

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

OCTOBER 26, 1888.

Some Errors Pointed Out.

SIR RICHARD having given the word, the organs of the Opposition all over the country are again striving to boom the almost dead question of Commercial Union or Unrestricted Reciprocity.

As to the first of these statements: Every one will remember that throughout the seasons in which the alleged causes for war were created, the Grit press, (the Patriot included), was loudest of all in condemning the Government for not guarding more sedulously the rights of Canada in the fisheries, and prosecuting the offending United States fishermen more actively and more sternly.

It does not, therefore, lie in the mouth of the Grit press, (including the Patriot), to condemn the Government now, on the allegation that their acts, while protecting the fisheries, provoked in the United States a feeling of hostility to Canada and threats of retaliation.

"It was a fair treaty, and I believe after the Presidential election is over, after the temporary fever has subsided, and when they get down to the calm coolness that characterizes the Americans, they will look with more favorable eyes upon the treaty, and that they will have another arrangement based on the same lines and principles as the treaty which they have rejected."

That is the policy of the Government in respect to the fisheries; and we leave it to the reasonable people of this Province and the other Provinces of Canada to decide whether or not it is a policy calculated, as the Patriot says it is, to provoke war.

But how about Reciprocity? Is the Government opposed to trading as freely with the United States as is consistent with the interests of Canada, the preservation of our trade with Great Britain and Europe, and the position of a country forming an integral part of the British Empire? Not at all.

I had great pleasure in receiving your letter of May 24th, evincing as it does the importance which you attach to an amicable adjustment of the fisheries question and the maintenance of the cordial commercial relations between the United States and Canada.

Do the words and tone of this letter accord with the statement that the British are utterly opposed to reciprocity of trade with the United States? Certainly not.

are utterly opposed to reciprocity of trade with the United States? Certainly not. While at Washington, Sir Charles Tupper, acting for the Government of Canada, acting with the knowledge and consent of the Government of Canada, made to the Commissioners the following proposition:

"That with a view of removing all causes of difference in connection with the fisheries, it is proposed by Her Majesty's Plenipotentiaries that the fishermen of both countries shall have all the privileges enjoyed during the existence of the fishery articles of the Treaty of Washington in consideration of mutual arrangements providing for greater freedom of commercial intercourse between the United States and Canada and Newfoundland."

In the face of these formal and deliberate statements of its policy, how can Sir Richard and his press seriously contend before the intelligent people of Canada, that the Government is opposed to free trade and the most friendly political relations with the United States?

As to the statement of the Patriot that under the Protective Policy of Canada, "wages are becoming practically smaller by reason of their purchasing power being less," we ask—we challenge—the Patriot to point to another decade in which a dollar, or a hundred dollars, would purchase more in Canada, or in this Province of Canada, than in the decade of the National Policy, which closes this year.

The Parnell "Times" Commission.

When the Parnell Commission resumed its sitting on Wednesday, Sir Charles Russell, counsel for Parnell, demanded the production of certain letters, which the Times possessed, alleged to have been written by Dillon, Biggar and other members of Parliament.

Sir Charles Russell, when asked for particulars of the charges against Parnell and those involved with him, said Michael Davitt claimed to appear for himself. The court assented.

Justice Harmon, President of the Commission, said the court was of opinion that all particulars were given which were required. The Attorney-General informed the court that the other side still continued to disobey orders for the production of the League Bank books.

Justice Harmon intimated that if the refusal to produce the books was final, the court would have recourse to its powers to compel their production. Attorney-General Webster then continued the presentation of the Times case, making further review of the article on "Parnellism and Crime."

Patrik Egan, of Lincoln, Neb., ex-President of the Irish National League, who is in Paris, was asked by a New York Herald reporter on Wednesday, what he thought of the enquiry being made by the Parnell Commission.

(The Vancouver World.)

All the liars are not dead yet. One still lives in Charlottetown, P. E. I. His name is Charles Walker and it seems he walked he rails west, on a "pleasure trip" and sold the result of his observations from that democratic highway to the Patriot.

The Emperor William's visit has left the best impressions among all classes in Rome. The Popolo Romano says the Emperor has seen how in free Rome one does homage to the Pope who goes to do honor to the head of the Catholic Church, and how the Pontiff, free from the ties of temporal power, can dedicate himself exclusively to his high mission for the benefit of the Church.

Mrs. Moore, who is seventy years of age, passed through Bangor a few days ago from Fredericton, on her way to Lowell, Mass., where she will visit relatives. She has come into the possession of $1,000,000, as is reported, through the death of a near relative in Belfast, Ireland. She has always worked for a living, and her great wealth comes to her quite unexpectedly.

Sir Charles Dilke says that he is at present preparing a new edition of "Greater Britain" and other imperal literary work will fully take up his time till he can finally and triumphantly show that he is not the bad abandoned man which the Crawford trial led many to believe he was.
