

THE DAILY EXAMINER

MARCH 7, 1906

AN OLD RECORD.

Since the fall of Sebastopol, there has been nothing in this city like the celebration of the Relief of Ladysmith. From THE EXAMINER of October 1st, 1892, we quote the following record:

"Charlottetown never presented so gay and brilliant an appearance as it did on Friday evening last. In the afternoon of that day the City Crier was sent by the Mayor through the various streets of the city, recommending the inhabitants to illuminate their houses in honor of the great victory achieved by the allies. Never was a suggestion more generally responded to. At seven o'clock the bells in the English, Catholic and Presbyterian Churches rang out a merry peal and continued it for a considerable time. The various houses nearly at the same moment became brilliantly illuminated, the respective occupiers vying, apparently, with each other as to the number and arrangement of lights. Even the remote streets and lanes at both ends of the city showed that their inhabitants participated in the general enthusiasm. There were not more than three or four houses in the whole place, including the suburbs, that were not illuminated. A large bonfire made of tar barrels blazed for about two hours on King's Square and the incessant report of firearms, while the sky was ever and anon lit up with rockets and other fireworks. We have never witnessed a demonstration of rejoicing so universal and with which everyone appeared to be delighted.

"We omitted to state in the notice of the public feeling of Charlottetown, printed in our Extra, that all the public offices were immediately closed as soon as the steamer arrived with the news at twelve o'clock."

"If quiet as usual, the people in those days were not quite so well 'up-to-date' as they are now. Sebastopol fell on the 8th of September, and the news reached Charlottetown on the 25th, THE EXAMINER was only issued weekly at that time; but with its usual enterprise an 'Extra' was issued immediately upon receipt of the news, which came not by telegraph as at present, but by the hands of the late Captain Philipps Irving, at that time master of the little steamer plying between Pictou and Charlottetown.

"The New York World says: 'It would be idle to attempt to disparage the importance of the advantage gained by the British army in this sweeping victory. It breaks down the first line of the Boer defence, decimates their army, makes captives of some of their ablest generals, and introduces entirely new conditions into the struggle. Just what the effect will be, it is too early to say. If the British are in a position to force the fighting, we shall soon know.'"

DEATH OF DR. CREAMER.

(Brooklyn Eagle.)

Dr. Joseph M. Creamer, former Coroner of Kings County, died at his home, 122 Tompkins Avenue, at four o'clock this morning, of pneumonia. Dr. Creamer had only been ill a short time, and the attack which carried him away was sudden. On Friday last he was out driving and attended patients. He caught a chill on that day but fought it off during Saturday. On Sunday he was compelled to take to his bed and pneumonia developed. A number of Dr. Creamer's relatives were at his bedside at the time of his death, although the vent was entirely unexpected. Dr. Creamer is survived by Mrs. Creamer and three children, namely, Joseph M., who is a practising physician; Frank D., who is also three brothers, Frank D., Charles and Theodore. The funeral will probably take place Monday morning, although the arrangements have not been finally completed. It is likely that there will be a celebration of the mass in St. Vincent de Paul's Church on North Sixth Street, of which church the deceased was a member. The burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Dr. Joseph M. Creamer was a son of the late Dr. Joseph Creamer, who came from Halifax, N. S., and settled in the Eastern District of Brooklyn in 1850. Dr. Joseph M. Creamer became noted as a physician and a surgeon and was the first police surgeon appointed in the city. For a number of years he served as autopsy surgeon to the Eastern District Coroner and for many other years he was county physician. When Dr. Creamer was elected Coroner of the Eastern District, in 1892, he had one of the largest private practices in Brooklyn. Dr. Creamer's maternal grandfather, Alexander Tuttle, was the first tax gatherer in the village of Williamsburgh. Alexander Tuttle's mother was a Miss Burr and first cousin to Aaron Burr.

Dr. Creamer was born in South Second street in 1852. He received his early education at Niagara Falls Seminary, but graduated from the Medical Department of the University of New York in 1872. He was not then of age and his diploma was withheld till the following year, when he began the practice of his profession. He always lived in the Eastern District. In politics he was a Democrat. Dr. Creamer was succeeded as Coroner by George H. Nason now under indictment.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

General Bull's despatch announcing the relief of Ladysmith was posted at the War Office in London at 9:42 a. m. and it was received at THE EXAMINER at about 9 o'clock local time. Sharp work!

Local and Other Items.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.—There are now 119 agricultural societies in Nova Scotia, with 7,000 members.

