

One Wins Two At Driving Park

There was only one double dash winner at the Charlottetown Driving Park last evening and upsets in a few dashes made for some excellent win pays. Little Art copped both ends of the free-for-all in times of 2:10.2 and 2:09.1 which was the fastest time of the evening. In both heats the Semple owned gelding was chased to the wire by Hi Jay.

Jolly May won the first dash as expected while Terry's Hal led the field to the wire in the second to bring about a pay of $10.00 in the first daily double. Owned by L. D. McPhee and trained by Elmer Clow, the chestnut mare set a new lifetime mark of 2:16.3 in racking up the victory.

Longsho, Free Chance headed the field home in the Excator feature and this win was worth $61.60 to a holder of a win ticket. Combined with the place position of Mr. Charmer the result was a $137.00 exactor return.

Wick's Ace came back from a sixth place finish in the third race to win the seventh in a record time of 2:14.2 and paid $27.40 and $33.60 across the board.

Other single winners on the card were Vernon River Gal, Cyclone Kelly and Mr. Charmer.

US, Britain Pro Golfers Deadlock In First Round

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Pro golfers from the United States and Britain played to a 4-4 deadlock Thursday in the opening matches of the Biennial Ryder Cup tournament.

The matches were alternated foursomes, each team shooting one ball over the par-73 Royal Birkdale layout.

Today, the same teams will play eight four-ball foursomes and the competition closes on Saturday with 16 man-to-man duels.

The matches were started in 1927 as a means of increasing interest in match play among pro golfers. The United States has won 12 times and Britain three.

Each side won two matches in the morning and two after lunch.

Probably never in the history of this competition has there been a greater change in a team's play than in that of Americans Arnold Palmer and Dave Marr.

TURNED TABLES

In the morning round against Dave Thomas and George Will, the Americans lost five of the first seven holes and were defeated 6 and 5. In the afternoon, the Americans defeated the same British pair by the same margin.

Asked what made the difference, Marr said: "It was my first Ryder Cup match. At the start I was nervous and by the third hole I was downright embarrassed."

Julius Boros and Tony Lema contributed a pair of points to the U.S. total. In the morning round they squeezed past Lionel Platts and Peter Butler, 1 up, by getting a birdie four on the 518-yard 18th. After lunch, they crushed Jimmy Martin and Jimmy Hitchcock, 5 and 4, by getting four birdies before the turn.

Jilly Casper and Gene Littler won in the morning but lost in the afternoon to Christy O'Connor and Peter Allis, possibly the best British pair of the day, 2 and 1. Before lunch, the two Californians mastered Bernie Hunt and Neil Coles, also 2 and 1.

Ken Venturi and Don January lost both their outings. In the morning they bowed to O'Connor and Allis, 5 and 4, and in the afternoon they dropped a 3 and 2 verdict to Hunt and Coles.

Dodgers Quip After 2nd Loss

By BOB MYERS
 MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — All was not catastrophic in the Los Angeles Dodger dressing room Thursday despite their second straight loss to Minnesota Twins in the World Series.

Relief pitcher Ron Perranoski managed a quip when a friend in jest asked the question: "What was the turning point in the game?"

"When it stopped raining," he answered. Manager Walter Alton, retaining his good humor following Dodgers' 5-1 loss echoed the quip.

"I'll be glad when we change ball parks," said Maury Wills. He emphasized he had no complaints about the Twins' Metropolitan Stadium.

"No, the weather, the mound, the park had nothing to do with it," said the Dodgers' star left-hander, Sandy Koufax. "I just didn't have the control I needed against this team."

Alton said he'd be glad to get back to Los Angeles, too, when the series resumes Saturday.

"I know we'll have better weather, and I hope we can score more runs," the skipper said.

He recalled that in 1955 the then Brooklyn Dodgers fell two games behind and came back to win the series, and in 1956 they were two games in front and lost.

Koufax was wild with his high breaking stuff. Alton continued, a view shared by the pitcher himself.

Alton explained why he had Wes Parker sacrifice in the seventh with two runners on base and none out.

"With our kind of power we try at a point like that for a tie and hope to get the winning run later," Alton said.

Wills was on his own after he led off the sixth with a single and was on his way to steal second when Jim Gilliam grounded out. Alton went on.

