Navy League Week, A Time For Tribute

All the bitterness of the war and especially the tremendous loss of lives and ships in the Atlantic were recalled as "Battle of the Atlantic" Sunday officially opened Canada's celebrations of Navy League Week.

In its own way the week pays tribute to many men (and women) in a variety of sea roles. They range from the Royal Canadian Navy and the famed Merchant Navy all the way along to include Wrens and Cadets of all classifications.

But it is not only in wartime these various branches of the services are at work. They have a vital peacetime role to play in training Canadian youth and preparing it to meet any future challenge.

Here in Prince Edward Island the days of shore establishment have ended, but it left a record of which all naval men may be justly proud both for its wartime training effort and the peacetime esprit de corps HMCS Queen Charlotte maintained as a parod tradition.

However, naval service to country in far from a thing of the past here. Right in Charlottetown the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Keat has 60 boys in training while the Navy League Cadet Corps Hyndman has another 65. Up west the RCSCC Summerside has 35 boys and down east RCSCC Souris has another 22 enrolled. These are the reasons the support of all is asked for Navy League Week.

11 Cases Appear On Docket Before Acting Magistrate

In the Queen's County Magistrate's Court yesterday 11 cases were on the docket before C.R. McQuaid, acting magistrate for the next three weeks while James B. Johnston is on holidays.

Allan MacKenzie Fleming of 193 King Street, charged with indecent assault, had his case remanded until May 5 for plea and election. John Holmes is representing the accused.

Nelson Warren Buell, Murray River, charged with impaired driving had his case heard yesterday morning. The Crown called two witnesses, Constable MacLeod of the Souris detachment and Constable Hopkins of the Charlottetown detachment. Kenneth MacDonald, counsel for the accused, called Mr. Buell as the only defense witness. Mr. Buell was remanded until May 5 for sentencing.

John Nelson Dawson Hooper, Parkdale, charged with using a badge in manner that others may think he was a police officer had his case adjourned until May 10.

James Angus McInnis, Tracadie, charged with obstructing a police officer had his case adjourned until May 5 for plea.

Charles Bernard Adams, charged with angling with more than one line had his case adjourned until May 10 for hearing.

Bernard Richard Mason, Moncton, was fined $50 and costs for leaving the scene of an accident.

There were five liquor cases on the docket, one was adjourned, and two accused were fined $20 and costs for intoxication in a public place and two others were fined $25 and costs for possession.

against rescinding the 11-per cent sales tax on building supplies and production machinery and the proposal for a Canada Development Corporation.

He said it would have been foolish to embark on major changes to the Excise Act before the royal commission on taxation has reported.

The finance minister said he is sympathetic to some complaints about the tax, but argued the issue should be kept in perspective.

"The sales tax is deductible in one way or another in computing the taxable incomes of corporations. This means that if a corporation pays tax at 50 per cent, the effect of the 11-per cent tax is reduced by half, that is, to 5 1/2 per cent.

"If the equipment on which the sales tax is levied lasts five years, the extra costs thus works out at about one per cent. This is not insignificant, but neither is it completely devastating as the current level of corporation profits would seem to show."

MAKES CRITICISM — Mr. Gordon also criticized former Conservative finance minister Donald Fleming for his recent attack on the Canada Development Corporation.

He described Mr. Fleming's comments as a "21-gun salvo" and said he does not know whether it was motivated by a desire to get back in the news in case there is a Conservative leadership vacancy or whether Mr. Fleming was speaking on behalf of certain investment companies "with which he is said to be now associated."

Mr. Gordon said most Canadians are concerned about the increasing degree of absentee control of Canadian business and resources. But any effort to do anything about the matter are "inevitably criticized."

The finance minister concluded that by voting against the government on the budget the opposition would be registering a vote against tax cuts, expansionary measures and an improvement in employment conditions.

Campbell Case Dismissed On Charge Of Negligence

Leo Brendon Campbell of Kelly's Cross RR 2, charged with negligence in the death of I. H. Somers, had the case against him dismissed at a preliminary hearing in city police court yesterday.

The charge arose from an accident March 6 when Somers was killed while walking on North River Road.

Following testimony of 10 witnesses, Magistrate J. Haslam, QC, said there was "not sufficient evidence to put this man on trial for such a serious charge."

Crown Prosecutor Alan Scales called eight witnesses. Raymond John Murphy of Murphy's Service Station, Charlottetown, testified that he had checked on March 7 the 1956 model car driven by Campbell and found it to be in good driving condition, although the speedometer was not working, the muffler was off and the front of the engine bonnet was damaged.

IDENTIFIED PHOTOS — Sgt. Charles Ready, city police, who was called to the scene of the accident at 1.05 a.m., identified photographs taken at the scene and he had taken measurements later that morning. He also listed articles found at the scene.

Sergeant Ready said the pavement was damp at the time of the accident and the visibility was poor. He said he saw the accused at about 1.30 a.m. and again shortly after 3 a.m., and said he could smell liquor off the accused's breath but would not say he was impaired.

Cpl. Robert Williams of the RCMP identified a plan of the accident which he had drawn from the measurements given him by Sergeant Ready.

Dr. John Craig, provincial pathologist, described findings of a post mortem examination on the deceased.

E. S. Chandler of North River Road said the accused had come to his house the night of the accident and asked him to call the RCMP and an ambulance. He described Campbell as being perturbed but would not say he was drinking.

GLARE FROM STREET — Beverly Richards of Sherwood testified that he had been travelling towards Charlottetown on the North River Road following the accident. He said the deceased was wearing dark clothes and street-lights were causing a glare on the wet surface of the pavement, affecting the visibility.

Also giving evidence were Constable Dave Bigger, city police; Sandra Gail MacDonald, Churchill, a passenger in the car driven by Campbell; and Ivan Somers, father of the deceased, who said he had seen the accused around 4 a.m. and that the accused appeared to be unsteady on his feet and under the influence of alcohol.

Mr. Scales read the evidence of Douglas Blair MacDonald given at the inquest.

Magistrate Haslam said he would expect the car to be more seriously damaged if the accused was travelling at a high rate of speed at the time of the accident. "Both the accused and his witness stated that the car was not travelling at a high rate of speed and so it can't be presumed otherwise. All the police witnesses, Miss Campbell and Mr. Chandler stated that the accused was not impaired."

Defence counsel was John P. Nicholson.

OTHER CASES — In other cases on the docket, two persons were each fined $25 and costs for failing to stop at the scene of an accident.

The accused were Alexander Smith of Ottawa and Thomas Arthur Dawson of Charlottetown. For speeding, John Wallace MacNeill of Milton, was fined $10 and costs or five days.

Harold Prunty, city, charged with not sending a child to school had his case adjourned until June 7.

Raymond Watts, city, was fined $10 and costs or five days for failing to yield the right of way.

Joseph Clark Sherren, city, was fined $10 and costs for operating a motor vehicle without registration.

There were five cases of drunk and incapable. Two of the accused were each fined $20 and costs or 20 days, two were fined $20 and costs or 10 days and the fifth was fined $10 and costs or five days.

One person was fined $20 and costs or 20 days for loitering.
