McIntosh - Moreside Wedding Is Solemnized

Trinity Baptist Church, Vancouver, was the setting for the wedding of Ann Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Alan Moreside, and James Wilfred McIntosh, of the latter's Hamilton officiating.

The bride's father was originally from Prince Edward Island. The bride wore a pink lace gown cut on princess lines and a white feather bandeau.

cade. Soloist was Miss Elizabeth Wolverson.

Mr. Walter Leasing was best man and ushers were Mr. Ernest L. Williams and Mrs. A. A. Gujertnik.

A reception was held in Trinity Hall when floral arrangements were in the charge of Mr. W. Butterfield.

The couple left by plane for Regina where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Milliken.

MARY HAWORTH Use Some Enterprise

Dear Mary Haworth: I have been employed as secretary by a big concern in Manhattan for over a month at this writing, and nobody speaks to me. Furthermore nobody gives me any work to do. However, I receive a regular pay check which I find on my desk each week.

I am very shy and usually I get along with my work. I am acquainted, with the other person having to make the approach. So what should I do? Please help me. I can't sleep nights and have lost 10 pounds since I started working.

With nothing to do, I spend hours looking out the window at a building across the way that has 369 windows. Occasionally I write imaginary business letters to myself and several times I have mailed them to myself at my office address. Oddly, I never receive them.

BYPASSES HER
Oddly too, I once gave my office phone number to a man I had dated. I was much impressed with him and he wanted to see me again and asked for my telephone number, which I gladly gave. I never heard from him at the office but he got me at home a few weeks later.

He said he called the office, asked for my extension and the line went dead. He called back at least once a day for several days, and finally asked for my name. To which the switchboard operator replied: "We have no such person listed on our personnel roster."

What am I to do? Shall I quit? If so, to whom should I resign? The personnel manager who hired me is no longer with the company, I learned when I tried to call him. Should I stay and continue this hollow existence? Or should I just stop coming? I surely will appreciate your help, E.P.

USE SOME ENTERPRISE
Dear E.P.: You could use a little journalistic enterprise, such as all green reporters are obliged to muster, when first turned loose to sink or swim in the "business" of controlling facts, out of the blue.

By which I mean, you could get busy on your idle telephone, and go down the line of key persons in the organization, to try to find some executive or his secretary, who would take an interest in your spunky situation as described.

If the former personnel manager has vanished, speak to his successor—or to the employee who does his work. As for the switchboard mistake, go after that too, either over the telephone or by personal visit to the switchboard department. Make it emphatically clear that you are in the organization, and that you'd like to be sure that people can reach you from the outside.

Mention the recent instance of a man's having tried to get through to you by phone, and his defeat (as he later told you). You don't need to say that you are a friend calling. Just stress the fact that you are in the building, you are on the payroll, you do have a company telephone extension, and you don't want the public told otherwise.

TELE HEAD MAN
Next, get in touch with the mail room. Ask for the chief clerk or whoever runs the department. Identify yourself—as to name, office location, extension number, etc., and ask why your mail isn't being sent to your desk. Be firm about knowing, positively, that certain letters addressed to you in the past month, have not acceeded. Ask the desk make a note of your complaint and to use that you get your mail hereafter.

Also, check in with the treasurer's office — the people who handle the salary records. You might show up there with your next pay check, and ask to speak to the head man, or a spokesman for him—to inquire just what you are being paid for. Get it on the record that you've been there a month (or is it two months by now?), with nothing to do.

Finally, you might learn the name and title of the man at the top, who runs the whole show, and address a short letter to him — just to let him know that you're drawing a weekly check at company expense, while still in the dark as to why you were hired. Ask if he or his staff can put you to work; or get you fired so as to end this lousy suspense. If none of these approaches get sensible action out of him, my advice is to resign. M.H.

MOUNT STEWART W.L.
The December meeting of the Mount Stewart Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Daniel Mullen on Tuesday, December 3. The meeting opened by singing "Christmas in Killarney" followed by repeating the "Mary Stewart Collect" in unison.

The president, Mrs. Ray Leard, presided. Mrs. Arthur MacLaughlin was appointed secretary for the meeting.

The Roll Call was answered by an exchange of Christmas gifts. The minutes of the November meeting were read and adopted. The reports of the Sick Committee and School Committee were read. It was decided to give the school children a treat of ice cream and apples at the closing.

A Christmas story and demonstration were given by Aetha Mullen and enjoyed by all. A Christmas Luncheon was served by the hostess assisted by Aetha Mullen. The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ernest Affleck assisted by Mrs. James Affleck.

Sudbury-Caseley Wedding Solemnized in Kelvin

The home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Caseley, Kelvin, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, November 16, 1957 when their only daughter, Joan Irene, was married to the bride of Keith Elric, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Evgene Sudbury, Spring Valley.

Rev. L. M. Murray officiated at the ceremony which took place at two o'clock in the afternoon in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends of the bride.

The petite bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was handsome in Queen's blue crepe cotton with very full skirt of steel length. The fitted bodice featured puff sleeves and a back neckline, and she wore a nosegay of deep pink geraniums.

Her only attendant was her cousin Miss Carol Thompson, whose pale blue and grey winter afternoon dress featured very full skirt and three quarter length sleeves. Her nosegay was of pale pink carnations. Mr. Sudbury acted as best man.

Miss Sheila Caseley, cousin of the bride, placed the wedding ring on the bride's finger. "Perfect Love" at the conclusion of the ceremony, accompanied by Mrs. Murray.

Miss Caseley chose for her wedding dress, a dress of crepe with lace and a corsage of white carnations. Suburban, mother of the groom, wore an afternoon dress of Sapphire blue a corsage of deep pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a buffet supper was served with Kellogg's W.I. catering.

The table was centered with a three tier wedding cake beautifully decorated and circled with wreath of pink geraniums. Silver tapers in silver holders and a soft light. Mixed flowers and blue ferns were used in decorating the rooms.

Seating was Misses Marlene and Gwendyth MacMurdo, Ema Howe, Roberta Hogg and Diane Jones, under the direction of Mrs. Morris Caseley, president of Kellogg's W.I. Miss Carol Thompson was in charge of the gift book. A group of "well wished" card holders were our good wishes to those of the bride. Later the happy young couple left amid showers of confetti on a honeymoon trip in company with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith, married the same day. Guests included Moncton, Kellogg, Oshawa and Toronto and Mrs. Sudbury will live in Spring Valley.

After her marriage, Miss Caseley was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Caseley, Kelvin, on Sunday evening, November 17. Pink and white streamers centered with a wedding bell marked the bridal chair to which she was escorted. The Bridal Chorus was played by Miss Sheila Caseley.

Misses Diane Mayhew, Judy White, Astrid Miller and Marlene MacMurdo carried in the well laden baskets which were handled by Misses Janet Crozier and Nancy MacMurdo.

The parcels were opened by Mrs. Owen Court and Gwendyth MacMurdo. Mrs. Gwendyth Caseley and Miss Carol Thompson were the names and good wishes while the gifts were arranged on the table by a Gwendyth Huestis and Miss Roberta

HOUSEHOLD HINT

If you have trouble closing a zipper up the back of a dress, thread a string through the hole in the tab, put the string over your shoulder and pull the zipper closed, with no strain on the dress, zipper or fabric.

Zippers always should be closed before garments are washed or dry cleaned.

SOLID FOOD

Cheese is a good substitute for meat because it supplies protein, vitamin A, riboflavin and calcium.

OLD BELIEFS

Explantion once was prized as a love potion, and asparagus was believed a good medicine for toothache.