It was his only chance of the gloomy afternoon to give the fans what they were yelling for, a display of his base running talent.

RCAF Lose Protest

HALIFAX (CP) — Jack Gary, president of the Maritime Softball Association, announced Thursday that a protest lodged by Dartmouth, N.S., after the final game of the Maritime Senior "A" series at Summerside, P.E.I., has been upheld and the game will be replayed.

Gary said Dartmouth protested an umpire's decision in the seventh inning of last Saturday's game, won by Summerside RCAF 3-4. Summerside won the first game of the best-of-three series at Dartmouth.

The final game will be replayed Saturday at Summerside.

Kaat Outpitches Koufax; Twins Snatch 2-0 Margin

FORT MINNESOTA
 MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The scrappy Minnesota Twins, again led by scrawny little Zolito Versalles, beat Sandy Koufax Thursday and went two up on Los Angeles Dodgers with a 5-1 victory in the second World Series game behind the pitching of Jim Kaat.

ZOLO VERSALLES

Heading to Los Angeles where the best-of-seven series will be resumed Saturday afternoon after an open date today for travel, the American League champions were in an enviable position. They had whipped the Dodgers' fearsome pair of Koufax and Don Drysdale, and were brimming with confidence.

Only four teams have come back to win the series after losing the first two.

The 25-year-old Kaat turned in a superb job with a seven-hitter while the Dodgers defence collapsed with three errors. Jim Gilliam, the 36-year-old coach who returned to action at third base in May, opened the gates in the Twins' two-run sixth inning with a two-base error.

ECLIPSED WILLS

For the second straight day Versalles outshone Maury Wills, his shortstop rival, both at bat and on the bases. Zolito, the 155-pound Cuban, scored two runs and contributed a triple to the Twins' attack. He also danced the third base line and sped home as he forced Ron Perranoski into a wild pitch in the seventh.

To put the icing on the cake for the sellout crowd of 48,700 that watched in 56-degree temperature and persistent drizzle, Ullt Gilliam opened the door with his misplay, Koufax and Kaat were locked in a shutout duel. Each had allowed only three hits and Sandy, who set a modern major league strike-out record with 32 in the regular season, had struck out eight in five innings.

After Gilliam's error, Joe Nosenk's sacrifice, the double by Oliva and Killebrew's single, the Twins were never headed. They had a chance to open the lead wider but Koufax struck out Bob Allison and made Don Mincher ground out to end the sixth.

The big Dodger threat came in the seventh when Ron Fairly and Jim Lefebvre opened up on Kaat with singles to left. Wes Parker's sacrifice moved the runners and Johnny Roseboro's single to right scored Fairly.

With the score 2-1 and men on second and third, Dodger manager Walter Alton called on Drysdale, his top hitter with a .300 average, as a pinch hitter. Big Don went down swinging, missing three straight pitches by the Minnesota left-hander.

DESPERATE TRY

Ron hurried his pitch and bounced one into the dirt that Roseboro blocked but couldn't hold. Roseboro tried a desperate backhand toss to the plate but there was no play as Versalles scored. Perranoski was charged with a wild pitch.

The Twins broke it wide open in the eighth. A walk to Harmon Killebrew, a double by Allison and an intentional walk to Frank Quicli following a balk loaded the base with two out. Kaat, a dangerous hitter all season, singled to centre, scoring two more runs that put the game beyond recall.

Kaat wavered momentarily in the ninth. After striking out Fairly, he allowed a single by Lefebvre and then hit Parker with a pitch. But he bore down on Bob Miller, who replaced Perranoski after Kaat's hit. He lined the ball back to Kaat for the final out.

GREAT CLIMAX

It was a great climax for Kaat in his first series appearance. The final liner was his fifth putout, a series record for a pitcher in a nine-inning game.

The big fielding play of the day was a diving catch by Allison on a ball hit by Lefebvre near the left field line in the fifth. Fairly, who had opened the fifth with a single, was on base and would have scored easily if Allison had not made his sensational sliding stab.

In sharp contrast to the brilliant fielding by the Twins, Gilliam was charged with two errors. Left fielder Lou Johnson fumbled Killebrew's single in the fourth for the third error. Gilliam threw wildly to first after taking Nosenk's grounder in the seventh, after making the big error in the sixth.

