercial enterprises particularly in the province of Ontario.

Attempts to crucify Mr. Gardiner on a cross of golden wheat will likely backfire to Mr. Gardiner's advantage. A study of Mr. Gardiner's career indicates when the going gets tough, the Minister of Agriculture's ability to take care of himself.

The taxpayers, we feel, should be reminded of the fact that throughout the war the western wheat farmer underwrote the cost of cheap flour and bread. Farmers are taxpayers.

Weekly Newspapers of Canada

Recently the weekly newspapers of Canada presented a brief to the Federal Government dealing with the national emergency. The following quotation from a section of the brief headed "National Production" is, we believe, of interest to farmers:

"It therefore views with some concern the continuing trend, particularly in large metropolitan areas and in large corporations, toward the arbitrary curtailment of productive hours of work to a level which, in time of national emergency, is well below what is normal."

"This tendency, evident until most recently in the public service as well as in private commerce and industry, places an unfair economic burden on rural Canada."

"To those employed on the farms and in the villages and towns, industry-wide boosts and price increases in urban centres often mean longer hours, or lower rates of pay, or both, so that essential, city-produced goods and services may be acquired. It must be realized that, among rural producers, the laws of supply and demand are still working, in the main, in a competitive market. Rural residents, therefore, are not in a position to meet on equal terms the inflationary pricing policies which have recently been evident among semi-monopolistic urban labor and management."

"The increasing number of idle farms at a time when adequate food production and proper care of the land is our most vital resource well illustrates this dangerous imbalance between our rural and urban economies — an imbalance which, in time of preparedness for possible conflict, is a weak link in our national armor."

Cheese Meeting

The suggestion made at the annual meeting of the Dairyman's Association that a conference of cheese producing organizations should be held is receiving favourable consideration by the Dairy Farmers of Canada. We are advised that the Ontario Cheese Producers Marketing Board are willing to set in at such a meeting provided Quebec people are interested. It is expected by next week Quebec will decide on a course of action.

Farmers and Legislative Assembly

The brief presented by the Federation of Agriculture to the members of the Legislative Assembly was well received and we believe that both the members of the House and of the Federation delegation profited by the discussion resulting from the presentation of the brief. Mr. R. R. Bell, Leader of the Opposition, was convinced of the value of such briefs and stated that in reviewing previous presentations made in the past had now become government policy.

The harmony evident at Wednesday's meeting indicates that the members of the Assembly recognize the Federation of Agriculture as the voice of the farmers. The Fed.

eration, on its part, realizes that governments have no magic wand to use in the creation of new eras. It is sound policy for the Federation to be reasonable in its demands, but not necessarily apologetic.

Cradled In The Waves

Many Federation members were personally acquainted with Dr. John T. Croteau, whose book, "Cradled In The Waves" is just off the press. Dr. Croteau's book deals in a most interesting way with the development of the Co-operative movement, Farm Radio Forum, Federation of Agriculture, and Adult Education.

Persons still active in the public life of the province are frankly discussed and the attitudes and habits of Prince Edward Islanders analyzed in an interesting fashion. All will perhaps not agree with the authors opinions but we do feel that all will enjoy reading the book. "Cradled In The Waves" would be a distinct addition to any library in the province.

The Federation Is Born

On Sunday, March 25th, the Federation of Agriculture celebrates its 10th Anniversary. Ten years ago, representatives of ten organizations met and organized the P.E.I. Federation of Agriculture. Two of these groups — the Horse Breeders Ass'n, and the P. E. I. Livestock Marketing Board, are no longer active. But, to the number have been added, the Co-operative Union, Milk Producers Ass'n, Approved Flock Ass'n, Women's Institutes, Junior Farmers, and three County Federations to bring the present total to fifteen plus over 5,000 individual members.

It might, therefore, be said that the Federation represents in a very broad way, the interests of Agriculture in all its various Departments. All the representatives present at that meeting, with the exception of Captain John L. Reid, the first president who represented the Canadian National Silver Fox Breeders Ass'n, and J. W. Boulter of the Potato Growers Ass'n, are still active in the agricultural life of the province.

Officers elected at this meeting were: President — Captain Reid, Vice-president — J. J. Trainor, Secretary — W. R. Shaw, Executive members — Wylie Gibson, R. A. Profit, and J. L. Dewar.

Among the resolutions were one of dealing with eradication of the warble and bot fly; the holding of a Maritime Livestock Show in Charlottetown; allowing butter to be sold in an open market rather than at pegged prices; and the establishing of a cold storage plant in Borden.

A scheme for the marketing of livestock was discussed at some length and action urged. This scheme was, however, eventually declared by the courts to be ultra vires.

The budget for the year was set at $206.00. Ten years has seen a substantial growth in the organization and has demonstrated the ability of farmers to work harmoniously as a group.

Warble Fly Campaign

Orders for warble fly powder are still coming in and the response, as indicated by number of districts taking part, quite satisfactory. It is hoped to have the material ready for distribution by the last of March, a slight delay having been encountered in delivery. However, warbles appear to be later than usual in developing this year and material will be sent out in ample time.

Central Farmers' Institute

The 63rd annual meeting of the Central Farmers Institute will be held on or about April 10th. As a feature of this evening, it is hoped to arrange a panel discussion on grass and clover ensilage to be taken part in by farmers and agricultural officials who have had some experience in this work.
