A Country Garden

gold vase containing golden flowers), some unknown substance so sweetly scented after the lapse of 4,700 years that, to quote the description in the report, "one was surprised by the delicious scent of flowers, as if sweet-smelling bouquets had only recently been placed there. One would say that the alsbaster itself had been impregnated with some unknown substance capable of preserving the perfume for centuries.

"It is difficult for our modern and western minds to grasp the importance of perfume in the religious rites of the most ancient civilizations. In the dawn of history the vast areas in Arabia and Africa were believed to be productive and well populated. The most valuable article of commerce, apart from gold, was incense or frankincense — regarded as of divine nature. So highly was it esteemed that the trade in aromatic spices and herbs was guarded by the producers with the utmost secrecy, and the secrecy of the trade was augmented by the exclusiveness of the religious ideas and rites attached to it. Control of the Arabian incense trade was one of the leading features in the foreign policy of all the great empires of the ancient world, such as Babylon, Assyria and Egypt.

It is more than probable that gardens Solomon made for his pleasure closely resembled those for which Egypt had been famed for centuries, formal gardens with stately avenues, groves of pomegranates and scented shrubs, vine pergolas and water-gardens.

From the Bible we know that Solomon's gardens were scented gardens, and the "Song of Songs which is Solomon's" the lyric of the scented garden, is full of the honeyed sweetness and aromatic fragrance of flowers and shrubs. "Awake O north wind and come thou south; blow upon my garden that the spices thereof may flow out." Mediaeval gardens, like those of the East, were scented gardens, and it is pleasant to think of the great gardeners of those early days.

Three Killed In Cape Breton Road Accident

SYDNEY — (CP) — The wife and daughter and newly-hired maid of a New Waterford engineer were killed Monday when his car swerved off the highway 37 miles from here and sank in Soldier's Cove lake.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Michael Murphy, 28 her daughter Ann, 4, and a domestic identified only as Miss Oakley of Halifax.

Mr. Murphy himself was pulled from the wrecked car and taken to St. Rita's hospital here. Doctors said he had a fractured skull.

The Murphys were en route home after driving to Halifax where they hired the girl. R. C. M. P. said they had not discovered the cause of the accident which occurred on a stretch of the main Sydney-Canso strait highway skirting the lake.

WHEELS IN AIR

The battered automobile came to rest in the shallow lake bottom with its wheels in the air.

The Oakley girl was reported to have been hired through Roman Catholic charities in Halifax but most church offices were closed Monday and this could not be confirmed.

Mr. Murphy worked as a stationary engineer with the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation's No. 18 colliery ot New Waterford.

The victims were erroneously identified earlier as Americans because Murphy's car bore Massachusetts license plates and his driver's license carried a Walpole, Mass., address. Friends said he had purchased the car only two months ago in Walpole and had not yet switched licenses.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. JESSIE LEARD

On the evening of June 6th and on the evening of a long and virtuous life, Mrs. Jessie Leard slep peacefully away at the home of her son, Fred A. Leard, North Tryon.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Nicholson, she was born in Tryon February 22nd, 1851. In 1884 she became the wife of the late Edward Leard. In 1906 death claimed her husband and she was left with three children: but ever struggling for the right, looking upward with the eye of Faith to her Lord and Master, she was blessed with good health and enabled to see her sons, grandchildren and great-grandchildren follow the example she had set for them in honest toil and devotion to the Saviour of mankind.

It can truthfully be said in closing the volume of her life that her chief characteristic was a firm reliance upon God, a Faith whose eye was steady and saw a bright outcome in the deepest experiences.

There are left to mourn two sons Fred A. of North Tryon and Frank of Regina, Saskatchewan, several grandchildren and great grandchildren. Four children predeceased her.

Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. Lloyd Archer, in the Tryon United Church.

Hymns sung were: "I know no' what the future hath", "The Lord's My Shepherd" and "Shall we meet beyond the river" which was beautifully rendered by the male quartette.

Her pallbearers were Albert Callbeck, Arthur Dawson, Ernest Inman, Lloyd Stordy, Reginald Dixon and Sterling Lord to all of whom she has been a shining example during her lifetime.

Servant of God well done
Thy glorious warfare past
The battles fought, the race is won
And thou art crowned at last.

Card Of Thanks

The family and relatives of the late Mrs. Edward Leard sincerely thank all kind friends and neighbours and all those who helped in any way during their recent bereavement.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to friends and neighbours and the R. C. A. F. Fire Department in the many ways in which they helped in the loss of our home on May 24th at North St. Eleanors.

Many thanks to all.

C. And B. Score 9-6 Win Over Holmans As Kid Battery Makes Appearance

—A kid battery of Garland Harris on the mound and Ulric Gallant behind the bat made their debut in Town League Baseball with Curran & Briggs and the C & B boys beat Holman's 9-6 at the Queen Elizabeth Baseball Park last evening, Harris gave up only five hits in the seven innings of play, and three of these were collected when he was tiring in the final frame. He struck out ten.

His battery mate, Gallant, was a bit shaky on defence, but with first sacker Cannon led his team at bat, each getting three hits in four trips.

