THE MARKETS.

BOSTON PRICES.

Boston, May 19, 1886.

POTATOES—The market is steadier, but the supply of most kinds continues liberal, and no higher prices can be obtained. Eastern Hebrons are scarce and command 65c., but Northern rule much lower. Houlton Rose are selling at 60c., and Northern Rose at 50 to 55c. P. E. Island. Chenangoes are firmer, and some are held at 48c., but sales have been mostly at 45c.

FISH—There has been a further improvement in trade, and the situation is more encouraging. Old Mackerel are held with more confidence, as the receipts of new so far have been small, and there is a fair chance of working off the stock on hand without further concessions. We quote old Shore No. 3 at $4 to $4.25, and No. 2 at $3.50 to $6 per bbl. Nova Scotia Mackerel continue slow of sale, but prices are steadier. Last sales of New Mackerel at $4.75 to $5 per bbl. Codfish continue dull at $1.50 to $1.75 per qtl for large pickle cured Bank, and $2.50 and $2.75 for large dry. In Pickled Herring there is nothing doing except in a small way, and prices are on a low basis. Strictly medium sealed Herring are in demand at 15c. per box, but large are slow at 12 to 14c. New Lobsters are selling at $1.60 to $1.65 per dozen cans.

EGGS—Eastern extras have not been so plentiful the past few days and 12c has been more readily obtained, while some are held at 13c, but other kinds are plentiful enough and prices continue low. Nova Scotia and P. E. Island firsts sell at 11 1/2 to 12 cents.

HALIFAX PRICES.

May 20, 1886.

FISH—There have been a good many lots of shore codfish arriving the past few days from Cape Breton, which have been sold at from $2.20 to $3.00 per quintal as to quality. A small lot of bank fish stored last fall were sold this week at $1.75 per quintal. There has been nothing doing in mackerel; market everywhere is very dull. New fish are showing on the shore, but are very small in size. The only herring sale worthy of note was a lot of Bay of Islands at $1.25 per barrel. Market is over supplied with this class, as well as with last year's split.

WEST INDIA PRICES.

Advices from the West Indies have in some cases been encouraging, and in others the very reverse. In Trinidad a Lockheed cargo of codfish realized $22 per tierce, while in Jamaica there is an over supply with a declining market. Last quotations from Havana were codfish, $5 1/2; haddock, $5, and halibut, $4 1/2.

The Fisheries Matter.

The Toronto "Mail's" special cablegram from London says: A few hot-heads here are endeavoring to create some feeling over the seizure by the Canadian Government of the David J. Adams, at Digby, N. S., but the whole fishery question is "casuaria to the general." The feeling is that if Canada is wrong in her interpretation of the treaty of 1818 she will have to yield, and if she is right she will still have to yield, as a colonial question. The subject came up in the House on a motion of Mr. Charles Vincent, M. P. for Central Sheffield, asking for information. Mr. Morgan, Under Colonial Secretary, read a cablegram from Lord Lansdowne, giving the details of the seizure and the assurance that no question of territorial waters was involved. The House was perfectly passive, and at the present time it would require a very weighty colonial question to divert the attention of the members from home affairs.

An Historic Wreck.

The ancient wreck reported exhumed by the sea near Peaked Hill Bars life station, Mass., is, without doubt, that of the Somerset, a British man-of-war of 64 guns. She took part in the battle of Bunker Hill, covering the landing of the English soldiers at Charlestown. After the evacuation of Boston she went south, but re-appeared with other ships one day in November, 1778, chasing the French fleet. Encountering a heavy northeast gale of Cape Cod, she was driven ashore a wreck. Several of the crew of 480 men were drowned, but the larger part were captured by the Continental militia, and marched to Boston as prisoners of war. The ship was looted by the inhabitants of Provincetown and Truro, and guns and ammunition turned over to the Continental Army. Relic hunters visit her daily for mementoes and large pieces have been sent to Memorial Hall, Plymouth. Traces of her port holes are still visible, also 22 foot draught mark on her massive stem.

Gladstone's Opponents.

The London "Daily News" says that the importance of Lord Hartington's meeting of the 15th, lies in the evidence that all Mr. Gladstone's Liberal opponents are united. It is hopeless to try to conciliate Mr. Chamberlain. It simply remains to persevere with the second reading of the Home Rule Bill with the almost certain prospect of defeat. The withdrawal of the Bill would be practically worse than defeat. The country will either sanction Home Rule or we shall endure a period of Tory Government, during which the Liberal seceders will become reconciled to Home Rule, which will be sanctioned on the next appeal to the country. The connection of Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Hartington destroys the chance of a Whig-Conservative coalition. Everything points to a dissolution of Parliament early in the coming summer.

A Desperate Escape.

Rosette Mathieu, a girl undergoing imprisonment at the St. Joseph Female Prison at Lyons, France, made her escape a fortnight since, and was recaptured a few days ago at Grenoble. While before the Judge she stated that the treatment she received at St. Joseph was such that she was determined not to be taken back alive. She said the fare was not only insufficient, but frequently unobtainable; and that in addition to the authorized punishments, which were many and severe, the prisoners were subject to the spiteful treatment of the female wardens, which often took the shape of ingenious tortures. On her way back to Lyons, while in the cellular wagon in which prisoners are conveyed, she fainted, as frequently happens, owing to the want of ventilation in these cells on wheels, and she was carried to the doorway of the wagon, that the fresh air might restore her. On regaining consciousness, she suddenly pushed the attendant aside and leaped out, falling at the side of the track. The train was stopped as soon as possible, and a guard sent back. The place of the girl's leap was clearly indicated by marks on the embankment; but the prisoner could not be found, nor has any trace of her been yet discovered.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

Of the State libraries in the Union, that of New York is the largest. It contains 128,000 volumes. Next comes Maryland with 75,000 volumes, and then California with 62,000 volumes. Illinois stands tenth on the list.

Bishop Potter, of the Episcopal diocese of New York, has addressed a letter to the clergy on the labor question. While condemning the arbitrary methods adopted by many workmen to enforce demands, he is equally plain in denouncing the indifference displayed by wealthy men in regard to the needs of the great army of wage-earners.

Frau Bauer, a Viennese lady of 84, who preferred keeping her savings amounting to 130,000 florins in a safe in her room to depositing them in a bank, was found dead a few days ago—brutally murdered. Her housekeeper, named Sirkhammer, has been arrested on suspicion, but the strange thing about none of the cash or valuables belonging to the old lady were recovered.
