SEPTEMBER LADIES' HOME JOURNAL

The September Ladies' Home Journal, in the variety, interest and timeliness of its articles, and in the beauty of its illustrations, is a notable number of that magazine. A spirited article by John F. Coyle, "When Henry Clay Said Farewell to the Senate," describes the most impressive and dramatic scene ever enacted in Congress and another, by Clifford Howard, tells of "Destroying a Million Dollars a Day," the task of the redemption division of our Treasury. Elizabeth Bisland in "The Difference Between Mrs. A. and Mrs. B.," defines the exactions that "The Four Hundred," or the dominating social circle of communities, imposes on an aspirant for admission to its ranks.

The second part of Hamlin Garland's serial, "The Spirit of Sweetwater" will appeal to every reader of romance, and the first of Mrs. Mark Morrison's "The Pixies and the Elaines" series will charm every child who may follow the adventures of those winsome fairies. A composition for the piano, "Golden Vineyard Waltzes," the musical feature of the magazine, is regarded by its famous composer, Edward Jakobowski as one of his best. Edward W. Bok, with characteristic directness, discusses "On Being Old Fashioned," and other topics of especial concern to women. William Martin Johnson describes and pictures "Floral Effects for 'Home Weddings,'" and Walter Germain tells of "The Groom's Part in the Wedding." Other articles that have a special, practical value detail how photography can be successfully pursued as a profession by women; tells of "The Best Shade Trees for Small Gardens" give advice in nursing the sick; explain and picture some striking household decorations, etc.

Mrs. Rorer's cooking lesson treats on "Making Bread and Rolls," and she also points out "Small Leakages of a House-hold," and how to prevent them. The fashion articles on winter gowns, hats, coats and jackets, by Isabel A. Mallon, have the value of being profusely illustrated by photographs from the latest Paris designs. There are also poems, various short sketches, and the other departments; so there is nothing lacking to make the September Journal a complete family magazine. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia; ten cents per copy; one dollar per year.

FLOUR THAT MAKES THE BEST BREAD

The soft, fine white flour will not give as large an amount of muscle, bone or nerve making food as the whole wheat flour, which constitutes in itself a complete life-sustainer. In selecting flour choose that which is dark in color and free from bran. The best bread flours in the market are of a yellowish white tinge, rather granulated, and do not easily pack. They make a strong and elastic dough. Though not whole wheat flours they are decidedly the best of the white brands. After selecting the flour the next important thing is to have a good, strong sweet and pure yeast. The compressed cakes are good and convenient, and will do the work much more quickly than ten minutes the amount of home made or baker's yeast. When setting bread to rise stand your bread pan in another of warm water; cover the two so that the moisture will pass over the top of the dough at an even temperature of seventy five of Fahrenheit.—Mrs. S. T. ROPER in SEPTEMBER LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

How many young men and women are cut off just as the future seems brightest and fullest of promise! They are taken away by the disease which causes over one-sixth of the deaths in the world—the disease which doctors call consumption. There is absolutely no reason in the world why consumption should be fatal—why it should be even serious. It is a disease of the blood and can be cured absolutely and always by purifying and enriching the blood. The only exception to this is the case where the disease has been neglected and improperly treated until it is stronger than the body—until the body has become so weak as to have lost the ability to recuperate. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure 98 per cent of all cases of consumption if used according to directions. It also cures all lingering coughs, bronchial and throat affections.

Send 31 cents in one-cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, illustrated.

A QUESTION—How many women know how to walk? Observe them in the street or entering a drawing room even the better classes. One shambles, another slouches as if her shoes were down at the heel; but most of them dive, straining every muscle in their bodies, ploughing along with a strenuous effort, like a ship in a high sea and facing head winds. A perceptible swing of the body should be manifest with every step—that is, advance all of one side at the same time, with a slight turn right and left of the shoulders as the corresponding foot is projected. A long step—not a stride—easy, unhurried, the leg thrown forward from the hip,—this is the secret of the ideal gait.—Science Siftings.
