

On the following day the proprietors of the Tribune, R. D. Williams, and K. I. O'Dogherty, and Denis Hoban, the printer of that journal, were arrested on similar charges. Those five persons are now confined in Newgate; and it is currently rumoured that warrants have been issued for the apprehension of T. D. McGee, S. J. Meany, W. T. Meylor, Dr. Antisel, D.C. Young, J. Brennan, J. F. Lalor, and T. F. Meagher, upon various charges of felonious writing in those journals.

Several of the above named, have since been arrested.

The following account of Mr. Meagher's arrest appeared in the Waterford Mail:-

On Tuesday afternoon, as Mr. Thomas F. Meagher, who was in this city since Tuesday last, was proceeding from the House of Mr. Sweetman, of Blenheim, in this county, he was arrested on a charge of felony by Capt. Gunn, R. M., who proceeded with him to his father's residence on the Mall. As soon as the news of this capture became known great crowds assembled in the immediate neighbourhood, and it was deemed advisable to call out the military force, horse, infantry, and artillery, who took up a position along the line from Colebeck street to John street, leading to the Manor. The Police, in considerable force being stationed at the Town hall. Up to our going to press, however, everything was tranquil—not the slightest sign of disturbance.

SURRENDER OF MR. JOHN MARTIN.—Mr. John Martin, proprietor of the 'Irish Felon,' who had been keeping out of the way for some days, in order not to be forced on his trial at the last commission, under the 'Gagging Act,' surrendered himself on Saturday to the authorities, the commission having been on Friday adjourned until the 8th of August. At twelve o'clock he drove to the head police office and informed the magistrate that he came to surrender himself to answer the charge which he understood was made against him. The magistrate told him that he had no authority to take him into custody, and referred him to College street Police office, or to the magistrate who issued the warrant. Mr. Martin then proceeded to the office of the Commissioners of Police, in the Lower Castle Yard, the warrant having been issued by one of them, Mr. O'Ferrall; but there was no authority there either to arrest him.—Ultimately Serjeant Prender, who had the warrant, was found, and Mr. Martin proceeded with him to College street, Police office. Intelligence of the matter having spread about, a large number of persons was soon collected in the office and the neighbourhood, and there was a good deal of excitement manifested.

A song included in the information against Mr. Martin, was written by Master John Mitchell, son of the "Felon," between 9 and 10 years of age.

Lord Clarendon (says the Nation of Saturday) has had a signal success. Mr. John O'Connell and some of the committee of the repeal association, by what motive influenced we have not heard, yesterday declared against a union of repealers, on the basis they themselves adopted and set before the country, or on any other basis but the dismantling of the popular fortress—the annihilation of the clubs in which the country has embodied its strength.

There is joy to day in Dublin Castle, and grief in many a sanguine Irish heart. The government may now prosecute all their enemies, even unto death or Bermuda, as its triumphant organs already announce that it will, for complacent patriotism offers them a clear stage.

The Dublin Evening Herald publishes the following announcement:-

"We have been informed that the police have received directions to disperse such of the clubs as shall assemble this (Monday) evening in Dublin; we cannot vouch for the authenticity of this information, though we have some reason to believe that it is well founded.

For some time past it has been confidently reported that the Queen would visit Ireland in the course of the present summer, but the Times authoritatively announces that such a visit will not be made.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

Foreign intelligence is again composed of little else than contingencies, though of a more hopeful character in many respects than we have been accustomed to for some time past.

First in importance in this district, is the conclusion of an armistice between the Danish Government and the German Confederation, (announced in our last) to extend over three months. For that period, then, at least, there is to be a total cessation of hostilities, and in the meantime negotiations will proceed with a view to the final adjustment of the matters in dispute. The Duchies and Alsen are to be respectively evacuated, all blockades are to cease, prisoners to be exchanged, and captured vessels and cargoes released; and the government of the Duchies is to be confided to a local administration. Of course, until the treaty be completed, perfect confidence will not be felt in the result. That it will be satisfactory, is however, anticipated, the Danish government having manifested an early desire for peace, and the Germans having acquired sufficient experience of the hazard and cost of which was to induce them, one would think, to refrain from recommencing the experiment.

