clear plans will be outlined in the speech from the throne at the opening of Parliament Thursday and that a parliamentary debate on the issue will follow.

The 1,200-word joint communique, ending talks in this chilly, showery Cape Cod resort, made public. For the most part Kennedy merely nodded agreement.

EXCHANGE GIFTS
Pearson presented the president with an 1840 rocking chair found in an Ottawa Valley home. Kennedy's gift was the presidential colors from his summer home and turned them over to the prime minister.

More impressive to the American public was the joint decision to turn the old Roosevelt villa in D. Roosevelt rumped a child, where he suffered polio in 1921 and where he later visited as president. His widow, Eleanor, spent many of her holidays there until shortly before her illness and death last year.

Early Start Is Expected On Nuclear Arms Agreement

By ARCH MCKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—Negotiations should start this week between Canada and the United States on a political agreement for defensive nuclear weapons on Canadian soil. Prime Minister Pearson said Saturday on his return from his Hyannis Port talks with President Kennedy.

Mr. Pearson, describing the intensive two-day discussions as a mood of informal negotiations, said he has "no idea" when the nuclear warheads actually will arrive for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., and for Voodoo aircraft.

"That will depend first on whether we can agree on a political bilateral arrangement which will begin to negotiate next week, or the week after," he told reporters.

"Then the political agreement, if and when it is negotiated, will have to be followed by technical arrangements regarding the actual custody and control of the armaments for the weapons."

"It will not be brought to a conclusion... before Parliament has had a chance to talk about defence policy in general and nuclear policy in particular."

SUGGEST FOUR MONTHS
As Mr. Pearson says, United States informants were quoted saying Canada's Bomarc will be nuclear-equipped within four months.

The prime minister, in good spirits after his Cape Cod meeting with the U.S. president, said no working deadline had been set on Canada's intention to achieve shortly a 12-mile fishing zone barred to foreign fishermen.

Mr. Pearson said that at the same time, Canada accepted the U.S. traditional stand on a three-mile territorial limit and would recognize this in waters where U.S. fishermen by custom or treaty had certain rights within a 12-mile Canadian zone.

That applied to France, too, he added.

Canada had also made "quite a strong point about our imbalance of payments—this year amounting to more than a billion dollars probably—with the U.S. and this has to be taken into consideration in commercial and a trade negotiations."

Canada hopes for freer trade, Mr. Pearson said, while reiterating that fishermen by custom or treaty had certain rights within a 12-mile Canadian zone.