Grant and Benny Grady each got two singles, Maurie Canno's three hits included a very long home run to left field, and an automatic double to the same area. Grant Grady hit the only other extra-base blow, a double in the first inning. Garth Gay, Holman pitcher, gave up fifteen hits in all, but his mates were fairly steady behind him, committing only two miscues to eight for the construction crew.

The fielding gems of the contest, which produced a little steadier play than in most of the previous league games, were Donnie Cameron's over-the-shoulder catch in centre field of Purcell's long fly in the fifth, Grant Grady's fine running catch of brother Jimmy's foul back of third in the same inning, and Johnny Whalen's pick-up of Rollie Landry's roller in the sixth, and fine stops by Des Roberts and Maurice Cannon to hold the batters to singles instead of extra bases.

Warren Giles 'ssues Warning

NEW YORK (AP) — National League President Warren Giles has notified all managers the payment of bonuses for outstanding performance on the field, and wagering of any kind, will no longer be tolerated ,it was learned Saturday.

Leo Durocher and Eddie Stanky, two of the three managers at whom this notice specifically was aimed, said they would hereafter comply with Giles' wishes. Milwaukee's Charlie Grimm ,the other principal, had no immediate comment.

Durocher, Stanky and Grimm recently presented members of their respective teams with bonuses for especially noteworthy performances on the ball field.

Durocher gave third baseman Hank Thompson and rookies outfielders Bill Taylor $100 each for winning games with home runs.

Early this season Stanky promised expensive suits to the first Cardinal pitcher who hurled a complete league game and to the first pitcher who would defeat Brooklyn at Ebbets Field, where the Cardinals were unable to win in 1953. Gerry Staley and Vic Raschi won those gifts.

Grimm became so elated by righthander Jim Wilson's no-hit, no-run game against the Philadelphia Phillies last Saturday, he told the veteran Braves' pitcher to buy a $150 suit of clothes and charge it to him.

Exchequer Court Hears Test Case

OTTAWA (CP)—The Exchequer of Canada Monday opened hearing on a test case involving some 700 persons at Newfoundland's Gander airport. It is estimated that a decision against the federal government could cost it $2,000,000.

The case, "Chesley Samson versus the Queen," involves pay received for federal government work since union of Newfoundland with Canada. Mr. Samson, a carpenter with the air services branch of the federal transport department, claims he was not paid at a rate comparable to that paid by the department for similar work elsewhere.

This, he argues, is contrary to the terms of union with Canada, and since April, 1949, when union was consummated, the government owes him $3,468 in back pay.

The federal government, represented by W. R. Jackett of the justice department, contends that the terms of union do not make the government liable for the extra payments. "on. P. J. Lewis, acting for the attorney-general of Newfoundland, is intervening on behalf of Samson.

E. B. Jolliffe of Toronto, representing Samson, said the test case involves 700 claimants at Gander. The wages to be paid them should the court rule in favor of Samson would amount to about $2,000,000.

The trial, before Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson, president of the Exchequer Court, is continuing.

Annual Women's Institute District Convention Yesterday At Alberton

More than ninety women, representing thirteen Women's Institutes in the western part of Prince County assembled at the Institute Hall in Alberton yesterday afternoon for their annual district convention. Guest speakers were Mrs. Manning, assistant supervisor of the Women's Institutes for Prince Edward Island, Mrs. J. A. Lawson and Miss Anderson.

Presiding over the meeting was Mrs. McLean Horne of Rosebank Institute. The secretary was Mrs. Laughlin Horne, also of Rosebank.

The hall was attractively decorated with flowers and potted plants and there was on display a fine exhibit of handicrafts provided by Elmsdale, Fortune Cove, O'Brien Road and St. Lawrence Institutes.

Following opening of the session with the Ode and the Creed, presidents of all branch Institutes were called to seats on the platform. An address of welcome, given by Mrs. Irving Williams of Rosebank, was responded to by Mrs. Denzil Smith of Alberton South. Roll call and minutes of last year's convention were next on the agenda.

Reports for the various institutes gave evidence of a year of useful activity in each district. School supplies, treats and prizes were reported as well as educational programs, use of films, social activities, remembrance in a tangible way of sick and bereaved folk, Red Cross work, sponsoring of a dental clinic, and donations to a number of worthy causes. Rosebank reported that the handicraft van had been to their district and Brooklyn reported that they expect it to come to their district in the near future.

It was announced that the entertaining institute for next year will be Alberton South. A list of executive members for the coming year was read.

Mrs. Russell Leard, Mrs. Joseph Callaghan and Mrs. Frank Dunn were named to a resolutions committee.

Miss Anderson stirred interest and enthusiam as she told of the new course in home economics which is to begin at the Vocational School this fall. She described something of which the course will comprise — food and nutrition, clothing and textiles, household equipment, laundry and stain removal, etc. She reminded her hearers that what happens in the world tomorrow is largely covered by what happens in our homes today.

"Fun and Nonsense," provided by Elmsdale Institute took the form of a contest in which all participated.

Mrs. J. A. Lawson gave a comprehensive outline of the work being done by the Canadian Association of Consumers. Delegates found her talk most enlightening.

A brief outline of Red Cross work being done in the district was given by Mrs. A. C. Green of Alberton.

Mrs. Manning gave information of a number of points in connection with Institute work in general in this Province.