France remains tranquil under the rule of the sword. The funds are on the move upward, for the first time since February—a favourable reaction which must derive strength from the increasing interest taken in the affairs of the Assembly by M. Thiers and statesmen of his school.

The Italian question is as far as it ever was from a satisfactory issue, unless a decisive battle has been fought since the date of the last advices. According to them the Sardinian army was busily employed in preparing for operations. The King of Naples totters on his throne. Sicily has taken steps towards becoming an independent kingdom, and the Calabrian insurgents are flushed with success.

Another Carlist insurrection has broken out in Spain—a mere nine day's wonder.

FRANCE.

The Assembly has voted, by an immense majority, the establishment of a permanent camp of 50,000 men in Paris.

Stores of ammunition continue to be seized from day to day.

Assassinations committed in open day, continue to prevail.

Great uneasiness was felt on Wednesday for the result of Friday, on which day some movement is feared. Much jealousy has lately been manifested between the Garde Mobile and the line.

The transportation of the insurgents of June is at present one of the greatest embarrassments of the government.

The Reforme of Sunday was seized for reprinting an article from the Representant du Peuple.

On Tuesday there was much agitation in the Assembly, owing to the general expectation that government would propose some measures respecting the press, especially having reference to the journals La Presse and Assemblée Nationale, both of large circulation, which are now suspended.

After some business of no very general interest, M. Senard, Minister of the Interior, proposed four projects of law:—1. As to the caution money of the journals. 2. As to the abuses of the press. 3. As to the clubs; and 4. As to the theatres.

M. de Girardin is about to publish a pamphlet which it is said will contain curious disclosures.

The wounded in the hospitals are, generally speaking, going on well. Notwithstanding their crowded state they have remained healthy, and mortification, or what the French call 'pouriture d'hospital,' has nowhere occurred.

THREATENING ATTITUDE OF RUSSIA.

If we are to credit the German journals, events of the highest importance are about to take place in Moldavia and Wallachia. Whilst the Russian forces were supposed to be mustering on the frontiers of Posen and Silecia, for the purpose of falling upon Germany, they were being concentrated in the direction of Galicia, so as to be available for an invasion of the Danube principalities. The latest intelligence from Bucharest was, that Prince Bibesco had yielded to the popular demands, and accepted the constitution.

EGYPT.

By advices from Alexandria of the 29th of June, we learn that Mehemet Ali has become insane, and that his insanity is every day becoming more serious. He still, however, is permitted to walk out twice a day.

OBITUARY.—The Rev. Mr. Daly, Catholic Priest died at Halifax a few days since. The Halifax Mirror, observes:—

'Last evening, between eight and nine o'clock, the solemn tolling of the bell of St. Mary's Church attracted attention. It was occasioned by the death of the Rev. Mr. Daly, who departed this life late in the afternoon. About the time of the tolling, the mortal remains of the deceased were laid in state in the church, attired in clerical costume; the Bishop, Dr. Walsh, stood at the foot of the coffin—clergymen were at each side of the Bishop—and religious ceremonies proceeded.

The Rev. Mr. Daly was a native of Halifax, and was well known and much respected by many. He died before the meridian of life; the quiet, amiable, handsome and studious youth, was well recollected by several who gazed on the pale, attenuated remains—and earthly hope and promise were contrasted with stern reality, and with those hopes and promises which have a better than earthly foundation.

PROVIDENTIAL ESCAPE.—On Wednesday last, Isaiah Gallant and Maxime Gallant, both residents of Rustico, and the heads of large families, were fishing in an open boat, accompanied by a young lad, the son of Isaiah. The day was remarkably fine and the water very calm. In a short time, the fishing being good, they nearly filled the boat, having in about 400 codfish and a very large halibut. They were then about six miles from land. On their return to the shore, a wind from the S. W. began to freshen up, and some water was taken in forward; the squall began to increase, the water causing the fish to work towards the bow of the boat, so that with all their endeavours, she could not be kept free of water, but evidently settled down. The ballast and the greater part of the fish were thrown out, but in vain. They were then two miles off Cape Turner. Fortunately, at this juncture, a boat belonging to Angus (Hilaire) Gallant was bearing down near them, and was hailed. The hands in the former boat had just time to enter the boat of their deliverer, when their craft sank, so that if they had not providentially been met with at that moment of time, they would, inevitably, have perished.
