THE WEEK AT S.D.U.

Many Changes Are Noted As St. Dunstons Reopens

There are many tangible signs of a new St. Dunstons—the hugging oak trees, the cool, flowing lawns of grass, the balmy, refreshing air, and the lawn-lined walks conveying the traffic of six college buildings—these all bring to us the realization of the wonderful campus we have; but it is the free, warm-hearted relationships of each moment of each day that makes us aware that we are at S.D.U. and that we are imbibing some of its benign spirit.

The effects of a summer of renovation here at the college can readily be noticed as we but walk along the campus. One of the dorms in the main building has been completely made into rooms, the Extension Department offices have been remodeled, and the classrooms in the basement of the gymnasium have been completely with finely finished woodwork. Many of the rooms have been refurbished. There are even changes apparent in library facilities.

This year also complete courses are being offered in education, normal training and creative writing. These courses add much in the way of higher level of standing and greater variety in the college curriculum now in effect.

The Student Union president,

Mike Swift, informs us that the students' social opportunities for this year will probably receive a big boost and that supervised programs will be drawn up as often as it is feasible. The Thursday afternoon students social opened this week at the Rollaway Club as an amazingly large number of dancers turned out to get the college entertainment off with a bang. We hope that these student numbers will continue to come each and enjoy themselves at the socials.

FIELD DAY

The first real college event of the year gets underway on the campus this coming Tuesday (Oct. 8) when the annual Field Day Program takes place. The observance of Field Day is by no means new. It is a sports tradition which St. Dunstons has for years fostered in the way of clean, hard-fought athletic competition. We hope that those who perform to make a success of the program will meet with the support of all those who can possibly turn out for the athletic day. By your attendance alone, the boys will receive encouragement.

The president of the Amateur Athletic Union on the campus, Don MacDougall, has announced that proceedings will get underway in the morning and there will be over twenty events comprising the sports program. A high degree of competition and athletic proficiency is anticipated for this year's Field Day.

INITIATION

In the evening after Field Day events, the annual program of Freshman Initiation will take place in the college gymnasium. The program which in recent years has assumed a satirical and less raucous approach over the old "chill-snap" program is under the supervision of a special committee of the Students' Union. We always look to this event as one which furnishes a program of true student entertainment.

Incidentally in case you're wondering the Freshmen enrollment this year is very high probably the highest ever—of the 400 students enrolled here at college over 100 are in the Freshmen class. This accounts for one-quarter of the total enrollment. So you can imagine what a wonderful time it should be this Tuesday evening for the 1957 Fresh members.

We find that any sudden changes or surges of energy in college activities when detected is usually traceable this time of year to the flurry of action on the

U. S. Scientists Are Quick With Congratulations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Quick congratulations from United States scientists went to Russia Friday night after a Moscow announcement that Soviet scientists have successfully launched an artificial moon.

The congratulations were extended by Dr. Lloyd Bergner, an American official of the International Geophysical Year, at a cocktail party at the Russian Embassy for those attending a special conference of the IGY.

Dr. Bergner, who is the reporter on earth satellites and rockets for a special committee of the IGY, said he learned from a press dispatch of the Russian announcement.

Dr. Bergner said American teams organized to spot artificial satellites would be called into Russian moon.

Whale Comes Off Second Best

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — A whale came off second best in a collision with the CNR ferry Bluenose Thursday.

Passengers said they felt a heavy thump as the ferry neared the Lurcher lightship off the Nova Scotia coast and saw the water around the Bluenose turn red. The whale apparently attempted to surface under the ferry and was cut by the ship's propellers.

The Bluenose suffered no damage and finished her run from Bar Harbor, Me., on schedule.