A SING SUM.—Professor Robertson estimates that the value of Canadian exports to South Africa, on the War Office Account, including freights, will amount to a total of three quarters of a million dollars by the end of March.

A SMALL PERCENTAGE.—The fact that, of the 83,904 pupils registered in the Boston public schools last year, not more than one per cent. habitually played truant, is a pretty good card for the pupils as well as those who look after them.

A STRANGE CASE.—George Cove, of Newcastle, N. B. suddenly became blind last Wednesday evening. The eyelids dropped and could not be raised. The case is pronounced paralysis of the eyelids. However, it is expected that he will soon recover his sight.

CIRCULAR TO METHODISTS.—It is announced from New York that Bishops W. X. Nisde, C. H. Fowler and I. W. Joyce have, as a committee appointed by the board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, issued to the Methodist churches, pastors and members the world over, a letter appointing a week of penitence and prayer beginning on March 25th, and announcements thereof will be made from the pulpits in Methodist churches, from time to time before the term begins. This letter was prepared after the bishops had studied statistics and reports showing a decrease of church membership and a falling off in attendance.

CHEESE FACTORY RETURNS.

Interesting Comparison Between Ontario and Prince Edward Island Factories.
(From Farming.)

Though Ontario dairymen are well acquainted in a general way with what has been done in developing the dairy industry in the Maritime Provinces, there are many features of the details of the business, especially as carried on in Prince Edward Island, that may be new to them. Recently, in conversation with Mr. T. J. Dillon, whose splendid work in connection with dairying on the Island is well known, he pointed out that that industry was destined to reach very large proportions in the near future, especially in Prince Edward Island, where the farmers have taken full of the business in a most systematic and up-to-date manner. Upwards of $600,000 worth of cheese was produced on the Island last season, and in a very few years it is expected that this amount will be doubled, besides a large increase in the production of butter.

While the business is expanding very fast, dairymen on the Island are evidently not neglecting to keep up the quality of their product, and are seemingly bending their energies towards carrying on the business in the most economical way. We have before us the annual statement of the Hazelbrook Cheese and Butter Factory, one of the leading Island factories, for 1899. This factory opened on May 1st and closed October 31st. During this period 134 patrons supplied 1,723,021 lbs. of milk, showing an average of 3.63 per cent. butter fat. From this was manufactured 168,113 lbs. of cheese, an average of 10.24 lbs. of milk to a pound of cheese. The average price realized for cheese was 10.23 cents, and the patrons were paid 84.60 cents per 100 lbs. of milk, or 8.63 per lb. of cheese. The milk was paid for according to quality at the following prices per lb. for butter fat: May, 20 cents; June 18 cents; July, 20 cents; August; 24 cents; September, 28 cents; and October, 25 cents. At another Island factory, known as the Kensington, the lbs of milk to a lb. of cheese were 10.29, and the average price per lb. of cheese 10.63 cents. The average per cent. of fat in the milk was 3.71, and the average price paid patrons per lb. of fat during the season was 21.28 cents. The average cost of hauling milk at this factory was 5.81 cents per 100 lbs.

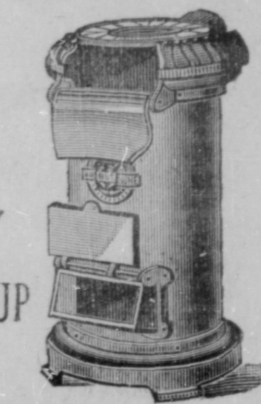

These reports are certainly very satisfactory and compare favorably with the best factories of Ontario. We have before us the published reports of six factories in the leading dairy sections of West-ern Ontario, which do not show as good results as the ones we have mentioned. The pounds of milk to a pound of cheese in these six factories range from 10.65 to 11.04; the average price received per lb. of cheese from 9.70 cents to 9.97 cents, and the price paid patrons per 100 lbs. of milk from 72.32 to 82 cents.

A comparison of these figures with those quoted from the Island factory reports seem to show that the latter render better service to their patrons than some of our western factories do. It may be asked why this is the case, to which question it might be difficult to give a satisfactory answer. Both the Island factories we name pay for milk according to its quality, which may account for the much better average obtained. That there is some good ground for believing this to be the case we find that the factory that gave the lowest average among the Ontario ones quoted also paid for milk according to its quality. Then there is the much higher price which the Island factories received for their cheese to be accounted for, which we will not endeavor to explain here.
