CAPITAL BUREAU
THE GUARDIAN

OTTAWA — Prince Edward Island has received almost $3 million in federal assistance under the Vocational Training Assistance Act in the past three years.

This information was contained in a reply to a question tabled in the House of Commons recently by labor minister Allan MacEachen.

The island received $200,063 in the 1961-62 fiscal year; $975-297 in 1962-63 and $1,730,467 in the 1963-64 fiscal year.

In all of Canada, the federal government has provided assistance totalling more than $380 million to the provinces in the three year period, under the Vocational Training Act.

Exercises Seem To Aid Following Heart Attacks

By CY FOX

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Andres Salazar of Santurce, Puerto Rico, said Thursday carefully supervised exercises seem to help some heart attack victims when given a day after the attack occurs.

He told the InterAmerican Congress of Cardiology that such exercise, including walking, improves blood circulation and thus helps the healing of the arteries affected by the attack. The congress which opened Sunday, ends today.

Dr. Salazar said some doctors fear to exercise their patients so soon after the illness has struck, or they refrain from such treatment out of caution.

"But the physiological effects of heart attacks have been exaggerated," he said, "and the heart will do at least as well if the patient is quickly up and about."

He stressed, however, that the exercise must be closely regulated by the physician.

"I can best define it as getting the patient into vertical motion and exercising his legs."

The period of exercise might last for three or four weeks, Dr. Salazar said, after which the patient could return to a degree of normal activity. The total period of recuperation would be eight to 10 weeks.

TESTED 111 PATIENTS

Dr. Salazr said he based his recommendations on three years of experience with 111 patients.

Dr. David Nathan of Miami Beach, Fla., told the congress of an instrument tiat is keeping hearts beating in patients aged 12 to 86.

The instrument is an improved version of the artificial pace-maker" and was introduced two years ago.

He said that, unlike earlier models, the latest model is "more natural," in its operation, and blending battery-provided power more closely with the actual rhythm of the heart's activity.

The congress heard a report on blood 'thickness" from Dr. George Mayer of Queen's College in Kingston, Ont.

He said thickness or "viscuosity" is greater in healthy young men than in their woman contemporaries. This may account for the fact that men under 40 suffer more heart attacks than do women in the same age bracket.

Highly viscuous blood clots easily and such clotting is considered a factor that could promote heart attacks.

Contract Switch Sparks Concern

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — A current dispute over a relatively small defence contract illustrates a fundamental dilemma in government economic policy.

The contract concerns the repair and maintenance of four RCAF Argus anti - submarine planes. This work has been done by Fairey Aviation Company of Dartmouth, N.S., on sub-contract from Canadair Limited Montreal.

Through conditions attached to the main contract, informed sources said Thursday, the defence production department is in a position to determine whether the sub-contract remains with Fairey or reverts to Canadair.

The department has decided that the sub-contract should revert to Canadair, a wholly-owned subsidiary of General Dynamics Corporation of New York. Canadair has been hard-pressed for enough work to maintain its present staff.

Fairey and Maritimes MPs are protesting this decision and the matter is under review. In the meantime, Fairey has started laying off at least some of the 180 employees who would be affected.

FAIREY CHEAPER?

The defence production department claims Canadair can do the maintenance work at less cost than Fairey. Canadir made the plane in the first place and has the necessary spare parts.

Maritimes MPs say the department has drawn an unfair comparison by including Fairey costs which were concerned with modifications and not simply maintenance.

Their basic argument is that while the government calls for decentralization of industry and seeks to maintain defence capability in all regions, not only Quebec and Ontario, it is in this case centralizing industry and destroying defence capability in Nova Scotia.

These MPs, who include Liberals, say it is a contradiction to damage a Maritimes industry while providing tax write-offs for new industries in depressed areas and funds for the Atlantic development board, which is supposed to encourage industry in the Atlantic Provinces.

This is why they regard the Fairey contract as a key issue and why they are fighting the defence production department decision so hard.

S. African Race Policy Condemned

UNITED NATIONS (AP)— The United Nations Security Council condemned South Africa's policy of race separation (apartheid) once again Thursday and decided on an 8½-month study of possible measures to force an end to it.

A Bolivian - Norwegian compromise resolution against apartheid was adopted 8 to 0. France, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union abstained.

Africans and Asians had asked in a two-week debate that the council immediately impose economic penalties (sanctions) on South Africa.

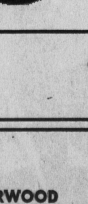
Q. What keeps all flowers, shrubs and plants Bug-Free?

A. New GREEN CROSS General Purpose Flower & Ornamental Spray



It works in two ways because it is both a SYSTEMIC and a RESIDUAL insecticide. Result: widest possible control of sucking and chewing insects and mites. We especially recommend it as an early season spray for evergreens and for all-season insect control on shrubs and flowering plants. It even protects new growth which appears after spraying.

Bonus: it's completely free of any objectionable odour.

For rose lovers, we advise regular use of GARDAL ROSE SPRAY with SYSTEMIC action. It controls insects and diseases which attack roses in particular.

Remember: SYSTEMICS ARE NOT WASHED OFF BY RAIN SINCE THEY ARE ACTUALLY WITHIN THE PLANT. They penetrate right into the sap stream and kill insects which suck the plant juices.