Both managers said they would stay with their announced pitchers for Saturday's third game.

That means Claude Osteen, 15-13, a left-hander who was successful against the Twins when he pitched for Washington in 1964, will go for Dodgers. Sam Mele will use Camilo Pascual, (Continued on page 9)

Allison's Catch Called Greatest

By LEW FERGUSON
 MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bob Allison's diving, roll-over catch of a slicing fly ball in the fifth inning choked off a potential Los Angeles explosion and sent Minnesota Twins on their way to victory Thursday, as Twins Manager Sam Mele viewed it.

"I don't know when I've seen a catch like that," Mele said. "It was a tremendous catch. It could have meant something big for the Dodgers if the ball had dropped in there."

"It had a heck of a lot to do with our winning. They could have had a big rally going. I didn't think he had a chance for it. I tell you the truth, it was curving away from him."

The Twins won the second game of the World Series 5-1 and took a 2-0 lead.

Allison said it had to be the greatest catch he ever made, "because it came in a World Series."

"I thought I had a 50-50 chance when I went after the ball," Allison added.

Harmon Killebrew, who had as good a view of the drive off Jim Lefebvre's bat as anybody's from third base position, said "I didn't think Bob had a chance in the world to catch it. That may have saved the game."

The catch came after Ron Fairly had led off the Dodger fifth with a single. Wes Parker beat out an infield hit after the catch, but Jim Kaat got out of the inning by getting the next two batters to foul out.

Then the Twins scored two runs in the sixth inning to take a lead they never relinquished.

Mele cautiously talked of a four-game sweep.

EAGER TO SWEEP

"I'd love to sweep," he said, "but they're a tough outfit, and you've got to lay heads out all the time. I've been telling you guys we're pretty tough, too."

BOB ALLISON

Two balls the Dodgers hit for singles when they scored their only run in the seventh inning dropped just in front of outfielders.

"No, I didn't think Allison had a chance to catch Fairly's hit," Mele said.

Winning pitcher Jim Kaat said, "nobody expected me to beat Koufax, anyway." I told myself he had to beat me between the foul lines. But when I saw him throw after an inning, I thought I'd better not give up a run."

Mele said he had no intention of ordering a walk to Roseboro in the seventh to get to the pitcher.

SAID TOUGH

Killebrew called Koufax "just as tough as I expected. It's definitely a big lift to beat him." Then the slugger added: "We've hit Claude Osteen in some games; maybe we can again."

Pitcher Kaat Outpowers LA

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jim Kaat was a happy World Series winner Thursday because he refused to be awed by Sandy Koufax and ignored the scouting reports on the Los Angeles Dodgers' hitters.

Minnesota Twins employed four high-priced scouts who spent many weeks and thousands of dollars to gather information on the Dodger hitters meant to be useful to the Twins' pitchers.

So what did Kaat do? He didn't pay the slightest bit of attention to the scouting reports.

The 25-year-old southpaw must have been doing something right because he allowed the Dodgers only seven hits in outpitching Koufax and bringing the Twins their second straight victory 5-1.

"I didn't even bother to go over the scouting reports," said the Kaat. "I just pitched according to my own strength."

IGNORED DETAIL

"I figured I knew all I had to know about them so why become confused with a lot of detail. For example, I know the Dodgers are a low-ball hitting team. I'm a low-ball pitcher. That's my strength. If I pitched high, I'd be going with my weakness."

"This way it was strength against strength, and I figured

White Rose?

What kind of name is that for a gasoline?

We think it's a good one. Everyone figures that White Rose got its name because of some kind of flower. Or some special scent that was used in the gasoline. Or because the president's wife liked the name. Sorry. White Rose, as a symbol of purity, was the name given to a kerosene product that was the cleanest-burning, most uniform kerosene one could buy. The name carried over to a gasoline noted for its high performance. And to a dealer known for his knowledge, competence, concern for your car and top quality products. That's how it all started. Try a tankful of White Rose gasoline, you'll see a difference. And if you want your car looked after, try us. White Rose. It's one of the best names in the business.

If you want your car looked after, try us.
