Letter Carriers Discuss Pay, Working Conditions

BY GEORGE CONDON, Guardian-Patriot Staff Writer

Some 46 resolutions covering topics from pay increases and better working conditions to improving uniforms were discussed at the Maritime Letter Carriers' convention held yesterday at the Charlottetown Hotel.

Under the chairmanship of Don McBurnie of Truro, N.S., regional vice-president, the delegates made decisions on the subjects to be discussed at the national meeting in September.

Some of the resolutions, an interesting topic, drew many comments and ideas as well working conditions. The consensus was that winter working hours were causing difficulty. Carriers were expected to complete their routes in a set time and get paid for that stipulated time. But even though it often takes an hour or so more to complete the routes in the snow, the men would still only be paid for the theoretical time.

Uniforms were another source of concern for the delegates. Since the issue of postal uniforms is standardized across the country, all sections would be wearing the same garb at the same time. But in a country such as Canada with its extremes of temperatures the situation sometimes arises where those in a cool section have only light clothes and vice versa.

A delegate to represent Charlottetown local Branch 27 was selected to attend the national convention to be held in September in Winnipeg. This year's representative will be Arthur Hale. There is also the possibility of a delegate from Summerside.

The convention which began with a banquet and social evening Saturday saw approximately 50 delegates from 18 districts attend. Any other carriers who wished to attend were welcome.

The speakers were Mayor Gaudet, who also presented a set of cuff links engraved with the city's crest to Frank Stranding, the national secretary; E. F. Stanley, local vice-president; Don McBurnie; and Mr. Stranding.

All arrangements for this Maritime convention were made by a committee headed by Keith Parrach of Charlottetown.

The next Maritime session is tentatively scheduled for Saint John, N.B. in 1966, the same year as the next national meeting.

Navigation Is Blocked By Ice Field

Reporting on ice conditions round Prince Edward Island, E.K. McNutt, district marine agent, department of transport, said last night, that navigation around the east end of the island is practically impossible.

A large field of ice stretches from Cobhead, north to the Magdalen Islands, and east to Cape Breton. This field continues on down between P.E.I. and the Strait almost to Pictou harbor.

Mr. McNutt said that as the ice breaks up it is slowly funneling out through the Cabot Strait into the Atlantic, but with the light winds of the past several days this movement has been very slow.

Questioned regarding three ships that have been in the ice off Savoie Harbor and Moril for the past few days, he was of the opinion that they are probably fishing trawlers that are unable to break their way back to the Magdalen. Mr. McNutt said that he has received no reports of foreign fishing craft being in the gulf.
