

THE REVELERS

A Rousing Close To Concert Series

By NANCY WHITE

Four talented singers with a popular program brought this season's Community Concert series to a close last night with a spirit and a musicianship that struck a responsive chord in a large audience.

The Revelers Male Quartet, an American group, dared to sing familiar music and, with the exception of one and a half numbers, to sing in English. This eliminated the stiffness of the first half of the concert and strains to understand the words.

The Revelers, Freddie Tedick, Thomas Edwards, Raymond Murtzell and Effort Savage, sang old English songs, short German songs in translation, and American folk songs on the first half of their program. Here gentle numbers like Brahms' "Lullaby" and "Drink to Me Only" were balanced by the rollicking "Drill, Ye Warriors, Drill" and a medley of sea chanteys.

Humor was an added bonus in last night's concert, and it showed up first in "Beaver Creek". The laughter came on strong in the second half, however. Anyone who loved "They're Changing Guards at Buckingham Palace" as a child (and who didn't) was in for a treat in hearing the Revelers sing it, with Mr. Savage playing the part of the garrulous "Alice".

Then there was the song about the gingerbread man who fell in love with a horrid child who subsequently ate him—Delightful!

TRUE FAVORITES

The program ended with a section entitled "Revelers' Favorites" to two Chopin selections by talented accompanist Sanford Benenson. Then in true (but better than) barbershop style, the foursome sang such songs as "Hello My Baby" and "I Now". Folk songs ranged from the Russian "Meadowlands" to "Blowin' in the Wind", but the group earned heaviest applause for their spirited, clapping, stomping version of "Dry Bones", then came back to sing four times in encore.

All in all, a highly entertaining concert providing a rousing close to a successful series.

Case Of Girl Abduction Adjudged Without Plea

SUMMERSIDE — A Waterford, P.E.I. man, Richard Anthony Casey, appeared before Magistrate W. Chester S. MacDonald in Prince County Court yesterday on a charge of unlawfully abducting a girl under the age of 16 and his case, upon the request of defence counsel J. Melville Campbell was adjourned without plea to May 11.

Casey, 35, of 100 St. James St., was charged with the abduction of a 15-year-old girl from the home of her parents, Constable Conolly said, he had been obliged to slow down and the constable had managed to pass. After proceeding by Constable Maxwell braked his car and the accused had collided with the rear of the police vehicle. When attempting to pass the police vehicle he collided with the driver's side of the car and crossed out of control into the ditch.

The accused and six other occupants had then fled on foot, Constable Conolly said.

Pointing out that the accused had entered a plea of guilty defence counsel Campbell said it was an unfortunate incident and that the youth had panicked when he had seen the police car along side his vehicle in St. Eleanors. He added that the youth's father was prepared to make restitution for damages to the car.

Crown prosecutor George R. McMahon commented that this was the most flagrant offence against traffic laws he had heard in a long time.

In adjourning the case for sentencing, Magistrate MacDonald said a man like that shouldn't be allowed behind the wheel of a car.

A maximum fine of $500 was imposed on the accused, Constable Conolly said. He said that when the police car had pulled up along side the accused he had sped away. The constable gave chase past Misouche and along the western highway, sometimes at speeds up to 80 miles per hour. He added that the police car had been unable to pass the accused because he was driving in the centre of the road.

Pay For Civil Servants Seen Needing Review

The need for organized pay reviews for civil servants was stressed last night by Dr. James Higgins, president of the P.E.I. Public Servants Association, at the annual meeting of the association in Birchwood High School.

Dr. Higgins said the classification and pay plan instituted last year was "a tremendous step forward, but to leave it at that without a systematic and planned pay review to keep it becoming an out-of-date instrument."

Dr. Higgins said he hoped that the 40-hour work week would be adopted in the coming year for all civil service employees.

He also urged the association to press strongly for training courses for members of the civil service.

Dr. Higgins said the need for a part-time executive secretary to carry on the affairs of the association was becoming more acute, and plans would have to be made to implement this course of action. He said the affairs of the association need the guidance of a good executive, and to keep pace with changing times, some full-time staff was needed.

Reporting for the joint council, which acts as a common meeting ground between the government and the association, Dr. Higgins, secretary of the council, said a total of 31 appeals had been heard by the council with respect to improper classification or request for a re-assessment of pay ranges assigned to these classifications.

Reports were also presented by P.I. Bolger, secretary; W.C. Sunnot, chairman of the M.C. MacNutt, entertainment committee chairman; and David Boswell, resolutions committee chairman.

Membership in the association was reported as 1,018 out of an estimated 1,282 eligible members.

Resolutions adopted included recommendations for: reduction of work load to a 40-hour week for all civil service members; a uniform policy regarding remuneration and leave of absence for post-graduate training; organized pay reviews at least every two years.

Other resolutions suggested the government should be asked to grant four weeks' vacation leave to employees after 20 years' continuous service and to institute a system of in-training education to raise standards of the service.

Byelection In Britain Likely To Elect Tory

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson, who apparently enjoys balancing on the razor's edge, may see irony and humor in a Birmingham by-election scheduled for Thursday.

Birmingham Hall Green constituency will be declaring a by-election winner—almost certainly a Tory—just as the steel nationalization plan of Wilson's Labor government comes to a vote in the House of Commons.

Labor thus will have a majority of four in the 630-seat House Thursday, and likely only three thereafter.

But the issue may be even closer than those figures indicate because some of Wilson's own Labor supporters are critical of the steel proposal.

The possibility of a government defeat has been raised repeatedly since the steel white paper was published last Friday but by today most observers were predicting Wilson will scrape through.
