For The Children

The Wee Mousie.

A hungry little mousie
Went wandering around;
A curious little mousie
Went surveying unknown ground.

She came into a building
With wide, inviting doors,
Where rice and other dainties
Were scattered on the floors.

"Ah, me! I'm glad," said mousie,
"Of this repast so nice,
How very kind of somebody
To do so much for mice."

She entered and she tasted;
"How very good," she said.
Alas! just then some horrid thing
Came crashing on her head.

"Ah, me!" sighed little mousie,
No other word she spoke,
For with a wire beneath her chin
The little mouse did choke.

She wriggled and she twisted,
She gave a stifled gasp;
And then the little mouse lay dead
Within the trap's tight grasp.

Ah! foolish little mousie!
Abroad why did you roam?
You ne'er in this sad plight had been,
If you had stayed at home.

A Gentleman.

I knew him for a gentleman
By signs that never fail;
His coat was rough and rather worn,
His cheeks were thin and pale—
A lad who had his way to make,
With little time for play;
I knew him for a gentleman
By certain signs to day.

He met his mother on the street;
Off came his little hat.
My door was shut; he waited there
Until I heard him rap.
He took the bundle from my hand,
And when I dropped my pen,
He sprang to pick it up for me—
This gentleman of ten.

He does not push and crowd along;
His voice is gently pitched;
He does not fling his books about
As if he were bewitched.
He stands aside to let you pass;
He always shuts the door;
He runs on errands willingly
To forge and mill and store.

He thinks of you before himself,
He serves you if he can;
For, in what ever company,
The manners make the man.
At ten or forty, 'tis the same;
The manner tells the tale,
And I discern the gentleman
By signs that never fail.

A Queer Little Boy.

There's a queer little boy (so I have been told)
Who is worth every ounce of his weight
in gold,
Who always says "Thank you" and "If you please."
And has never been known to beg or tease
When his mother said "No, you can't go, my son,
There's work in the garden that's got to be done."

For he'd much rather work and study
than play,
And he never misses a lesson they say.

He gets out of bed at the very first
call,
So he never is late for breakfast at all.
He knows just where he left his books
and his hat,
And his mittens and coat, and ball,
and all that.

His smile's just as sweet when the school-bell he hears
As it is when the dinner-bell greets
his ears.

He never runs through a house or slams a door,
Nor tracks in the mud, nor makes
trash on the floor.

His face is always most beautifully
clean,
And his hands the like of them never
was seen!

Now what is his name and where does
he dwell—
This queer little boy? I am sure I can't tell.

But if you would know and start right
away,
And travel straight on without any
delay,

Perhaps you will find him; though the
truth I declare,
I never could find him myself any where.

so. I used four boxes and can safely say
I am cured."
